EOKA Calls Truce While Problem Considered At UN

NICOSIA, Cyprus (Reuters)—The Greek-Cypriot underground has declared a truce in its fight against British rule to give the United Nations a chance to solve the violence-torn island's problems. But it warned Saturday that if the world body fails to find a solution in its debates beginning this week the underground's "struggle" will be intensified. For the present, the underground's activities will be "confined only to reciprocating our opponent's moves," said leaflets signed by Col. George Griavass, leader of the EOKA underground under his pseudonym "Digenis".

as British forces were pressing a major campaign against the underground. Britain instituted a "partnership" plan on Oct. 1 for governing the island in conjunction with Greece and Turkey. But Greece rejected the plan and since then 85 Britons have been killed and 180 wounded. Last week was the first since Oct. 1 that there have been no British deaths. The Griavass leaflet charged that the British forces had acted in anticipation of the UN debate, "when they knew we would restrict our activities, to launch large-scale operations with the sole aim of utilizing the results to raise their crumbling morale." A Greek-Cypriot spokesman, commenting on the leaflet, said: "This will probably be the last chance for the UN and Britain to find a solution on the Cyprus problem peacefully." But a Turkish-Cypriot said: "This is a well-known EOKA tactic and is intended to gain time to reorganize the EOKA ranks." The longest previous truce was from March, 1957, to February, 1958, during which Archbishop Makarios, leader of the Greek Cypriot movement for independence, was released from exile in the Seychelles islands in the Indian ocean.

Montague Principal Is New Federation Pres.

John Hughes Principal of Montague High School was elected president of the Board of Governors of the P.E.I. Teachers Federation at an annual meeting of the board held Friday evening at Prince of Wales College. Other officers elected included: First vice-president, Mrs. Marjorie Dover; second vice president, Frank Costello; general secretary, Miss Estelle Bonness; secretary treasurer, Miss Winnifred Hayter; recording secretary, Miss Mabel O'Brien.

The following committees were appointed: nominations: J. R. Murphy, Helen MacIsaac and D. J. MacArthur; resolutions: Francis Blanchard, Mrs. Marjorie Chapman, Earle Jelley; Press: Sister St. Mary Charles, R.A. Grindlay, W. McQuirk. GIVES REVIEW Miss Matheson in her address to the board gave a comprehensive review of the year's activities, stressing the gains of the past few years in the higher standards set for entrance to Teacher Training, the placing of this later on a university level and the upgrading of licences. All these tend toward desirable educational reforms, she said.

In her report on the provincial conference on education held at Charlottetown, Miss Matheson commented on the remarkable demonstration of cooperation and understanding of basic problems displayed by all the sponsoring organizations, 80 per cent of whose delegates represented rural areas. In no other province had there been a swifter or more practical "follow-up" of the lead given in the Canadian conference at Ottawa.

Several other interesting reports on educational activities of the past school year were presented. Miss Estelle Bonness spoke with reference to the fourth Atlantic Provinces educational conference, at St. John's, Newfoundland last month, where, again, the need for qualified teachers, higher income standards, and increased salaries were topics stressed. Mr. Hughes, who attended the C.T.F. conference at Niagara Falls this summer reminded the members that the teachers of P.E.I. might be justly proud of some of the gains of the past few years which compared favorably with those of other provinces, notably, the cumulative sickleave arrangement.

A well deserved tribute to Miss Matheson, retiring president, for her intelligent planning, her tireless efforts and her leadership was voiced by Miss Estelle Bonness. The newly elected executive took office on Saturday.

SPECIAL AREA The 108 acres of Vatica City in Rome are international territory, foreign soil even to Italians.

From One Cook to Another by Mary Blake Garnation Home Service Director

MOST WOMEN AGREE that luncheon and supper pose a meal-planning problem. So perhaps you will welcome some ideas for more interesting luncheons and suppers! Keep in mind a few good sauces — and use them in a variety of creamed and casserole dishes. Be sure your sauces are smooth and rich-flavored, by making them with double-rich Carnation Evaporated Milk. Carnation's special blending qualities give smoothness to sauces not possible with any other form of milk. Here's a meat dish with an easy Carnation sauce recipe that illustrates what I mean!

CORNED BEEF SAVANNAH (Makes 4 servings) 2 tbsps. butter 2 tbsps. flour ¼ tsp. salt ¼ tsp. pepper 1 large can undiluted CARNATION EVAPORATED MILK 1 12-ounce can corned beef, diced 2 hard-cooked eggs, chopped ½ cup diced celery ¼ cup chopped green pepper (optional) Blend butter, flour and seasonings together in saucepan over low heat until smooth. Gradually stir in undiluted Carnation. Continue stirring until thickened and smooth. Add remaining ingredients. Heat and serve on toast.

Supper is a "Natural" for lunches and suppers. I mean of course, the hearty and nourishing kind that needs only a sandwich or salad to complete the meal. To put important nourishment into soups — and to make them rich and smooth as no other form of milk can do — make yours with better-blending Carnation. RICHER-FLAVORED CANNED SOUP Combine 1 can of your favorite soup (tomato, green pea, chicken, etc.), ½ cup (small can) undiluted Carnation Evaporated Milk and ½ cup water. Heat to just below boiling and serve at once.

More and more these days Canadians are "reaming" their coffee with fresh-tasting Carnation. Carnation makes coffee taste so good — because Carnation is the evaporated milk that tastes most like cream. Carnation looks and pours like fresh cream, yet it costs only half as much as light cream.

U.S. Output Of Steel Near Top For This Year

CLEVELAND (AP) — It appears that steel production—now at 75 per cent of capacity—is near its 1958 peak and will not reach an anticipated rate of 85 per cent by the end of the year. Steel magazine reported Sunday. The metalworking weekly said the auto industry will step up production schedules during the final weeks of the year but steel-makers aren't as optimistic as they were a few weeks ago.

"Any increase in automotive requirements," steel said, "unless it's unexpectedly sharp, will simply offset seasonal declines in construction steel and tin plate." Furnaces were operated at 75 per cent of capacity last week—half a point below the previous week. Production was about 2,024,000 net tons of steel for ingots and castings. Scrap prices declined last week in a slow market. Steel's composite price on the prime grades dropped $1.66 a ton to $40.67 as weakness developed in the east and in Pittsburgh.

MP Sees Early Gov't. Move To Improve Transportation

An early move by the federal government towards improving the present transportation facilities between this province and the mainland was forecast Saturday by John A. Macdonald, M.P. Interviewed following his return from a week-long visit to Ottawa and Toronto, the Kings County representative in the House of Commons said that transportation officials in Ottawa were well aware of this island problem. "I feel confident that increased facilities to handle the constantly increasing traffic will soon be made available," Hon. Mr. Macdonald declared. But he warned that in the general concern for such, the public should not forget the causeway project. "We should keep always before us the paramount urgency of the earliest possible construction of the Northumberland Causeway, and not lose sight of that most desirable objective."

Differences

(Continued from page 1) was that students when given responsibility should realize fully what that responsibility entails. It is essential, he said, that as leaders they should know exactly what they are supposed to do. In the discussion which followed the address, the presidents of the student councils of the universities represented, suggested the part that student organizations should play in the overall life of a university. Saturday's program was broadcast.
