

Executive, newspaper, Yearbook, Radio Station, Campus Police, Ombudsperson, and a large multi-purpose facility for major events.

Student Resource centre, Daycare centre, ...
On March 18th the referendum questions about the Student Centre/building Fund will have been introduced and discussed at the Student Union's General meeting. If there are more questions, concerns or suggestions, please drop into the Barn and/or talk to any of the Student Council. We need your input.
April 1st/2nd

QUESTION #1 - "Are you in favour of the challenge of the 80's student fee of $5.00, which has now expired replaced with a fee of the same amount, the proceeds of which are to be used in the eventual construction of a new student centre?"

QUESTION #2 - "Would you be in favour if an additional 45.00 fee being implemented towards the building fund, bringing the total contribution per student to $10.00?"

UPEI PARENTS PLEDGE DOLLARS

The Sentners were among the first parents to offer their financial support to the UPEI Parents Program and raising drive. After a recent phonathon to approximately one thousand parents, over $5000 had been pledged with more dollars coming in to UPEI daily. "The response has been wonderful!", says Harry Snow, "When I talked to parents on the phone, they were really excited about being more involved with the University. They were pleased that their donations would buy books for the Robertson Library. It's a great Program."

The UPEI Parents Program is in its first year and it involves much more than fund raising for interested parents. Involvement with Student Union concerns, and activities in helping organize next year's orientation event for parents are also part of the new Program under the leadership of David and Janet Knickle, parents of three UPEI students. For more information, interested parents should call 566-0615, the UPEI Department of Alumni, Development and Public Relations.

Business Society Pub

By Nola MacDonald

Last Thursday, the Business Society hosted a pub at the Barn. The entertainment for the evening was provided by three different bands, Men Without Hairs, Madd Capp, and Step Child.

Men Without Hairs were performing in the Panther Lounge. Edgar and Victor were really more of a comedy duo than a band. However, most of their comedy involved music. They sang things like "Blowin' in the Wind" but instead of answers blowing, it was cocaine. They also did celebrity impressions and told lots of bald jokes. The first set was really funny, but it seemed like that's where they slotted most of the jokes, because in the second set they sang a lot more and were not as entertaining.

Meanwhile, on the second floor, Madd Capp and Step Child took turns performing for a rather small crowd. I did not actually get to see Madd Capp, but everyone I talked to who did said that the lead singer, Jason Shaw, had an amazing voice. I did hear Step Child for a few minutes, and they were really good.

Overall, I did have a really good time, and most of the people there seemed to be having fun. I wish that everything had not been at the same time, however. In my opinion, the Business Pub was successful.

(Left to right) Harry Snow,
Marilyn Sentner, Clifford Sentner