A Contrast.
Two men toiled side by side from sun to sun,
And both were poor;
Both sat with children, when the day was done,
About their door.

One saw the beautiful in crimson cloud
And shining moon;
The other, with his head in sadness bowed,
Made night of noon.

One loved each tree and flower and singing bird
On mount or plain;
No music in the soul of one was stirred
By leaf or rain.

One saw the good in every fellow-man,
And hoped the best;
The other marvelled at his Master's plan,
And doubt confessed.

One, having heaven above and heaven below,
Was satisfied;
The other, discontented, lived in woe,
And hopeless died.

Weeds and Parasites on the Farm.

"Dung well the land and clear the soil,
Nor intermit your useful toil,
And still more let the barren mind
Assiduous care and culture find;
Believe the friendly poet's strains,
Both labours will repay your pains."

The above was the heading of a little pamphlet on Agriculture, published by the late Judge Peters in the interest of the farmers of P. E. Island, some thirty-five years ago, and which contained many practical suggestions, one of which would have been pretty tough on the Judge if he put it into practical experience, namely, that when a farmer went to hoe a field of turnips, he should not raise his eyes from his work till he heard the dinner bell.

Being a man of stern purpose no doubt he carried his views a little to the extreme; but I hope his son, who is now Leader of our Local Government, will, with assiduous care and culture, keep his civil servants and his followers as closely at work.

In the Island Farmer of August 6th there is an article on the subject of "Manures and Fertilizers," with a condensed statement of their analyzed values, which goes to show what is to be obtained as manurial agents from marsh muck, swamp mud and mussel mud, taken from our river bottoms. This information is obtained from our experimental station at Ottawa and is of great value to our farmers, for if the differences of specific value to the growth of plants and roots can only be known through the direct action of external causes, then we must put forth our best systematized efforts to bring together those modifying influences and constituents which will give the greatest amount of nutrition to the crops we are in the habit of raising, and thus placing ourselves outside of the ring of suspended judgment, in which we often find ourselves in a condition of doubt as to which is the best, best for certain soils, grains and roots. A man would fall into a serious error were he to imagine that there was not a vigorous practical intelligence amongst our farmers. But it is strange to what an extent of recklessness we have gone in the purchase of seeds.

With the seeds, weeds and parasites, the most objectionable rubbish, have been sown on many farms, from which it will be almost impossible to eradicate them. The poet sings: "Dung well the land, nor intermit your useful toil." The fact is, there is no intermission of toil where there are weeds, for the weeds are like pickpockets who steal your purse—"who steals my purse steals trash;"—but weeds steal that which is better than pure gold, and it is only by eternal vigilance that they can be stopped from taking entire possession of our fields. Our main road and railway track is a nursery for thistles and weeds. Many of our fields are white as snow with the ox-eyed daisy, the yellow golden crown of the tallest grain, and the mustard plant, with its beautiful flowers bending their petals to the ground with seed that has a force or energy equal to seven years' occupation of our Island domain.

Then as to parasites. A long-tailed, tentacled, horned, black fly has joined partnership with the Colorado beetle this summer, for the purpose of destroying the potato vines, stopping their breathing process, and like the aphid on the grain, they are absorbing the food supply of the cells and injuring the cell walls of the plant. They are impairing the power of assimilation, and weakening the growth by curling the leaves and forming black spots of mould. If our Island Government intend to do anything in the way of erecting an Experimental Station in place of the old Model Farm, or Stock Farm, as it has been called, the sooner it is done the better.

What the farmers want is practical information, both as to the nature, life and habits of parasites, with the best remedies necessary for their destruction. The time has come when something must be done, as the past two years' experience may occur again, even although we have every prospect of a good crop this year.

Who?
Who is it mars all beauty?
Blends bitter with all sweet?
Steals the heart out of duty?
Sows tares among our wheat?

Who is it fans our passions
Into a mortal flame?
What craft is it that fashions
Our gold to things of shame?

With poison drugs our wine-cup?
Mixes death with our bread?
Haunts and torments the living?
And will not spare the dead?

Who bids, ere we receive it,
Our life to small and low?
And mocks us when we leave it,
With prophecy of woe?

Farewell Supper.
On the evening of the 7th inst. the members of the Thistle Club entertained Mr. T. M. Patton—who is about to move his camp to Charlottetown, to commence business in the dry goods line with his brother Charlie, of the Charlottetown Woolen Co.—to a supper served in a style more than creditable to the prince of caterers, J. M. Learment, of the Hotel Windsor.

Mayor Sinclair occupied the chair, and in a felicitous speech, referring in glowing terms to Mr. Patton's many sterling qualities and great popularity, expressed his regret at the loss of the community of New Glasgow was about to sustain by the removal of such a man. He then presented Mr. Patton with a handsome carbuncle scarf pin as a slight token of the esteem in which he was held by the members of the Club, and the following address:—
To Thomas M. Patton:—

DEAR SIR,—On the eve of your departure from New Glasgow, we, a few of your many friends, desire in a few words to express our warm friendship and attachment towards you and the high respect in which you are held by all in our town with whom you have come in contact.

Your genial and unselfish disposition, and willingness to assist in promoting the general good, will cause you long to be remembered. In athletic circles your presence and energies have crowned every effort with success and inspired our boys with a zest for many sports which has resulted in giving New Glasgow such a name as victors on the field and with the ear that we feel proud of our town and aim at greater achievements in those many sports which ever found in you such a warm and enthusiastic advocate.

As a member of the "Thistle Club," under whose auspices we met to-night, it is not too much to say, that your active interest in the society's welfare aided much in bringing this new institution, which is proving such a pleasant retreat for our young men, up to its present prosperous condition, and the removing of your name from our roll of membership will be deeply regretted.

As a citizen and business man so useful and energetic, your absence will cause a blank which cannot soon be filled. We feel that what is our loss is Charlottetown's gain, and to that fair city in the "Gem of the Gulf," you carry with you our best wishes for commercial success and a happy future for yourself and family.

If ever you again pull up your stakes let it be to return to our little city, where you will be welcomed by many whose wish now is that you were not going away.

"Will ye noe come back again?"—and while absent from sight let this small parting token of esteem be a pleasant memento of the days you spent in New Glasgow where you leave behind you not an enemy, but every one a friend.

THISTLE CLUB.
New Glasgow, N. S., Aug. 7, 1891.
Mr. Patton suitably responded, saying he would ever cherish in his memory the pleasant time he had spent while in New Glasgow, and the general courtesy he had always received at the hands of those with whom he had come in contact.

All in New Glasgow join the scribe in wishing success to Tom in his new undertaking. May the sun of prosperity shed his luminous rays on him and his, and after his departure may he not forget his old friends, but come and see us occasionally. He will be certain of a right royal reception.
New Glasgow, Aug. 13, 1891.

The Largest Plank in the World.
The N. W. Lumberman gives an engraving from a photograph of a redwood plank that is 16 feet 5 inches wide, 12 feet 9 inches long, and 5 inches thick, and is about 90 per cent. clear. It was taken from a tree 35 feet in diameter and 300 feet high. According to its rinks it was more than 1,500 years old. The tree was cut 28 feet from the ground, and the plank was hewed out of the stump, representing a section taken from near the heart to the bark. After it was displaced it was lowered by block and tackle, with a locomotive for power. In the way of labor its cost represents the time of two men for a month, simply to prepare it in the rough for shipment. To this the cost of transportation must be added, making a total of about $3,500. It was moved by water to San Francisco.
