RIPLEY'S BELIEVE IT OR NOT

CONTRACT BRIDGE

By B. JAY BECKER

QUIZ

You are the dealer, neither side vulnerable. What would you bid with each of the following hands?

1. ♠AJ9 ♥AK6 ♦AQ7 ♣Q832
2. ♠KQ94 ♥AQ ♦AKJ8 ♣KQJ
3. ♠KQJ7 ♥KQJ4 ♦8 ♣AJ75
4. ♠Q87642 ♥AKQ95 ♦6 ♣3

1. One club. Players who are not point-count-conscious might be tempted to open the bidding with one or two notrump. While it must be granted that the hand has strong notrump features, both from the standpoint of distribution and high-card strength, these aspects can more properly be shown later in the bidding.

An opening one notrump bid identifies 16 to 18 points; a two notrump bid shows 22 to 24 points. These figures are inflexible by common consent, and the player who varies from them whenever the mood moves him upsets the high precision that is associated with notrump bidding.

2. Three notrump. This is far and away the best opening bid to choose. It shows a hand that contains notrump distribution, strength in all suits, and 25 to 27 points. Partner therefore knows what to expect in the way of high cards and distribution and is thus immediately alerted to the possibility of a slam.

The hand is obviously too strong to open with a one bid and run the risk of a pass. Nor would it be good tactics to open with a forcing bid of two in a suit. Partner's likely response of two notrump is apt to make the wrong hand declarer. Furthermore, partner would expect the distributional features which nearly alway characterize two bids, and would be misled to that extent.

3. One club. Hands with 4-4-4-1 distribution can be bid most effectively and economically by starting with the suit beneath the singleton. Thus, in this case, if we assume a diamond response, a one spade rebid can be made, and if partner then bids two diamonds, we can bid two hearts.

All three suits are thus shown while staying at a comparatively low level. If the bidding were opened with either major, and partner responded two diamonds, the other major could be shown in the two level, but if partner then said three diamonds it would not be possible to show the clubs without climbing skyward.

4. One spade. The first goal of a partnership is to find the longest and not necessarily the strongest (in high cards) trump suit. For this reason the spades are named first. There is plenty of time to show the hearts later, and whichever suit partner then prefers as trump will almost surely be the proper choice.

If partner has equal length in spades and hearts, the spade contract is to be preferred because of the greater trump length.

Arch Of Triumph Built In Baghdad

(Editor's Note: Associated Press staff writer Stan Carter has returned to Rome after 3½ months covering events in Iraq. This is an assessment of Premier Abdel Karim Kassem's regime as it nears the end of its first year in power).

By STAN CARTER

ROME (AP)—They are erecting a concrete Arch of Triumph 50 feet high in the streets of Baghdad.

It will stand as a symbol of revolutionary victory when Iraq on July 14 begins a week-long celebration of the first anniversary of the Iraqi revolution.

Premier Abdel Karim Kassem will look back on a year of power in that festive week of military parades and speeches to be attended by official delegations from the nations that recognize Iraq.

How do the Iraqis regard Kassem one year after soldiers shot to death young King Faisal, Crown Prince Abdul Illah and the staunchly pro Western premier, Nuri Said?

SEEM CONTENT

Outwardly at least, the masses of the people seem content. There are some elements of discontent but few speak out openly.

Moderates have been encouraged and Communists infuriated by Kassem's recent actions in shunting aside Communist efforts to obtain positions of power in the government and army.

But the Communists remain the best organized political group in Iraq. The Communist menace has not been dissolved.

The Communist advance in Iraq shows how a tiny, well-organized group can exploit a middle class revolution.

The soldiers who surrounded the royal palace and other key buildings in Baghdad at 6 a.m. last July 14 were led by officers who primarily represented the educated middle class. The extremists among them were Arab nationalists who wanted to unify Iraq with President Nasser's United Arab Republic.

FEW MEMBERS

The Communist party in Iraq then was 25 years old, but it never had more than a few hundred members. Under Nuri Said, most of the Red leaders were in jail or in exile.

Communist leaders streamed back with other political exiles in the first days after the revolution.

The Communists proclaimed their loyalty to Kassem while right wing groups plotted against him. When Col. Abdel Salam Aref, Kassem's closest friend and deputy premier, made rabble-rousing speeches on behalf of union with the U.A.R., the Communists proclaimed solidarity with the Soviet Union.

During these first few months the chief visible danger to Iraqi independence was from the right. The activity of the Communists was discounted because of their small size. Even today the number of party members is thought to be no more than 4,000.

Kassem sent off Aref to become Iraqi ambassador to West Germany. When Aref returned without permission he was arrested. The Peoples Court, which had been formed to try members of the old regime, convicted Kassem's younger comrade of trying to assassinate the premier and sentenced him to death. But his execution never has been announced.

With the eclipse of the pro Nasser elements, the Panarabist Baath and Istiqlal (Independence) parties were discredited and the Communists gained in influence.

Communists obtained subordinate but key positions in the government.

A number of army officers became increasingly worried about the Communist advance and—it now appears — planned a coup against Kassem. It was set off prematurely by Col. Abdul Wahab Shawaf in Mosul last March 8. Shawaf was among about 2,000 persons killed in the bloody repression of the Mosul revolt.

DEMAND PURGE

The Communists demanded the arrest of thousands and the purge of the army and civil service. They demanded the arming of the people. They demanded formation of a national front government with themselves in key positions.

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE — Here's how to work it:

A X Y D L B A A X B
is L O N G F E L L O W

One letter simply stands for another. In this sample A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophes, the length and formation of the words are all hints. each day the code letters are different.

A Cryptogram Quotation

Z P D F J O X Q S , Z Q V D F N W F J U O W W D F Q S — O X Q S U W O O X A .
