THE DAILY EXAMINER.

AUGUST 18, 1888.

Editorial Notes.

—The total British Exports to the colonies have increased from £36,000,000 in 1887 to £40,000,000 in 1888, and the imports from the colonies have increased from £43,000,000 to £46,000,000.

—It is very satisfactory, indeed, to note that the apple trade between Canada and Great Britain has been a profitable one to all concerned. Twenty years ago the export from Canada to Great Britain amounted to only $44,406 brls; in 1872 it had reached $139,687; in 1882 it was $372,582; in 1886, $410,898; and last year it attained a value of $649,182.

—It is stated by an electrical journal that no less than 80,000 small motors have been sold by different companies within the past year, and that 4,000 others are in course of construction to meet the increasing demand. These motors range from one-half horse power to ten horse power, but it is simply for doing light work in printing offices, machine shops, shoe and box factories, book binderies, knitting works, bottle washing, pumping, lathes and ice cream freezers, coffee mills, organs, etc., that they have been brought into use.

—The great value of Manitoba to Canada is made apparent by the statement recently issued by the Winnipeg Board of Trade concerning the grain yield of the province last year. The total wheat crop is placed at 14,000,000 bushels, of which 8,500,000 bushels were exported to Europe and Eastern Canada, 2,600,000 bushels converted into flour in Manitoba, 1,100,000 bushels used as seed, 1,200,000 bushels in dealers' hands, and the balance is unthreshed or in store at interior points. The crop was cultivated by 16,000 farmers; the average yield per acre was 32 4 bushels, and the average product per farmer 875 bushels.

—The Parnell-Times libel suit is not to come up for trial until November. The amount of damages claimed is £50,000. It is surmised that when Mr. Parnell is asked to testify before the commission he will refuse on the ground that if he gave evidence there he would prejudice his suit gainst the Times. The London Daily News, in the course of a recent reference to the suit, says: "Mr. Parnell's skill and courage are far beyond the reach of Mr. Goschen or Mr. Balfour. He can always checkmate them when he gives his mind to the game. If on this occasion he succeeds in driving a coach and six through the Times Protection Act they will probably give him a very wide berth in future."

—Among the passengers in the Parisian, which sailed from London on Thursday, are Dr. Fream, Professor of the London College of Agriculture; Henry Moore, editor of Bell's Weekly Messenger and agricultural correspondent of the Times; and Mr. Macdonald, special correspondent of the Mark Lane Express. Messrs. Fream and Moore will report upon the status of agriculture in Ontario and the Northwest with a view to the rapid growth and future prospects of trade with Great Britain. Mr. Macdonald is deputed to attend all the leading fairs and pay especial attention to the recent remarkable developments of the live stock trade. The reports of these eminent agriculturists will be awaited with much interest.

The Proposed Regatta.

THERE was a large attendance at the meeting in Mr. H. V. Palmer's office last evening, and the following programme of races was decided upon:—

1. Sailboats under 35 feet keel.
2. Sailboats under 20 feet keel.
3. Four-oared shell boats.
4. Two-oared lapstreak boats.
5. Single scull shell boats.
6. Four-oared lapstreak boats.
7. Double scull shell boats.
8. Four-oared lapstreak boats, for boys under 18 years.
9. Double scull lapstreak boats.
10. Duck hunt.
11. Two-oared lapstreak, for boys under 18 years.
12. Single scull shell for boys under 16, for John Joy's gold and silver medals.

The date of the regatta has not yet been fixed.

The Secretary, Mr. McCarey, and Dr. Robins were requested to draft a schedule of prizes to be submitted at next meeting.

A very creditable subscription list was opened at the meeting.

A Striking Scene.

In its report of the fire which destroyed the greater portion of that immense building, the convent of the Sacred Heart, the New York Herald says: "About 9.30, when the fire was its hottest, and the scene on the ground the most weird and exciting, a remarkable incident occurred. The altar of the chapel, which was situated in the old wing, was moved by main force to the north door, apparently with the intention of saving some portion of it. The chapel was crowded by the sisters and their assistants, every lip trembling with silent prayer as they listened to the roar of the awful body of flame outside. At this moment Fr. Doherty ascended the altar and stretched out both his arms as a signal to those around him. Dropping on their knees, the faithful sisters listened to the impassioned prayer of the priest as he made an earnest invocation to the Almighty to stretch forth his arm and save the edifice so long consecrated and sanctified to His worship. The priest's face was illumined by the red light of the fire, and as he cast his eyes to heaven they were full of agonized tears, while the pitiful sobbing of the nuns lent additional solemnity to the pathetic and striking scene. But it was too late, for a moment after the flames entered the chapel, and the police insisted upon both the priest and the nuns leaving it. With bowed heads and heavy hearts they submissively obeyed the stern but merciful mandate, and in a few moments the altar before which they had bowed in anxious supplication fell a victim to the devouring element."

Varia.

William II of Germany has completed his round of visits and has gone home to Berlin, where, in his absence, the Empress has presented him with a fifth son, so that he need not now fear for the continuance of the dynasty. With five "butresses to the throne" of his own, and with his brother Prince Henry's possible offspring, the House of Hohenzollern, seems as little likely to die out as that of the Guelphs. The Emperor's visit to Copenhagen was of the briefest description. He just had time for a drive, luncheon, a glance at the Scandinavian Exhibition, and a state dinner. It is stated that the Queen of England, intends to pay a visit to Baden in the autumn, when a meeting will be arranged between her grandson and herself; also that the Emperor will leave his card on the Emperor of Austria and the King of Italy early in October. By that time nearly all the sovereigns of Europe will know the new mighty Emperor to speak to. The only other item of foreign news is the interview which the King of Servia has granted to the correspondent of a Vienna paper. The King makes out a very fair story of his dealings with the Queen, but of course it is only an ex parte statement. The main point of the interview seems to have been his desire to let Austria know that he relies on her, and that he has done all in his power to thwart the designs of Russia.

I am glad to see that the report of Dr. Isambert Owen to which I referred last week has been grandly challenged, and especially by Dr. Norman Kerr, a well known authority upon the effect of alcoholic stimulants. He urges that the small number of deaths reported on and the method of the investigation have presented little basis for general deduction. I imagine, also, that temperance reformers are not in a hurry to challenge every set of figures put forth by individual committees or associations, even if they are entitled to sign themselves "Medical" upon evidence which is not open to examination and cross-examination.

A correspondent asks, "What is the symbolism of volley-firing over a soldier's grave?" All I have been able to find out about it is the Military Instructions which regulate the number and kind of arms used, according to the rank of a soldier, from a general officer down to a drummer boy. Is it not the symbolism plain. Surely the custom wants no more explanation than the blacksmith's epitaph:

"My fire's out, my iron run,
My last nail's drove, and I am done."

Life is full of "sound and fury signifiying nothing," and the life of a soldier most of all. He seeks "the bubble reputation e'en in the cannon's mouth," and it is highly appropriate that he should get his epitaph from a musket barrel. His empty celebrity is conferred out of the mouth of that instrument with which he would have sent other men to grim oblivion. What can be more just? It might be a point of curiosity to know how soon after the disuse of bows and arrows the practice was introduced.

I have heard different reasons given why the wedding ring is placed on the fourth finger of the left hand. Lately I came across an extract from a rare old work by "Master Henry Swinburne," called "A Treatise on Spousals," written in the year 1595, from which I give the following extract, showing what our forefathers thought upon the matter:—

"It matters not at this day what metal the ring be; the form of the Ring being circular, that is round, and without end, importeth this much, that their mutual love and hearty affection should roundly flow from the one to the other, as in a circle, and that continually and forever; the Finger on which this Ring is to be worn is the fourth Finger of the left hand, next unto the little Finger; because by the received Opinion of the Learned and Experienced in Ripping up and anatomizing Men's Bodies, there is a Vein of Blood which passeth from that fourth Finger unto the Heart, called Veno Amoris, Love's Vein, and so the wearing of the Ring on that Finger signifieth that the love should not be vain or fained, but that as they did give their hands each to other, so likewise they should give their Hearts also, whereunto the Vein is extended."

I am very glad to see that a collection of the poems of Miss Veley has been published. Many of them have appeared in English magazines and to me they seem touchingly beautiful. Her early death has deprived us of a poet of no ordinary merit. I do not know why it is, but it undoubtedly is the case—that it is very difficult to attain celebrity in poetry—but Miss Veley is far above the average, and I am sure had she lived and become more widely known, her verses would have ranked with the best that women have written. I do not know whether any of your readers have read her poem "First and Last," spoken by a dying wife to her husband—which appeared some time age. It is very sad, and especially in the striving for faith in the life which lies beyond the grave. Over all her poems that I have seen there hangs a shadow. Perhaps this cannot be avoided, for I imagine that poetry—true poetry—must partake somewhat of the clouds which dim the sunshine to all imaginative natures. I select one of her poems which is a good example of her power of appreciating deep feeling. It is called "Mother and Child," and is spoken of a dead child:—

"They are weary who are wise,
He looked up with happy eyes,
Little knowing, little seeing,
Only praising God by being,
Oh the life we could not save!
Do not say, above his grave,
That the fair and darling face
Was but lent a little space,
Till the Father called him back,
By an unknown homeward track.
No, though death came darkly chill,
Bade the beating heart be still,
Touching him with fingers cold—
What was given still we hold;
Though he died as died the flowers,
He for evermore is ours.
Ours, though we must travel soon,
Onward through life's afternoon;
Shadows, falling long and gray,
Gather round the western day,
And our twilight visions show
How the years shall come and go.
Little maids, with tangled curls,
Change to slender dreamy girls,
Chubby rogues grow tall, and then
Go their way as learned men.
And the mother stands aside,
With an ache beneath her pride,
And a sorrow mid her joys,
For the vanished babes and boys;
So the earlier gladness wanes—
But the little one remains."

BY-LAWS AND REGULATIONS.

The following by-laws and regulations, until further notice, shall be considered a part of the contract with every person who uses the water, and the fact of using it shall be considered as expressing assent on the part of the user to be bound thereby:—

1. All applications for service pipe and the use of water must be made at the office of the Water Commissioners on forms supplied by them, stating fully and truly the various uses to which the water is to be applied, and should it subsequently be required for other purposes notice must be given before the desired change is made

2. In no case will the water be turned on for an applicant until the rate in advance up to the next half yearly day of payment, together with the cost of the service pipe from the street to the wall of the building into which the water is to be taken, has been paid.

3. All bills for water, except under meter, shall be payable at the office of the Commissioners semi-annually in advance, on the first days of January and July. If not paid within fifteen days, the water will be shut off and not let on again, except on the payment of one dollar ($1) in addition to the rates due.

4. Two or more families living in the one house and taking water from the same faucet will be charged as one household, according to the number of inmates therein and of rooms occupied, and the applicant shall be responsible for the payment of the rate.

5. Each of two or more families served with a separate faucet, connected with the same service pipe within the building, shall be charged one dollar ($1) less than ordinary rates for the said faucet.

6. All persons using water must keep the water pipes and fixtures within their premises in good repair and protected from frost at their own expense.

7. Water takers shall prevent all unnecessary waste, and water shall not be left running to prevent freezing. There shall be no concealment of the purposes for which water is used.

9. No increase or extension of fixtures shall be made without written permission from the Board.

10. When a consumer shall prefer to pay for such a meter as shall be approved by the Commissioners, together with the cost of setting and maintaining the same, rather than pay the schedule rates, or an estimated amount, a meter will be put in by the Commissioners and remain under their control.

11. If a meter gets out of order and fails to register, the consumer will be charged at the average daily consumption as shown by the meter when in order.

12. The suitability of all fixtures, plumbing and piping, will be subject to the approval of the proper officer of the Board.

13. No charge will be made for water for private hydrants that may be erected and used only in case of fire.

14. No water taker shall be entitled to have any portion of a payment refunded for non-use occasioned by absence, or for any shutting off for violation of by-laws, or for purposes of additions or repairs.

15. No person shall be entitled to damages from the Water Comissioners or from the City of Charlottetown for stoppage of water for any purpose whatever, which in the opinion of the Water Commissioners may be deemed necessary, provided such stoppage is not inconsistant with "The Charlottetown Water-Works Act, 1887" or any Act in amendment thereof.

16. Water takers violating any of the By-Laws of the Water Commissioners, shall be liable to have their supply of water shut off until the cause of offence is removed.
