Eastern Kings Exhibition Shatters Attendance Mark

SOURIS — The Eastern Kings Exhibition provided this town with a one-day splash yesterday. Officials expressed their happiness when attendance, reportedly the best in years with an estimated 2,300 people milling around the exhibition grounds. Last year the figure read less than 1,000 and hope for the future was on the wane.

Official opening ceremonies got underway at 2.30 in the afternoon with H.J. MacKinnon of Rollo Bay, president of the exhibition association, presiding.

Phillip Matheson, minister of highways, was first speaker and after a short speech declared the exhibition officially open.

Then John Mullally, MP for Kings, took the stand and urged federal and provincial governments to get together and offer more prizes at exhibitions like the one at hand. Provincial Minister of Agriculture Andrew MacRae, next in order, expressed agreement with the federal MP over this point, as did a large number of people present.

Other speakers at the opening included Daniel J. MacDonald, MLA, Msgr. J.A. Sullivan and Rev. Elton Adams.

ENTERTAINMENT

The Silver Rocketties majorettes corps from Charlottetown and Burke's Lads and Lassies pipe band provided entertainment for the crowd before the ceremonies with a program that began at 2 o'clock.

Later in the afternoon the old tradition of Games at the fairs was upheld nominally with a tug-of-war match between teams from Bridgetown and Souris Line Road. Bridgetown was the victorious winner of the best of three series with times in the first and third pulls of 1 minute 5 seconds and 30 seconds. In the second contest Souris Line Road out-pulled the briefly winded Bridgetown crew in 1 minute and 20 seconds.

But the big attraction of the whole day was the judging and prize-presenting of the various displays and competitions.

Judging of the indoor exhibits took place Tuesday evening, before the fair itself was officially open, while judging of the outdoor exhibits didn't start until 10 o'clock yesterday morning.

PRIZEWINNERS

Following are the major prize-winners in the various competitions.

Top honors in the housekeeping division went to a Bay Fortune indoors expert, Mrs. Jack E. Aitken, who had six first, one second and six third prizes. Runners-up were Mrs. Irving Baker of Elmira with four firsts and Mrs. D.L. McCormack, who had three. Judges were Theresa MacLeod and Bertha Blanchard, both of Charlottetown.

Mrs. W.W. Anderson of St. Peter's showed she had the greenest thumb in the flower competition as she won four firsts, a second and two thirds. Mrs. Harold Bulpitt of Rosenath and G.A. Leard of Souris each had three firsts.

Harold Bulpitt with four firsts and two seconds and his brother Clayton with three firsts, three seconds and a third dominated the root and vegetable category.

For the second year in a row Mrs. Pius Campbell of Little Harbor had the champion seed potato, while reserve championship went to Russ Mills of Annandale.

Andy Campbell of Little Harbor was judged to have grown a table potato worthy of championship status, and the reserve champion table spud belonged to Daniel MacLean of East Point. Judge of the potato events was David Ward, from the department of agriculture in Charlottetown.

Mrs. Alex Robertson of Red Point was judged by Doris Le-Clair and Claire Buote of Charlottetown to have done the finest needle work in the fancy work class. She had five firsts, three seconds and two thirds. Mrs. Elmer Fraser of South Lake and Mrs. James Bennett of Fortune each amassed four firsts.

There was reported to have been an increase in entries in all classes over last year except in the root and vegetable competition, where a late season was given as the reason for relatively few entries.

All classes to this point were judged on Tuesday evening prior to the exhibition opening.

LIVESTOCK JUDGING

Livestock judging began Wednesday morning and following are those results. In most cases the class winner proved virtually far superior to other entries, though there were a few close competitions.

N.W. MacLeod and Sons of Bridgetown walked off with top honors in the swine division, receiving a total of six firsts, four seconds and one third. Harold Bulpitt and his brother Clayton from Roseneath had respectively, two firsts and two seconds to offer the only competition.

The MacLeods won grand champion swine male or female category, the special award for both best male and best female, and the special award for male or female swine.

Swine judging was done by George Boswell from the department of agriculture. Swine entries as far as numbers went were on a par with last year, it was reported.

POULTRY DIVISION

Very close competition for supremacy in the poultry division was witnessed between the brothers Bulpitt from Roseneath as Clayton edged brother Harold five firsts, seven seconds and five thirds to five firsts, four seconds and five thirds. John F. MacDonald and Son of Rollo Bay followed closely with four wins, three seconds and two thirds.

The department of agriculture's Stewart McEwan judged the competition, which showed a large increase in entries over last year.

Charles S. MacDonald of Souris River won the first cattle class, Holsteins, with 11 firsts and three seconds. Preston Brynton and Son of Rollo Bay had three firsts and seven seconds. Grand champion junior female went to Mr. MacDonald and the Bryentons took reserve honors. The same order prevailed in the grand champion and reserve grand champion female.

R.A. Profitt was judge.

HEREFORDS

The Hereford male and female grand champions and the reserve female grand champion were all owned by Henry Townshend of Fortune Bridge, who took the Hereford competition in hand with nine firsts and two seconds. Gordon Robertson of East Baltic had the reserve grand champion male Hereford.

(MORE)

George Phalan of Morell garnered eight firsts, five seconds and two thirds to completely sweep the Shorthorn class. He had grand and reserve champions in both male and female categories.

Another sweep came in the Aberdeen Angus class as Ernest Underhay of Bay Fortune took five firsts, one second and one third and all the championships.

Henry Townshend of Fortune Bridge won both champion bull and champion cow awards in the Beef Brand class.

Judge for all the cattle classes preceding was Arthur Roberts.

JERSEY CLASS

Ernest Underhay of Bay Fortune, in winning 13 firsts, three seconds and four thirds dominated the Jersey class as he did the Aberdeen Angus. He took home all the championships as well as the additional grand champion Jersey overall. Russ Mills of Fortune was far back with one first, six seconds and five thirds.

Ayrshires were the only cattle class with an increase in entries over last year, as well as one of the few classes in which some competition featured.

Ayrshires belonging to the estate of Brent Stead of Fortune took eight firsts, four seconds and two thirds to win the class as well as reserve grand champion junior female, grand champion female and a special award for the best Ayrshire in milk or calf.

Robert A. White of Rollo Bay won four firsts, six seconds and three thirds, and Bob Rossiter of St. Peter's had three firsts, two seconds and four thirds to follow in the class. Mr. White won a number of championships however — grand champion bull and reserve, junior champion female and reserve champion female.

Ayrshire judge was Arthur MacRae.

The award for best dairy cow, all brands, went to Ernest Underhill of Bay Fortune.

SHEEP CLASSES

There were two general sheep categories. Lloyd Jenkins of Lower Montague had the champion ram and John Gillis of St. Peter's the champion ewe in the Cheviot or Leiter class.

In the Oxford, Shropshire or Suffolk class Ernest Underhay of Bay Fortune had champion ram, Howard Norton of Annandale had champion ewe registered, and Joseph MacIsaac of St. Peter's had champion ewe grade.

Champion male sheep all breeds went to Ernest Underhay, champion female to Howard Norton. Mr. Norton also had the grand champion, male or female.

Judge was John MacDonald.

HORSE COMPETITION

Horse judging competition was a close race with increased entries. Harold Taylor of Dundas Centre had four firsts, Randall MacDonald of Peter's Road had three, and Preston Bryenton of Rollo Bay had two.

Champion draught mare or gelding went to George Stead of Fortune. Champion carriage mare or gelding went to Preston Bryenton and Son, champion draught mare went to Preston Bryenton, and champion draught gelding went to Harold Taylor of Dundas Centre.

P.E.I. Livestock Does Well In N.S.

Several Prince Edward Island livestock breeders were showing cattle successfully yesterday at the provincial exhibition in Truro, N.S.

Information available last night was limited to the successes registered in the Guernsey ring and Roy Younker, Harrison Green and Sons, and Leith Newson, all of Kingston reported outstanding success.

Mr. Younker's Goldenview herd won six red ribbons and eight seconds with his 16 entries. The top winnings included the senior and reserve grand champion male, the reserve junior champion male with Goldenview Jolly Vern that was junior male champion at Charlottetown a few weeks ago.

The Younker herd took the reserve senior and reserve grand female championship with Goldenview Rex's Tracy, a heifer that was first prize junior yearling at the First Atlantic Winter Fair at Halifax last autumn.

A special prize for the highest composite BCA (breed class average in production) also went to a Goldenview cow.

The Greens had the first prize junior yearling bull and they only took two animals to the show.

Mr. Newson's only entry placed fifth in strong junior female class of 11 entries.

Other Island herds showing yesterday were Holsteins owned by Lewis Brothers, York who were premier breeders and exhibitors at Truro, Halifax and Charlottetown a year ago, and took both banners again at Charlottetown this year; and Fulton Sanderson and Sons, North River who did not show their Hereford herd at Charlottetown this year.

Egmont Bay, Mont Carmel Hold 60th Exhibition Day

ABRAMS VILLAGE — The annual Egmont Bay — Mont Carmel exhibition was held here yesterday. It was the 60th anniversary of the fair.

Among the many dignitaries present were: Hon. Henry Wedge, minister of welfare and labor; Hon. Andre Richard, minister of highways and public works in New Brunswick; Stuart Wright, deputy minister of agriculture; members of the legislative assembly from Prince County and an officer of the federal department of agriculture.

All the speakers voiced their congratulations and encouragement to those connected with the success of the fair, but Mr. Wright was critical, though not harshly, of the shortage of entries in many of the livestock classes as well as other exhibits. Mr. Wright said that he was, "rather disappointed in the vegetable exhibit. This has been a good growing season and I think the exhibits could have been better without exerting yourselves too much."

SPECIAL AWARDS

Presentations were made to two men who have given much of their time over a number of years to make the fair a success. One was to Sylvere Arsenault, who was forced to resign the post of secretary this year because of illness in the family. He had held the position for 37 years and he was given a memento in appreciation of his work.

Also honored yesterday was John F. Arsenault who is 89 years old. Mr. Arsenault is the only living member of the original board of directors that began the fair back in 1904. He is still fit enough to attend the fair and yesterday after the presentation he delivered a short speech in which he gave a brief history of the Egmont Bay — Mont Carmel exhibition.

Judging of the many classes of livestock began at 10 o'clock in the morning and continued all day. After the judging there was a judging competition for anyone under 21, and then there was the cow milking contest.

There was a classification for grain and one for roots and vegetables.

MANY HANDICRAFTS

There was also a large number of handcrafts exhibited; hooked rugs, home knit socks, crochet work, knitted sweaters, and all other kinds of needlework. It was all classified as ladies work and in this classification there were 70 sections.

Another area of competition for the ladies was the domestic science classification, here there were home-made breads cakes and cookies as well as preserves, pickles, relishes and home-made soap.

Most everyone in the large crowd agreed that it was a fitting fair for the 60th anniversary celebration.
