

Dodgers And Braves Win Yanks, White Sox Lose

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
 Brooklyn and Milwaukee closed in on idle Cincinnati Wednesday as the second-place Dodgers defeated Pittsburgh 1-0 on the three-hit pitching of Johnny Podres to trip the Redlegs' National League lead to 1 1/2 games. The Braves, two games behind in third place, beat Chicago Cubs 6 - 2 as Bob Buhl gained his first complete game in 14 starts.

Chicago White Sox retained their two-game American League edge, although dropping an 8-4, 10 - inning decision to Cleveland Indians, who moved into a second place tie with New York. The Yankees were dropped 6-2 by Washington Senators.

A ninth-inning pinch double by J. W. Porter gave Detroit a 4-3 victory over Kansas City, the Tigers' first success against the A's in seven tries this season. Baltimore belted Boston 3-1 in the other AL game.

In the only other NL contest, Philadelphia Phillies defeated New York Giants 7-5 in 11 innings.

FOURTH VICTORY
 Podres gained his fourth victory and his third shutout as the Dodgers scored an unearned run in the eighth against winless Ronnie Kline, who lost his seventh despite a five-hitter. First baseman Frank Thomas booted Johnny Gilliam's grounder for a two-base error with two out in the eighth and Gino Cimoli then followed with an RBI single.

Buhl, who won his third, gave the Braves a two-game winning string with a four-hitter, holding the clubs hitless after Ernie Banks' first inning single until Banks homered in the seventh. Don Kaiser lost his second as the Braves rapped 12 hit, three by Felix Mantilla, against three Cub pitchers.

It was Buhl's first complete game since last Aug. 30, when he went 8 1/3 innings in a 1-1, rain-shortened tie against Pittsburgh—and his first complete game victory since last Aug. 26, when he beat Brooklyn, also 6-2.

BLEW LEAD

The Phillies, who blew a 5-1 lead, came back with a pair in the 10th for Robin Roberts' fourth victory, this one in relief. Losing reliever Marv Grissom gave up a walk in the 10th and first baseman Gail Harris then failed to grounder that went for a two-base error and enabled the winning run to score. Willie Mays' single, stretching his hit streak to 16 games, capped a four run eighth that tied it 5-5 for the Giants.

A single and Hal Naragone's triple scored the clincher for the Tribe in the 10th and the Indians then counted three more on a walk and successive doubles by Larry Rames and Al Smith. Rookie Rames paced the Indian's attack with his first home run, two doubles and a single. Cal McLis won it in relief with a hit and the AL loser, also in relief, A two-run homer by Vic Wertz tied it for the Tribe in the 10th.

FIRST WIN
 Pete Ramos gained his first victory against the Yankees in six career decisions with an eight-hitter, including Hank Bauer's fourth home run and Mickey Mantle's 10th. Roy Sievers hammered his 10th home run, with a man on, in the first inning off loser Tom Sturdivant. Four runs in the seventh, capped by Ed Yost's two-run single, did it for the Senators.

Billy Loes was in and out of trouble all the way while the Orioles paved the way to his fifth victory on Dick Williams' two-run double in the third off loser George Susce. George Zverink mopped up after Loes walked two with one out in the ninth. George Kell had three singles for the Orioles leaving him six shy of the 2,000-hit club.

Ted Williams was 2-for-3 for Boston in relief with a hit and a run, upping his bat average to .417. Mantle, the AL runner-up, also was 2-for-3 for the Yankees for a .378 mark.

Jim Bunning won his third for the Tigers with a three-hitter. Hal Smith and Bob Cerv homered for the A's.

CAHA Supports Promotion Young Can. Hockey Week

EDMONTON (CP)—The Canadian Amateur Hockey Association voted unanimously Wednesday to continue to give its full support to one of its most successful ventures—the promotion of Young Canada Hockey Week.

At the suggestion of the British Columbia branch a year ago, the CAHA selected a week during the hockey season of 1957 to spotlight the youngsters in the game and appointed its minor hockey committee, under chairmanship of Gordon Jukes of Melville, Sask., to handle the promotion.

Jukes told the CAHA annual meeting Wednesday that the week was an overwhelming success and that the minor committee recommended its continuance without reservation. The date for the week's start in 1958 is Jan. 25.

In other business Wednesday, Jukes reported that Canada has more than 85,000 youngsters taking part in minor hockey; a motion concerning strengthening of junior hockey teams for Memorial Cup play was passed; the budget was accepted and a discussion of the pro - amateur agreement was completed.

The press was excluded Tuesday from the pro-amateur issue discussion as the CAHA's negotiating committee sought a mandate from the general meeting to conclude or reject a new agreement between the association and the National Hockey League.

There has been no written agreement for two years and a meeting between representatives of the two sides is due Jan. 25.

It was learned Wednesday that the major consideration the CAHA will seek in any agreement with the pros is to maintain a free hand in setting playing rules for minor hockey.

The Memorial Cup motion allowed the Maritimes to add six players from its branch for inter-branch play.

The meeting also allowed the junior Ottawa Canadiens, a free-lance team sponsored by Montreal of the NHL, to continue operating from the general meeting to add six players from its branch for inter-branch play.

television and of the various hockey organizations who assisted in making the week a highlight in the minor hockey season.

Wednesday's meeting also approved appointment of secretary-manager George Dudley of Midland, Ont., as the CAHA delegate to the general meeting in Oslo, Norway this summer of the International Ice Hockey Federation.

A 1958 budget with expenditures estimated at $30,950 and providing a deficit of $850 was approved and with it an increase to $5,000 annually from $4,000 for Dudley's salary as secretary-manager.

Remember When

Bill Vukovich, winner of the two previous classics, was killed in the Indianapolis Speedway 500 - mile auto race two years ago today when his car flipped over the barrier and ended upside down in flames as he tried to avoid a pileup. Bob Sweikert went on to win with an average speed of 128 m.p.h., two miles under the mark set by Vukovich in 1954.

1913 Death In The Ring Is Still Not Understood

By RICHARD ANCO
 Canadian Press Staff Writer

CALGARY (CP)—Referee Ed Smith of Chicago didn't have to count to 10 that day. Luther McCarty, the Nebraska farm boy was dead before he slumped to the canvas.

Only a few light jabs had been thrown in the first round if a scheduled 10-round bout billed for McCarty as the final stepping-stone to a title shot with negro Jack Johnson, heavyweight champion of the world.

One minute and 32 seconds after the opening bell it was all over for McCarty, the white heavyweight champion from White Horse Canyon, Neb.

What really happened May 24, 1913, in an east-end arena on Calgary's outskirts is as much a mystery today as it was at the coroner's inquest. McCarty joked and laughed and even borrowed a peanut seller's cap at ringside before climbing through the ropes.

SIGNIFICANT WARNING
 It seems ironic that Rev. William Walker then reminded McCarty and his under-dog opponent Arthur Pelkey "to be ready for our test, to be prepared to meet our Maker when the time comes."

Both fighters threw a few light blows. Smith moved in to break up a clinch. The "white hope" stepped back, circled slowly around Pelkey and toppled over. Smith began his count but it was a formality. McCarty, not even 21 years old, was dead.

An autopsy showed death resulted from a spinal hemorrhage caused by dislocation of the neck. Medical evidence at the hearing showed that McCarty was dead before he hit the canvas.

The jury returned the following verdict: "There is no evidence to show how this injury was occasioned. We the jury exonerate Pelkey from all blame whatever."

Smith had testified that scarcely more than six blows were struck in the fight with Pelkey landing perhaps three or four. Two were to McCarty's face and another a right to the heart. Ringside fans said the right was the last punch thrown.

Wheel-chair Games Start Friday; 4 Canadians Entered

MONTREAL (CP)—Four members of the Canadian Paraplegic Association, each an accomplished athlete, will leave Montreal by plane Friday for New York to participate in the first annual national wheel-chair games.

Sports include archery, javelin, ping pong, darts, basketball free throw and wheel-chair racing.

Rochon, 32 years old, is one of the star performers and rated by many as Canada's No. 1 athlete among paraplegics. He is an amputee, having lost his right leg during the Italian campaign of the Second World War.

He was a winner for Canada in the 1954 paraplegic Olympic games held in England, scoring in class B archery against 128 competitors representing 14 countries and in swimming against representatives from five countries.

Bourgeois, 24, is the lightweight member of Canada's team. He weighs about 125 pounds. Bourgeois is a topnotch wheel - chair racer and in team events will pair up with Rochon. He is also a high scorer in free - throw basketball and a good bowman at archery.

Brousseau, 30, a war veteran like Rochon, is a class A bowman and ranks among the best archery competitors in Canada, non-paraplegics included. He was fourth in class A archery at the paraplegic Olympics.

Poirier, 28, is a big fellow, a comparative newcomer to competition who likely will compete mostly in basketball free - throw and wheel-chair races.

Warm Weather Predicted For Indianapolis 500

INDIANAPOLIS (AP)—The greatest field of drivers in the event's 41-year history will roar off today in the world's most thrilling race to nowhere, the Indianapolis 500.

How many of the starting 33 motorized hornets still will be buzzing when the 200-lap chase around the exacting 2 1/2-mile course ends is conjectural.

But, if the cars stand up, the drivers figure to give an acid test to a plot to reduce the killing pace with reduced engine sizes. The race record is 130.840 mph set in 1954 by the late Bill Vukovich.

Headed by Pat O'Connor, pole position winner with a 10 - lap 143.948 mph average, the field includes 16 men who have gone all the way in the 500 and another dozen who have been battle-tested in the Brickyard.

There are only five rookies in the race and it is worthy of note that a first-time pilot has not won since 1927, exactly 30 years ago, when George Souders did the trick.

The drivers themselves think O'Connor or Troy Ruttman, only former champion (1952) will get the victory kiss from actress Cyd Charisse. Ruttman is driving a creation of A. J. Watson, who built the winners of the last two 500 winners for Tulsa's racing man, John Zink.

Many other persons, however, think "Grandpa" Paul Russo, who had the best time in the 100-lap qualifying test with 144.817 mph, will take the winner's share of a potential $300,000 jackpot.

Russo, veteran of 11 Indianapolis races, will drive his Novi from 10th position, in the fourth row. Last year, Russo started eighth and was averaging 142.55 mph when he bowed out with a blow-out on the 22nd lap.

That race went to Pat Flaherty, the ill-fated Chicagoan now sidelined with injuries which nearly claimed his life in a later race at Springfield, Ill.

Paul Richards Explodes; Calls Baltimore Clowns

BALTIMORE (AP)—The strain of watching his Baltimore Orioles play an unusual number of extra-inning, close baseball games and lose most of them caused manager Paul Richards to explode Tuesday.

"We're playing like a bunch of clowns," he spattered. "But to me, it's not funny. If it's at all possible, I'm going to make wholesale changes."

Richards reached the breaking point in a frustrating season Monday night in Washington where the Orioles were beaten twice. Baltimore is only 3 1/2 games ahead of last-place Washington in the American League.

The Orioles lost completion of a suspended game with Washington, 8-2, in the 11th inning. It was the 10th extra inning game played by the Orioles, two of them going 16 innings, and they have lost six of them. It was their 10th one-run loss out of 14 decided by that margin.

They have two more "tie" games to finish, one 4-4 in the ninth inning with Chicago and the other 0-0 with Kansas City in the sixth.

So far this season the Orioles have scored only four less total runs than the opposition. But their record is 13 victories 22 defeats. Added to Richards' miseries have been player mistakes that have cost games. "I've never seen a club find so many different ways to lose," he declares.

Monday night, an Oriole on third with the leading run got caught in a rare run-down double play and another runner failed to touch first.

Richards' threat to clean house would be a revival of his feverish trading reputation which he brought to Baltimore from the Chicago White Sox in 1955. In his first Oriole year, more than 80 players came and went past his piercing eyes.
