—ST. PATRICK'S PLAY — On Friday night, March 16th, in Seven Mile Bay Hall their Dramatic Club presented a humorous and enjoyable play entitled "Deacon Dubbs" to a large and appreciative audience, despite the bad condition of the roads. This play was under the directorship of Rev. Reginald MacDonald assisted by S. J. Arnold McGrath, Seven Mile Bay, and F. J. MacInnis, Borden. The cast of the play is as follows: Deacon Dubbs (from Sorghum Center, West Virginia), P. J. MacInnis; Amos Coleman (his nephew, a young lawyer), Agno Arsenault; Rawdon Crawley (a wolf in sheep's clothing), S. J. Arnold McGrath; Major McNutt (auctioneer and justice of peace), Everett Muttart; Deuteronomy Jones (a country product), Roy McCarville; Rose Raleigh (the brave little school ma'am), Freda Sherry; Miss Philomena Popover (with both eyes on the Deacon), Eleanor Murphy; Emily Dale (the richest girl in town), Margaret Cormier; Trixie Coleman (full of mischief), Patricia Murphy; Yennie Yensen (the hired girl from Sweden), Anne Hickey. The specialties between acts included a step dance by Miss Janet Gallant, Borden, which was heartily encored, and a piano accompaniment solo by Master Douglas Pineau, Summerside, which received the well merited applause of several encores. Music for the evening was furnished by the veteran violinist James O'Connell, accompanied on the guitar by Ralph DesRoche. The Dramatic Club were commended for their splendid work and performance in presenting this play, which was so thoroughly enjoyed by all.
