TO REPLACE THE BLAKE.
It is announced that the admiralty have selected the new first-class protected cruiser Crescent, built at Portsmouth under the Naval Defence Act, for service as flagship on the North American and West Indian station, in succession to the first-class cruiser Blake, 12,000 tons, 20,000 horse power, Capt. W. de V. Hamilton, which was commissioned at Chatham on Feb. 2, 1892, and will shortly complete her first term of foreign service. The Crescent is a twin screw vessel of 7,700 tons and carries the Blake's 9,000. She is built of steel and was erected at Portsmouth in 1892; 12,000 horse power against the Blake's 20,000. She steams 19 knots and carries 250 tons of coal, and has a 10 knot speed can travel 10,000 miles without coaling. She carries one 9 1/2 in. 22 ton gun; 12 6 in. quick firing 12 pounder; 3 4 pounder; 7 machine guns; 2 light or boat guns; and is fitted with torpedo tubes and crargoes. The Crescent is on the China station. It would not be surprising if the Barlett came out as flagship on this station, notwithstanding the above statement.

DIDN'T WANT TO LOSE HIM.—A Missouri physician received the following letter from a friend who is engaged in the practice of Medicine in Arkansas:
"Dear Doc—I have a patient whose physical signs show that the windpipe has ulcerated off and his lung has dropped into his stomach. He is unable to swallow, and I fear his stomach is gone. I have given him everything without effect, his father is wealthy, honorable and influential. He is an active member of the M. E. Church, and God won't let me lose him. What shall I do? Answer by return mail, your in note."—(Miser and Mehanic.)

HOW TO TREAT A COLD.
Don't stifle a cold, as the old adage advises, if you do you will have a fever to scarse. A genuine cold is a shock received by the many million nerves which approach near the surface of the human body, and which control the nearly seven million pores of the skin. This shock closes the pores of the skin, is transmitted to the nerve centre and lack to the mucous membranes, forcing a great amount of blood to these membranes, creating more or less irritation and consequent fever, inflammation, dryness, then watery discharge and catarrh. The shock may have its cause from a chill, from improper eating, a nervous fit, an over-heat, or other causes which irritate the nerves of the skin and mucous membranes of the nose, throat and bronchial tubes. Excess of blood in the stomach still more closes the pores of the skin, and enters the system, so that effete matter, which should be carried off by the natural courses is retained, which is a simple reason for not stuffing a cold. Experimenting with severe cold is a serious custom, as most persons try one remedy until some friend suggests another "sure cure." When slight hoarseness or tightening of the nasal membrane warns one of skin exposure or chill from whatever cause, act promptly, delays are dangerous; with children it may mean croup and strangulation; with adults, catarrh, laryngitis, perhaps pneumonia. Scores of deaths occur as soon as go to bed without means in the house as without that old-fashioned remedy, Johnson's Anodyne Liniment near at hand for colds and croupy children. The proprietors, J. S. Johnson & Co., Boston, Mass., will send their illustrated book entitled "Treatment for Diseases," free to any person for the asking.

A NEALTHY FOE.
Bright's Disease may Exist a Long While before it is Suspected.
Dizziness, Jan. 14.—Bright's disease has no symptoms of its own, and may long exist without the knowledge of the patient or practitioner, as no pain may be felt in the kidneys or their vicinity. There may be no atom in the water and no to be cast, yet Bright's disease may be present. It often develops suddenly and may run a fatal course before it is recognized. Bright's Disease is thus recognized as a mysterious, every day malady, which is increasing at an alarming rate. Before Dodd's Kidney Pills were placed within reach of the public, these diseases were considered by medical men and the public to be incurable. Thanks to this popular remedy, thousands are now enjoying perfect health who, without it, would today be laid away in their graves.
For men are so lazy that they will not run for a good fat office. It is some what paradoxical, by the way, that the fat offices are much rarer in the world than the lean ones are.—Boston Transcript.

THE REVIEW OF REVIEWS
Edited by ALBERT SHAW
It WAS in April, 1891, that the first number of the American Review of Reviews was printed. The new idea of giving the best that was in the other magazines in addition to its own brilliant, original articles, took America by storm, as it had taken England—through the magazine itself was not at all a reprint of the English edition. It deals most largely with American affairs, and is edited with perfect independence, in its own office.
The Review of Reviews is a monthly, timely in illustration and text, and instantly alive to the newest movements of the day, to a degree never before dreamed of. Thousands of readers who offer their commendations, among them the greatest names in the world, say that the Review of Reviews gives them exactly what they should know about politics, literature, economics and social progress. The most influential men and women of all creeds and all parties have agreed that no family can afford to lose its educational value, while for professional and business men, it is simply indispensable. The departments are conducted by careful specialists, instead of mere scissors-wielders, and scores of immediately interesting portraits and pictures are in each number.
All this explains why the Review of Reviews has come to a probably unprecedented success in the first three years of its existence. For 1895 it will be more invaluable than ever.

A SPY AMONG THE ANARCHISTS.
A young man named Eugene arrived in London from Paris last August and made his home in the anarchist quarter. He appeared to be a Frenchman, and he hid his true identity and found his employment. Gradually they admitted him to their confidence. He professed their doctrines and often took part in their secret councils. By the end of November he had attended several of their secret meetings. It was then noticed that the Paris police were getting an unusual amount of information as to anarchist proceedings. Early in the month of December last the anarchist leaders began to suspect Eugene. They were not sure until an important document addressed to Eugene by Commissioner Aubry, Third Brigade Paris Police, was delivered by mistake to an English anarchist. Twenty hours later a special meeting was called. Eugene was invited to be present. The moment he entered the door he was seized and bound. He was kicked, cuffed and spat upon. With a revolver at his head and several knives at his breast, he was ordered to confess within ten minutes. He acknowledged to a trusted police agent known as Cotin, Cavalier and Cottance. In the search of his person a bundle of police documents was found in a secret pocket. One of them was a letter from the Paris prefecture instructing him to watch and report in full the doings of a woman who was about to start from Dieppe for London. When the document was read all the questions the anarchists came to ask, his captors proposed to kill him. Ultimately he was kicked into the street with the warning that he would be killed if he did not leave London at once. He started for Paris and is said to have entered the army to protect his life. London anarchists will send portraits of him to France to be circulated among anarchists of the principal cities.

The Cheapest and Most Economical
Important Facts Concerning Prepared Foods.
One great objection to the majority of prepared foods for infant use is their cost. Many foods have been given up because of their expense. When such food are used a burden is imposed upon many families of small means.
Our Canadian mothers should be furnished with the best and most nutritious food at a price that all can afford. Lactated Food, which is prepared according to directions, is the cheapest and most economical food in the world.
While Lactated Food has the advantage over all other foods in point of economy and cleanliness, it also possesses qualities of far greater importance. Lactated Food is indifferently more nutritious and strengthening than any other food now seeking recognition. Thousands of frail, weak and half-fed babies in Canada have been made strong, hearty and happy through the use of Lactated Food.
The work of life-saving goes on every day in the delight of mothers and physicians, and the good news quickly spreads that Lactated Food is the cheapest and safest for babies.
At Preslar, near Durham, England John Smith, a preacher, while in the middle of delivering a special missionary sermon, suddenly recited backward and expired for some forty years ago, another preacher, also named John Smith, died suddenly in the same pulpit.
For Over Fifty Years.
An Old and Well Tried Remedy.—Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup has been used for over fifty years by millions of mothers for their children while teething, with perfect success. It soothes the child, softens the gums, allays the pain, cures the colic, and is the best remedy for Diarrhoea. It is pleasant to the taste. Sold by Druggists in every part of the world. Twenty-five cents a bottle. Its value is incalculable. Be sure and ask for Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup, and take no other kind.—m. w. f. w. kly—1

THE REVIEW OF REVIEWS
Edited by ALBERT SHAW
It WAS in April, 1891, that the first number of the American Review of Reviews was printed. The new idea of giving the best that was in the other magazines in addition to its own brilliant, original articles, took America by storm, as it had taken England—through the magazine itself was not at all a reprint of the English edition. It deals most largely with American affairs, and is edited with perfect independence, in its own office.
The Review of Reviews is a monthly, timely in illustration and text, and instantly alive to the newest movements of the day, to a degree never before dreamed of. Thousands of readers who offer their commendations, among them the greatest names in the world, say that the Review of Reviews gives them exactly what they should know about politics, literature, economics and social progress. The most influential men and women of all creeds and all parties have agreed that no family can afford to lose its educational value, while for professional and business men, it is simply indispensable. The departments are conducted by careful specialists, instead of mere scissors-wielders, and scores of immediately interesting portraits and pictures are in each number.

Harper's Weekly
IN 1895
HARPER'S WEEKLY is a pictorial history of the times. It presents every important event promptly, accurately and fully, in illustration and descriptive text of the highest order.
The manner in which, during 1894, it has treated the Chicago Railway Strikes and the Sino-Japanese War, and the amount of light it was able to throw on the instant attention was directed to that little known country, are examples of its almost boundless resources. Julian Ralph, the distinguished writer and correspondent, has been sent to the seat of war, and there joined by C. D. Weldon, the well-known American artist, now for many years resident in Japan, who has been engaged to cooperate with Mr. Ralph in sending to HARPER'S WEEKLY exclusive information and illustration.
During 1895 every vital question will be discussed with vigor and without prejudice in the editorials, and also in special articles by the highest authorities in each department. Portraits of the men and women who are making history, and powerful and caustic political cartoons, will continue to be characteristic features. This Busy World, with its keen and kindly comment on the lesser doings of the day, will remain a regular department.
Lectures there will be two powerful serials, both handsomely illustrated—"The Red Cockade," a stirring romance of olden days by Stanley J. Weyman, and a novel of New York, entitled "The Son of His Father," by Brampton Matthews—several new serials, and many short stories by popular writers.
Send for Illustrated Prospectus.

The Volumes of the WEEKLY begin with the first number for January of each year. When no time is mentioned, subscriptions will begin with the Number current at the time of receipt of order.
Remittances should be made by Post Office Money Order or Draft, to avoid chance of loss.
