THE NAMES OF THE DEAD.

We're Irish: they said we'd not fight for the Queen. Was that right? Ask for the names of the women who cried—
For the heroes who charged to the cannon and died:
Go ask for the names of the dead.

Our brothers are dead in the Transvaal: English and Scotch—and is that all? Who died that the whole world might know
That watered by blood the Empire would grow?
Go ask for the names of the dead.

We've drunk to the Queen—God bless her!
We've fought with the Boers—who curd her!
And we're Britons! We're true to the flag!
When the fighting was on did one of us lag!
Go ask for the names of the dead.

English, and Scotchmen, and Irish—all Britons yet
When we fail, there'll be room in the Empire to let;
We have wrongs, we are poor—God knows, but we'll wait
Like Fusiliers, not traitors, we'll fight against fate,
Go look at the names of the dead.

We'll pray for the names of the honoured dead;
We'll drink to the Empire their dying has made:
Is their blood, and our blood, the banner has stained;
It's their land, and our land, the dying has gained.
Go pray for the souls of the dead.
W. A. FRASER.

The Paregoric Fiend.

Down the village street, getting one foot before the other with a combination of a jerk and a drag, came a shriveled, tremulous figure.

"See him?" a villager inquired of the summer resident, pointing a shoulder at the shuffling figure. "That's a paregoric fiend. He swallows more paregoric than all the babies in the village put together. How'd he get in the way of taking the stuff? Well, you know, there's some old women in our town that think paregoric good for all manner of things that's the matter with your insides, an when daddy had pains from eating too much his wife dosed him with paregoric, an the first thing she knowed he cou'dn't get on without it. He's worse'n a drunkard now, an you can't get within ten feet of him without smellin the stuff. He had a stroke a spell back, an the doctors tried to scare him about using paregoric, but it wasn't no use. He'll never stop now till he stops breathing."—Exchange.

Gold and Silver Signs.

Nearly $100,000 worth of gold and over $200,000 worth of silver are left out of doors, unguarded, every night the year round in Greater New York.

No one ever thinks of stealing it, and indeed, until some inventive thief comes along the owners need have no fear, because the wealth is securely glued down and generally from ten to 100 feet above the sidewalk.

It is on the signs of the city. Gold and silver leaf, far purer than the metal which Uncle Sam uses for his coins, amounting in value to over $200,000 a year, is used on the signs of this city. One brewery alone spends $50,000 annually for gold and silver leaf. Next to the brewers the cigar manufacturers go in most extensively for gold and silver signs, while a good authority has estimated that on the windows and above the doors of New York's drug stores there is enough gold to tempt any number of thieves.—New York World.

Also Anxious About It.

"I would like to know," said the gruff old father to the young man who had been calling with considerable frequency, "whether you are going to marry my daughter?"

"So would I," answered the diffident young man. "Would you mind asking her?"—Chicago Post.

Accounting For the Shortage.

"Brimble seems to have a good deal more money than brains."

"Yes. All he inherited from his father was the money."—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

A tax of sixpence per head is levied on all passengers landed in the Isle of Man. It is collected from the steamship companies carrying the passengers.

The custom of keeping birthdays is many thousands of years old. Pharaoh's birthday festivities are mentioned in the Pentateuch.

SUPREME COURT.

TUESDAY, NOV. 7.

Susanna Ferguson, appellant, and Jessie Hogg, respondent. In this case, which has already been referred to, the appeal was allowed the judgment of the magistrate reversed and the prosecutor, Mrs. Hogg, ordered to pay the costs of the proceedings.

The evidence showed that the Middlemore child had not been ill-treated, and the court held that while it would see that no child was improperly treated, especially waifs, it would also see that no parent would be improperly interfered with in the rearing of a child.

WEDNESDAY, NOV. 8.

Today the Court is hearing the argument on the return of a rule nisi for a non suit or new trial in the case of Nelson W. Allen vs. the Charlottetown Steam Navigation Company, a verdict having been rendered last term for plaintiff for $155. Stewart, Q. C., and J. S. McDonald, for plaintiff; Hazard, Q. C., and A. Peters, Q. C., for defendant.

A DANGEROUS PLAYTHING.—A little girl named Ella Smith, daughter of Walter Smith, Sunbury County, N. B., had the thumb and middle finger of one of her hands blown off by a dynamite cartridge last Saturday evening. Ella found the cartridge in a pantry, and was picking it with a pin, when it exploded with the result mentioned.

THE BELLE ISLE ROUTE.—A cable from London says: The Newfoundland correspondent of the Financial News says the disaster of the Scotsman has probably proved the death blow to the Belleisle route. After citing reasons the writer insists that it is imperative that the Belleisle route should be abandoned and the Cabot channel used instead.

SALVATION ARMY.—The graphophone grand (the largest made) to be heard at the Salvation Army to-morrow (Thursday) evening reproduces music with a power and distinctness remarkable. It will prove a rare treat. Admission to the musical meeting, 5 cents; to the coffee social following, 10 cents.

ADDRESS LAST NIGHT.—Rev. Mr. Fraser, a returned missionary from Trinidad, delivered a very interesting address in Zion Church Hall last evening. He reviewed the progress of the Presbyterian mission work in Trinidad; and said that if the ministers in Canada had the opportunity to acquire a few weeks experience of the routine of the native workers more Christian work would be done at home.

TWENTIETH CENTURY FUND.—On Friday evening the two Methodist congregations of the city will unite in holding a meeting, for which arrangements are completed, in the interest of the 20th Century Fund. Addresses will be delivered by Rev. Dr. Carman, of Toronto, Rev. Dr. Brecken, of Sackville, and others. Next Sunday Rev. Dr. Carman and Rev. Dr. Brecken, will each preach the morning and evening services in Grace Church and the First Church, Rev. Dr. Carman being in Grace Church in the morning.

PRESBYTERY.—The Presbytery of P. E. Island met in St. James' Hall yesterday at 11 a. m. Besides a large attendance of ministers and elders, Rev. S. A. Fraser, of Trinidad, and Mr. Robert Murray, editor Presbyterian Witness, were present. A call from Orwell to Mr. A. J. McNeill was sustained, and November 24th was fixed as the date of his induction. A call from Alberton to Rev. H. G. Grant was sustained, and November 21st was fixed as the date of induction. It was cordially and unanimously resolved not to accept the resignation of Rev. T. F. Fullerton, but to grant him leave of absence. Mr. W. H. Smith, of Summerside, was appointed to preach in St. James' Church next Sunday. Mr. A. H. Foster declined the call to Cavendish. The 20th Century Fund was discussed and the Island divided into five districts each under the charge of a minister. Rev. Geo. Millar was appointed convener of the central committee. The Presbytery adjourned to meet in the Orwell Church on Tuesday, Nov 21st. It will also meet at Alberton, on Thursday, Nov 23rd.
