EXTRAORDINARY CURE OF ASTHMA!!! OF AN OLD LADY SEVENTY FIVE YEARS OF AGE.

Coppy of a Letter from Mr. Thomas Weston, (Book Reviewer of the 31st October, 1854.) To Professor Holloway.

Sir,—Gratitude compels me to make known to you the extraordinary benefit an aged parent has derived from the use of your Pills. My mother was afflicted for upwards of four and twenty years with asthma and spitting of blood; it was quite agony to see her suffer and hear her cry; I have often declared, that I would give all I possessed to have her cured; but although I paid a large sum for medicine and advice, it was all to no purpose.

REMARKABLE CURE OF DROPSY.

AFTER ASKING SEVERAL TIMES.

Coppy of a Letter from Anthony Smith, Esq. Halifax, Nova Scotia, dated the 25th August, 1854 To Professor Holloway.

Sir,—I desire to add my testimony to the value of your medicine in general, and to the cure it has afforded the greatest tortures of this distressing complaint; was tapped three times, and finally given up by the doctors; having immediately to my relief, and with more strength, I remain, Sir, as healthy as I was when, that I thought of trying your pills, but immediately sent a quantity, and commenced using them. The result I can scarcely credit, but more, although true it is. After using them for two weeks, I found relief, and after persevering with them, at the expiration of two months, I was completely cured. I have since enjoyed the best of health. I am, Sir, very sincerely (Signed) ANTHONY SMITH.

To Professor Holloway, Sir,—I am happy to say, that your Pills have restored me to health after suffering for nine years of the most general debility and languor; my liver and bowels were also much deranged for the whole of that time. I tried many medicines, but they were of no avail to me, until I had recourse to your Pills, by which, which, and following the printed directions for seven weeks I was cured, after every other means failed at the establishment of my neighbours, acquaintance, friends, I shall ever be grateful to you for this astonishing restoration to health, and will recommend your Pills to all sufferers, feeling it my duty to do so.

I remain, Sir, your humble servant, (Signed) WILLIAM REEVES.

GENERAL SUMMARY.

A HUSBAND FOR THE PRINCESS ROYAL.—The Spectator has the following remarks upon a subject of a husband for the Princess Royal:—Prince Frederick William of Prussia is a guest at Balmoral, where he is very much admired by the villagers. The Princess Royal, now almost fifteen years of age, is as tall as her mother, and is "quite the woman"; and a report of Balmoral has been published, containing the information that Prince Frederick William comes to court a bride. The supposition is perhaps more reasonable, where the Princess Royal is so educated in an unusual degree of freedom for a British Princess in being the reigning sovereign here she became a bride; and she was enabled to secure her own contentment by associating with the tastes of her affections. Etiquette has stifled more than one succedute to prove the genuine character of the Princess—still, the rule, at least, will some future day, when history may record the earliest evidence of that happy union which has rendered the Queen and her husband a model pair for the encouragement of the masses. Of course, a Princess Royal could not expect the same immunities with a Queen-regnant; but Queen Victoria is a woman of so much sense, as well as good feeling, and so much affection, that she would be put upon her daughter, and we do not imagine, that the Princess Victoria will become Queen of the Provinces, and be obliged to a royal compulsion. If there is truth in the story current, it is most probable, that the young people are to make each other's acquaintance, and will be left to their own choice of partners. I claim. And, sooth to say, such a prize is seldom worth having, unless it be fairly won. Even were it to be given to the Princess, I believe, however, truth, as destiny makes them discover, most truths which are essential to our mortal nature."

Dr. Lardner has published the following letter in the Times.

The public in England and France have lately been interested in the proceedings of the despatches regarding the details of the fall of Sebastopol. Are you and the public, of whom you are the organ, aware that these despatches which have been sent to the public, to fill six columns of the Times in London in two hours!

The means of accomplishing this, unlike the ordinary expedients of the printer, are to be kept secret. They are public, and at the disposition of government. A newspaper is not the place for political demonstrations. In this case they are the property of the Ministry of the Interior, in the presence of two commissions—one of the legislative assembly, and the other of the institute—A telegraphic wire was prepared, which extended over great parts of France, its two extremities being brought into the room where the experiment was made. The length of the wire was 10822 miles, and the apparatus was so arranged, that the despatch took place under the eyes of the commissions. A despatch consisting of 282 words was transmitted from one end of the wire, and 282 words to the other and immediately began to write the message on a sheet of paper. The entire message was written in full, each word being printed by the telegraph, and without abbreviation, in fifty two seconds.

By this means, therefore, 20,000 words, which require round numbers, would be transmitted in an hour; and a paper attached to the other end of the wire, you publish would be transmitted in two hours.

It is scarcely necessary to say, that neither the length of the despatch, nor the distance has any effect upon the speed of the apparatus. The entire mode of the arrival would for all practical purposes be as great for 10,000 as for 1,000 miles, and the length of the apparatus would make no difference in the time of its delivery in the ratio of about 300 words per minute.

Why, then, do not the Governments of England and France avail themselves of this power? After the above experiment, the French Government had the necessary apparatus constructed, and still possesses it. I have more than once asked the authorities why they did not avail themselves of it. Their answer was, that, save in the most rare and exceptional cases, 30 or 30 words would be transmitted in an hour. I have sent messages, and that it was not worth while to organize a staff to work the telegraph in these exceptional cases.

I may add, that with the concurrence of the intermediate States through which the wires are carried, it would be easy to transmit the contents of the despatches transmitted would be unknown to all but the persons at the terminal stations.

The St. John Freeman reports that desertion from that Garrison are again becoming frequent. Within these three last weeks, three men of the 70th walked off; and on Saturday four of the Artillery went on a pleasure excursion and have not yet returned. They took with them a coat and their arms and accoutrements.
