FUNERAL OF MRS A. J. MACFADYEN

The funeral of the late Mrs. A. J. MacFadyen took place on Monday, May 18th, from her late residence, Ingleside, Tignish. Her body was laid beside that of her husband in the cemetery of the little church which the family had attended for so many years.

The solemn funeral service was sympathetically conducted by Rev. Dr. J. K. Fraser, M.A., an old friend of the family, assisted by the Rev. John Sheen, of Alberton. Relatives who attended were Mr. and Mrs. C. R. Rogers and Mr. Graham Rogers, of Summerside; Mr. and Mrs. J. E. C. Hunter, of Alberton, and Colonel and Mrs. Cecil Stewart and Mr. R. H. Rogers, of Charlottetown. The pallbearers were Mr. John B. Myrick, Mr. John McIntosh, Mr. E. J. McTague, Mr. John H. Myrick, Mr. J. A. Bernard and Mr. C. B. Morris.

Many beautiful tributes were received from friends at home and abroad.

A great spirit has passed in the person of Mrs. MacFadyen, who was, as long as health permitted, a delightful hostess to a large circle of friends, in her spacious and hospitable home, as well as a friend to all her neighbours, especially those in trouble and need. Her influence will long be felt, and her passing and the closing of the MacFadyen home will cause a great blank.

Mrs. MacFadyen was the last representative of a well known family, being the youngest daughter of the late Captain William Hubbard, of London, England, who came to P. E. Island about a century ago.

Much sympathy is felt for Mrs. (Dr.) W. W. Wickham, who has so tenderly cared for her mother for a long period. Only two other members of the family survive, Dr. J. Y. MacFadyen, O.B.E., of the British West Indies, and Kenneth, electrical engineer, residing in Glasgow, Scotland, both of whom were unfortunately too far away to reach home in time for the obsequies.

GASOLINE INDUSTRY UNDER-FIRE

Heated Discussion In Parliament Over High Cost of Gasoline.

(C. P. By Guardian's Special Wire)

OTTAWA, May 20. — The tariff board will be instructed to maintain a watching brief over the gasoline industry in the light of tariff changes announced in the budget, and particularly to keep track of price changes, Finance Minister Dunning told the House of Commons today.

"I propose to ask the Tariff Board," he said, "to keep in touch with developments which follow the changes in duty proposed in the petroleum schedules and particularly to keep informed as to the price situation and as to the performance of the major companies in rectifying the uneconomic conditions of distribution and to study the relation of railway and other transportation to the petroleum industry.

"The changes proposed in the present (petroleum) schedules seem to call for price adjustments in all parts of Canada excepting possibly the populous parts of Quebec and Ontario. If the results which we anticipate do not follow then we will expect to be able, on the information supplied by the (tariff) board, to come to proper conclusions as to the course which should be pursued."

The Minister made his announcement as a climax to a short but stormy discussion of crude oil duties and the gasoline industry as a whole. He said the majority of skimming plants in the west had been guilty of defrauding the government of customs duties in the past and already had paid over $50,000 in penalties. With the exception of a few owned by farmers, the skimming plants of the west were a "racket" and, judging from profits, a financial gold mine.

Canada is dominated by a gasoline monopoly Gordon Robs (Lib. Moose Jaw) said when he started the discussion. United States companies in the Canadian field charge higher prices than in American markets.

Mr. Ross quoted figures to show gasoline could be imported at Halifax or Vancouver, all duties and freight and handling charges paid and sold below current prices.

"The American companies selling gasoline in Canada," said Mr. Ross, "are charging the consumers in Canada three to six cents a gallon more than they charge their own people in the United States."

The gasoline industry in Canada was "a monopoly so entrenched that if anyone bucks it, he will be broken before he goes far. That has happened to many in the past."

T. C. Douglas (CCF- Weyburn) made the charge the government was trying to force small skimming plants out of business by the removal of high-grade crude from the free list. The tariff change was "the hand of the government but the voice of the big oil companies" and he moved to replace high-grade oil on the free list. This motion eventually was ruled out of order by Deputy Speaker Sanderson.

This charge was resented by the Finance Minister who indignantly denied he was acting as an agent for the big oil companies. He referred to the recent tariff board investigation of the industry and its recommendations which had been embodied in the budget.

Part of the evidence given to the board was confidential, Mr. Dunning continued, but it was handed on to him for his information. Without disclosing its nature he could tell the House "the majority of them (skimming plants) had been guilty of defrauding the Customs of Canada and have settled for considerable sums for doing so."

The one-half-cent duty will not put any honest skimming plant out of business, Mr. Dunning said, but it "will absolutely end the business of bringing in doctored crude oil or spiked crude."

Spanish Leader

Santiago Casares Quiroga, above, close friend of President Manuel Azana and energetic minister of the interior in the last cabinet, has announced the formation of a new government. Casares' decision to relinquish the post of minister of the interior to give himself the post of minister of war occasioned no little surprise in government circles. Another important change was the assigning of the post of minister of labor to Juan Luhi, a member of the Catalan leftists.

COMMONSENSE BEAUTY

ATTENTION THE KEYNOTE

According to legend, beauty and commonsense have nothing in common, but believe me, they have more than a little. Thy have everything in common, when one really gets down to the root of things.

In the first place, no one can have a lovely complexion unless the system is kept cleansed and in order, so that here, immediately, we come down to sheer commonsense.

No one can have beautiful hair, without the little trouble involved in taking care of it regularly. Beautiful hands, beautiful feet, lovely eyes, all these things need attention and a certain amount of sound commonsense to attain.

A little make-up makes a passably good looking woman delightfully, attractive but that make-up must be right chosen specially to suit the requirements of her skin and colouring—otherwise it will not be successful. I suppose one of the commonest mistakes many women make with regard to their make us, is in using preparations, such as cream, powders, and lotions, that are, as it were, not related to each other.

It is really essential to know whether your skin is of the greasy type, or the dry tpye, for by using things that are not suited to it you can do a lot of harm. There are special face powders designed for use of each type of skin.

Curiously enough, dry skinned women often have very great difficulty in getting a powder base that will really prevent unbecoming shininess, and this is where a special cream comes in, as it keeps the skin with a lovely matt finish without constant attention.

Those who have for some reason or other to be out in all weathers need something in the way of extra protection for their skins if they are to avoid a weather beaten look; and an anti-weather cream is a splendid thing for this purpose. People with dry skins should use a paste rouge, while the greasy types should use a powder rouge.

Shiny noses are the bane of our existences, special cream spread sparingly on with the finger-tips, and lightly powdered over before it is dry does really work miracles, and relieves us from worry.

MAKE-UP HINTS

Here are a few simple make-up hints which may help to put you on the right road. Always choose lipstick and rouge that match in shade. Be careful in the choice of the shade of powder you use.

Never try and "patch" your make-up, it will never look right, and it saves time to clean up with a lemon cleansing cream and start off afresh. Never powder directly on to the skin, always use a good base or foundation. Be sure to powder your neck as well as your face, otherwise you will have a distinct line. Always apply your eye cosmetic movement, which makes the lashes curl naturally after a time.

Those with a sallow skin should use a slightly pink toned powder.

If your skin is fair and creamy looking, a light peach powder will enhance its beaty.

If you have a dark creamy skin use either peach, dawn rose, or natural powder.

Those with a somewhat florid skin, or any sign of those wretched little red veins must studiously avoid all pinkish powders; choosing instead the creamy yellow and oyster shades, with a fuchsia shade rouge to complete the very charming effect.

face and throat with rich cream and pat lightly with your fingertips until some of the cream is absorbed and your skin feels soft and flexible instead of drawn and dry.

If your complexion is oily, omit the cream, finishing the mask treatment with skin toning lotion or plain witch hazel.

Notes Increase In Trade For United States

(A. P. By Guardians Special Wire)

KANSAS CITY, Mo., May 20—Francis B. Sayre, assistant secretary of state, said today there has been a "gratifying increase" in trade with countries with which the United States has negotiated reciprocal commercial agreements.

The state department's trade authority, addressing the Kansas City Chamber of Commerce, cited gains he said had been made in American exports to Canada, Cuba, Belgium and Sweden since pacts with those nations went into effect.

"The trade agreement with Canada came into force on Jan. 1, 1936," he said. "During the first two months when it was in effect exports to Canada totalled $52,000,000 in contrast to $46,100,000 for the same two months of 1935.

"Of even more striking significance is the fact that the increase of exports on items on which Canada granted (tariff) concessions amounted to 26 per cent, whereas exports of non-concesison items increased by only eight per cent."

Arsenal Plans Luxury Stand

(Canadian Press)

LONDON, May 20—Every modern contrivance for the comfort of spectators will be installed in the new $500,000 two-tier grandstand to be erected by the famous Arsenal Football Club at its Highbury ground this summer.

The latest scientific devices for broadcasting, television and floodlighting will be incorporated in the new structure along with luncheon and tea-rooms and bars. When the stand is completed the ground accommodation will be increased by about 2,000 and it is estimated approximately 75,000 to 80,000 will be able to see the colorful Gunners perform.

It is expected the lower tier with its 6,000-odd tip-up seats will be ready for the start of next season but the upper tier with room for 4,200 more fans will not be completed until the end of the year. The stand will replace the existing East stand.

Each of the tiers will be a complete unit with its own luncheon and tea-rooms and bars. It is said the bar on the upper tier with a length of 98 feet will be the second longest in the world—the longest is in Shanghai.

Features of the new structure will include a view-box from which stewards or police can have the whole ground in view and by a system of controls will be able to speak to any part of it.

Eye Wrinkles

"The average well-groomed French woman uses two face powders," a chic Parisienne informed us as we discussed beauty for women of all nations.

"First she puts on a thin coat of light-textured, light-colored powder, then pats liberal quantities of her regular, darker shade over it. After a few minutes, she uses a soft complexion brush to remove the surplus."

Then she told me that nightly applications of lanolin or olive oil under and around the eyes will discourage lines and wrinkles and make the skin clear and healthy. She advises it for the throat as well.

She spoke about freckles, too, and gave me this old recipe for a homemade preparation which is supposed to make them less conspicuous:

"Beat the white of an egg and the juice of one lemon together in a mixing bowl. When the mixture is frothy, add one cup of water and one tablespoonful of powdered sugar. Beat again, then spread over the freckled area and leave on all night. Naturally, you should cleanse your skin before you start.

"As for general care and toning of the complexion, I think most French women appreciate the value of a milk mask," she went on.

"Simply put two tablespoonfuls of regular breakfast oatmeal in a double boiler, add one cup of milk, and cook until you have a smooth, thick paste. Add two teaspoons of rose water, let cool, then spread the mixture over face and throat. Cover with gauze and leave on for one hour. Rinse off with lukewarm water."

If you have dry skin, remember of course, that tissue cream should follow any mask treatment. When you have removed a mask, cover

TOWNSHEND IRRITATED BY PROBE

Predicts He Will Have 200 Supporters In Next Congress.

(A. P. By Guardian's Special Wire)

WASHINGTON, May 20—Irritated by sharp questioning regarding his knowledge of the Townsend $200 a month old age pension movement, Dr. F. E. Townsend, its co-founder, snapped back at a United States House of Representatives investigating committee today with a blunt, "Oh, why all this nonsense!"

"As a matter of fact you don't know much about the Townsend movement except the collection of money, do you," pressed representative Hoffman (R., Mich).

The elderly pension leader, who had remained unruffled for the most part under a barrage of questions during his second day before the committee, readily conceded Townsend club members had contributed "in the neighborhood of $1,000,000 since the inception of the movement."

"And what did the contributors receive in return?" asked James R. Sullivan, committee counsel.

"They got our organization which is exactly what they paid for," Townsend replied. "We have 8,000 clubs throughout the country and a live working organization."

Later he predicted to reporters the next Congress would have at least 200 House members pledged to his plan.

"We will sweep the country west of the Mississippi," he said, adding he had several conferences with Father Coughlin, Detroit priest and leader of the National Union for Social Justice, and with Gerald K. Smith, an organizer for the share-the-wealth movement launched by the late Senator Huey P. Long.

The pensions leader said, however, a third party alliance of the three organizations was not contemplated at this time.

Private Funeral Services For B.C. Nicholas

VICTORIA, May 20—Private funeral services for B. C. Nicholas, editor of the Victoria Times who died suddenly while at his desk Tuesday, will be held here Friday afternoon.

The services will be conducted at 2.30 o'clock (6.30 p. m. AST) and interment will take place in the Ross Bay Cemetery.

Numerous tributes were paid by public men who were associated with the witty editor of Victoria's evening newspaper. Although Mr. Nicholas had not been in the best of health lately, his death was unexpected.

Prime Minister King, Premier Pattullo of British Columbia and scores of his associates in newspaper work mourned Mr. Nicholas' death. Premier King termed him "one of my most valued friends."

Mr. Nicholas was born in Virginia City, Nev., in 1879 and came with his family to Victoria in 1885. He had been associated with the Times since 1900.
