To the Editor of the Examiner.

Sir,—Our letter of the 28th ult., has elicited a characteristic reply from the Secretary for the Fish and Game Protection Society. He is foolish to lose his temper; and ungrateful to us for the friendly service we rendered him. His last production shews unmistakable internal evidence of the aid of a more intelligent writer than himself. But, though not so glaringly and ridiculously vulgar in style as his first letter, his sentences are still exceedingly clumsy and incorrect. "Codfish got here somehow, the how and the wherefore best known to himself." This may be "simple English," but we would not call it elegant. "Likely a North Briton, who, having 'no honor in his own country,' migrated to the colonies to better his condition." This, if not a lucid, is a "hanging sentence." The "North Briton" is left suspended between heaven and earth having no occupation in the above sentence. Then naturally follows:—"Socially he occupies a position a good deal similar to Mahomet's coffin—suspended between heaven and earth, i. e. all the aspirations of the one with the low tendencies." "Aspirations" are hanged with the "North Briton," having no connection, as a word with its neighbors, that we can even guess. And so on, sentence after sentence, ad nauseam. But we were nearly forgetting that S. D. F. had commanded us to leave his language alone and had informed us that we could not "improve it." Well, we admit we cannot improve his style, for like Artemas Ward's wife, it requires "reconstruction." He calls that an "un toward accident" which enables a man on coming to this free Canada of ours, to rise from an obscure position, to one of trust and honor. Verily, this is high toriyism with a vengeance; and a doctrine which if acted upon would give num-skulls and incapables, a fee simple to places and positions, for all time. Is this the age and the country for a privileged class? Are ability and industry of no account? "These kind of fellows must have their fingers &c." Think of it, Col. Duvar, and bless your stars that you have such able assistants as "these kind," and don't despise your volunteer ally, who, while physically strong himself, yet, with a savage brutality, and in defiance of all the laws that govern decent and civilized society, gloats over the fact that his supposed adversary has what he calls "game leg." Who, but a dastard coward would resort to the contemptible expedient of alluding to the bodily infirmities of his opponent, when beaten in fair argument? This mode of warfare, coarse, cruel and mean, has not even been resorted to by the "Zulus" or "Niggers," and is only fit to be employed by a cowardly poltroon who would fire at his enemy from behind a bush or "old barn door." "I wonder if I'm mistaken in my goose this time."

He calls us a "fellow," a "cad," and "a carrion," and then triumphantly informs the public that he is our "superior." He certainly is good authority; for who could be more impartial or who better, and more internally acquainted with the "Secretary" than "S. D. F.?" And in the interest of the "Fish and Game," what question of more paramount interest could arise, than the social status of S. D. F.? The fact that we are socially and intellectually beneath him, must be very gratifying to your readers. We, in our ignorance, imagined that both S. D. F. and ourselves were factors with which the public had no concern, as regards this "burning question." But it seems we were wrong, for S. D. F. thinks differently. We made no personal attack upon S. D. F., nor will we do so now. We leave that mode of literary warfare to such writers as mistake low scurrilous abuse for wit and argument. What we may, or may not, know privately and personally of S. D. F. is beside the mark. We simply deal with him, as a writer who has put himself in a ridiculous position unasked by the society of whom he is Secretary. We regret that he has forgotten, or never known, the decencies of journalism in trying to drag the private affairs of private citizens into the discussion. We are not egotistical enough to suppose that the public are interested in our personal appearance when they read our letter, we simply expect them to judge of it on its own merits. But the public are deeply interested in the preservation of Fish and Game, and also in the question of Provincial, versus Dominion rights to the possession and control of our river fisheries. This latter question is one of constitutional law, which has not yet been considered, but perhaps the day is not far distant when some wealthy citizen, or citizens, will give the Supreme Court of Canada an opportunity of deliberating upon it. Thanking you for your space, and promising not to trouble you again,

yours truly,
CODFISH.

Constitutional Catarrh Remedy
CURES CATARRH.

Hear what a Reverend Gentleman says of the Constitutional Remedy.
T. J. B. HARDING, Esq., Brockville, Ont.:—
DEAR SIR—It is now two years since your "Constitutional Catarrh Remedy" was introduced to me. I have waited this long to see if the cure would remain permanent before doing this, my duty, to you, as at first the happy effects seemed to me to be "too good to be true."
I was afflicted in my head for years before I suspected it to be Catarrh. In reading in your Circular I saw my case described in many particulars. The inward "drop" from the head had become very disagreeable, and a choking sensation often preventing me from lying long, I would feel like smothering and be compelled to sit up in the bed. My health and spirits were seriously affected. When your agent came to Walkertown in August, 1876, I secured three bottles. Before I had used a quarter of the contents of one bottle I found decided relief, and when I had used two bottles and a third, I quit taking it, feeling quite cured of that ailment, and have not used any since until of late I have taken some for a cold in my head.
A sense of duty to sufferers from that loathsome disease, Catarrh, prompts me to send you this Certificate, unsolicited, with leave to make what use of it you may see proper.
Yours truly,
W. TINDALL, Methodist Minister.
