

The "Albert" Toilet Soap Co's Baby's Own Soap makes youngsters, clean, sweet, and fresh.

It keeps their delicate skins in good order. Made entirely from vegetable fats, it is an emollient as well as a cleanser, and is as useful on a lady's toilet as in the nursery. Faintly but exquisitely aromatic.

Beware of imitations.

Giving—A Duty and a Privilege.

"Give, and it shall be given unto you; good measure, pressed down and shaken together and running over, shall men give into your bosom. For with the same measure that ye mete withal it shall be measured to you again."

Nowadays we seem to have almost lost the idea of giving as a privilege, or even as a duty. Of course there are endless demands for money in the name of charity, and everybody is expected to contribute—either grumblingly or cheerfully—to some of them at least. But giving as a principle is something different from that. If that were all, then: if there were no poor people and no church to support, we should not need to give anything. Was not Noah in that position, rather, when he came out of the ark? But he seemed to feel that he owed a debt of gratitude to God, and could not rest satisfied until he had presented a most costly offering. Think how valuable each animal was, when there were so few left alive; still he did not hesitate but, "took of every clean beast, and of every clean fowl, and offered burnt offerings on the altar." Would not many practical philanthropists of this utilitarian age murmur under their breath, "to what purpose is this waste? It might seem to many kindly, generous people as though the costly ointment poured out like water at the feet of Christ might better have been "sold for much and given to the poor."

They understand the practical use of gifts when they benefit somebody; but when they are only the outpourings of love and gratitude, given with reckless lavishness, they seem to them like extravagant waste. They do not understand the spirit of loving loyalty which made David's mighty men risk their lives gladly, only to get him the water that he longed for from the well of Bethlehem. Yet, surely the gifts of love are dear to our Heavenly Father, for the precious ointment was gratefully received by the Master.

But let us look into this matter of giving as an abstract duty, whether anyone needs our help or not. God requires a percentage of our money as He does of our time. If He did not, we might soon imagine that it belonged entirely to ourselves—to be disposed of exactly as we chose. We are stewards, not owners, and God expects us to pay a certain proportion of our income to Him as our Master, and rightful Lord. He owns the whole earth and does not need our silver and gold; but that does not alter the fact that He requires it. From the very earliest days, men have understood this. Both Cain and Abel brought offerings. Why was Cain's rejected? The Prophet's warning surely applied in his case, the warning reiterated over and over again, that God will not accept oblations, burnt offerings, sacrifices, prayers, from those who are willfully bent on wickedness: "the sacrifice of the wicked is an abomination to the Lord."

God has always required offerings from His people. From the Jew He asked a tenth, besides freewill offerings and thank-offerings of all kinds, and shall we Christians be satisfied to give less? Certainly God is our Father, and is neither harsh nor tyrannical. He has shown us that sometimes the Sabbath rest may be broken; and sometimes, too it may be impossible to pay the tithe, for "if any provide not for his own . . . he hath denied the faith and is worse than an infidel."

But, whenever it is possible, let no one neglect to pay this debt, and let no one be afraid of losing by it. Listen to the words of promise: "Bring ye all the tithes into the storehouse, that there may be meat in Mine house, and prove Me now here with, saith the Lord of Hosts, if I will not open you the windows of heaven, and pour you out a blessing that there shall not be room enough to receive it. And I will rebuke the devourer for your sakes, and he shall not destroy the fruits of your ground."

What an anxious time this is for farmers; so much depends upon the weather, and God, only can control that. He has promised to do His part if only you will trust Him. The queen of Sheba presented rich gifts to Solomon, and in return he gave unto her "all her desire, whatsoever she asked, besides that which Solomon gave her of his royal bounty." Did she lose by her liberality? Cannot we trust to the royal bounty of the King of kings? The wise men made a long tedious journey that they might present their treasures to the infant Saviour. Shall we, who owe so much to Him, always come before Him empty handed?

Shall we be always crying "give, give?" If our religion is only a matter of praying for gifts, it will do us more harm than good. We shall grow more and more selfish and hard. It is not getting, but giving, that makes men rich with the true riches of joy and gladness.

"For the heart grows rich in giving; all its wealth is living grain? Seeds (which milder the garner) scattered fill with gold the plain"

No one knows better than you farmers that grain stored up year after year, and never scattered with a generous hand, has now power of increase. You live in the midst of God's own parables; see that you read them and act on them. Remember that as it is with your grain so it is with money, love, kindness, and everything else. "He that soweth sparingly shall reap also sparingly; and he that soweth bountifully shall reap also bountifully. Every man according as he purposeth in his heart, so let him give not grudgingly or of necessity: for God loveth a cheerful giver."

One thing more: God's money should be laid aside regularly and methodically. Don't wait until you have bought everything you can possibly want, and then give a little of what is left to Him. The first fruits should be His, not the last fruits. St. Paul's rule is a good one—"Upon the first day of the week let every one of you lay by him in store, as God hath prospered him, that there be no gatherings when I come." If we always have God's money laid aside ready for use, then when a sudden call comes, it will never be met grudgingly.

"God being so great, great gifts most willingly imparts; But we continue, that have such narrow hearts."

—Hope in Farmers Advocate.

Mr. Parnham Tells How Dodd's Kidney Pills Cured His Lumbago.

TORONTO, June 19.—The story of the escape of the Globe pressman, Mr. John H. Parnham, from the agonies of Lumbago, by using Dodd's Kidney Pills is unusually interesting.

Mr. Parnham writes to the Dodd's Medicine Co., Limited, thus: "I am proud to testify the wonderful efficacy of Dodd's Kidney Pills. About eight months ago I was attacked by severe pains in my back. I consulted an eminent physician, who said I had Lumbago, and told me to take Turkish baths. This did me no good. "A friend advised me to try Dodd's Kidney Pills. I did so, and one box cured me." My back has never troubled me since.

The average man who tries heroic measures gets a misfit.
