Italy has won most Olympic team titles for gymnastics with four victories, in 1912, 1920, 1924 and 1932.

U.S. Denies Fault In Cuba Food Cut

WASHINGTON (AP)—Cubans now tightening their belts for a food rationing program could grow fat if they had access to some of the foodstuffs which still can be imported from the United States.

The U.S. Commerce Department has a whole page in its regulations listing food stuffs that can be shipped to Cuba—items such as meat and meat products, animal oils and fats, cheese, oatmeal, breakfast cereals, vegetable oils, canned vegetables and prepared mixes.

Some of the items—such as lard and cooking oils—are included in the food rationing plan Cuban Premier Fidel Castro is launching next week.

The U.S. State Department has blamed Cuba's food problems on Castro's Communist system. And it described as ridiculous his charges that the United States has caused the Cuban food shortages.

Washington records show that no foodstuffs were shipped to Cuba from the United States from July, 1961, until the end of the year—mainly because Cuba has run short of dollars and U.S. exporters have shunned the business.

WON'T DENY THEM FOOD

The U.S. list of eligible exports contains no major grains, no rice, no potatoes, no onions. It doesn't have corn, but it has corn grits, corn meal and hominy. It has popcorn, but no popcorn seed.

Livestock for breeding purposes, seed, hatching eggs and baby chicks cannot be sent to Cuba.

As one commerce department worker explained it: "We felt we shouldn't ship anything that would contribute to their economy but at the same time we shouldn't deny them food."

On Feb. 3 of this year, President Kennedy ordered a total cut-off of imports of Cuban products. At the same time, he specifically authorized the continued sale of certain food and medicine to Cuba.

Sister St. Mary Eugenia, principal of Miscouche High School left on Friday for Montreal where she will attend the Canadian Conference on Education.

Mr. and Mrs. Bernard Laughlin returned to their home in Hamilton, Ontario, after having spent some time in Miscouche at the home of Mr. Laughlin's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Reggie Laughlin.

A very successful dance was held at the Miscouche Legion Home on Thursday evening. This was sponsored by the Ladies Auxiliary.

Mr. and Mrs. Percy Steele of Miscouche motored to Charlottetown on Thursday to attend the laboratory technicians' graduation which took place at

Seals Are Being Sought Here For Aquariums' Collections

Some of the seals captured off the north coast of P.E.I. will not be losing their pelts. A chosen few are destined for aquariums and zoos in Canada and the U.S.

Paul Montreuil, director of the Quebec Aquarium and Dr Carleton Ray of the New York Aquarium have arrived here to select the seals for shipment to their respective aquariums.

Mr. Montreuil will select eight adult and four pup hood seals. The hood seals are quite rare. Mr. Montreuil said and the Quebec aquarium has the only the Charlottetown Hospital nurses' residence. Among the graduates was their daughter-in-law, Mrs. Peter Steele.

hoods in captivity. He said his aquarium and that of Dr. Ray is building a complete collection of arctic mammals and are helping each other out in their endeavours.

Some of the animals will be used for trading purposes with other zoos and aquariums, he said. Some will be traded with the San Francisco Zoological Society for sea lions and sea elephants.

Dr. Ray is seeking a pair of adult harps and hood pups for his aquarium. He will ship them to New York by truck.

Both men will spend several days on the ice with the Magdalen Island seal hunters. The seals, to be of family groups, will be carefully chosen by the biologists.

While on the ice, Mr. Montreuil will conduct experiments in the anaesthetization of seals. His findings will be valuable for the safe transportation of seals as well as for numerous other purposes.

The bidding:

North	East	South	West
Pass	1 ♣	Dble	Pass
2 ♦	Pass	2NT	Pass
3 NT

Opening lead—two of clubs.

This deal occurred in the 1957 masters pair championship. It is noteworthy not only because it features an interesting point in defense, but also because the hand cost the East-West pair the championship when they failed to defend properly.

South got to three notrump largely on his own steam. Having doubled a club with the barest kind of minimum, he should have passed the jump response of two diamonds. The chances of making game were rather poor in view of North's pass originally, and game in notrump was even more remote considering that South did not have a club stopper.

But the proof of the pudding is in the eating, they say, and since South wound up making three notrump, perhaps it's not fair to criticize his bidding too severely.

West led the two of clubs in conformity with the custom of leading low from three cards to an honor. East won with the king and continued with the ace. So far as East was concerned, West might have led low from three to the jack or queen, or from any four clubs, and East could not afford to underlead the ace if the latter was the case.

East then returned the nine of clubs, selecting this card in particular to show that his entry card was in spades. (The high-card return shows interest in the high - ranking side suit; a low - card return would show interest in the low - ranking suit.)

West took the nine of clubs with the queen, but, apparently unaware of the significance of the nine play, led back a heart. Declarer played low from dummy and now had no trouble winning nine tricks to score the game. A spade return from West would have defeated the contract two tricks.

The hand illustrates the importance of the suit - directing convention. Without the convention, West would have been up against a tough guess as to whether to return a spade or a heart but with it (if West had remembered the spade return should have been automatic.
