

Keep in mind that Scott's Emulsion contains the hypophosphites.

These alone make it of great value for all affections of the nervous system.

It also contains glycerine, a most valuable, soothing and healing agent. Then there is the cod-liver oil, acknowledged by all physicians as the best remedy for poor blood and loss in weight.

These three great remedial agents blended into a creamy Emulsion, make a remarkable tissue builder.

Pride.

Rev. Dr. Morrison in St. Dunstan's Cathedral last Sunday delivered an eloquent sermon on the sin of pride. By pride Lucifer though endowed by the Creator with the highest intelligence fell from his high estate. Pride is one of the chief causes of much of the misery, discontent and unhappiness that exist in the world to-day. It produces in the breast of man emotions of the most disagreeable nature, and unfits him for the performance of the duties that he owes to himself, to his family, and to his neighbor. It often prevents him from making a living, even in an honorable way, for his children and those depending upon him. Often the pride of empty self-assertion brings upon the heads of the assertor the burning coals of powerful opposition. He counselled his hearers to suppress the suggestions and promptings of the first of the deadly sins. He exhorted the people to cultivate the virtue of humility. But in the cultivation of this virtue he asked no one to give up his self-respect which is a cardinal principle and should always be maintained. It was customary for persons who had in their hearts but the semblance of humility to accuse themselves of many weaknesses and imperfections. But these same persons resented most bitterly the slightest allusions to anything in their natures short of the highest virtue. The mock humility of the hypocrites he severely condemned. Humility was sometimes assumed in order that the dissimulation might not be detected.

The man without pride was undisturbed amid the concerns of life whilst the proud man was tossed about by every wind of passion. The envy of his soul came to the surface at almost every word and look of his friends, his neighbor, or his associates. The proud man was a hindrance and an annoyance. The humble man was a sunbeam on the pathway of the world. Full of practical advice forcibly and eloquently delivered was Dr. Morrison's sermon of last Sunday.

The greatest and strongest natures are ever the calmest. A fiery recklessness is the symbol of frailties not yet outgrown. The repose of power is its richest phase and its clearest testimony. Philadelphia Times.

A Boy's Faith.

An account of the life of Judge James B. Bradwell, of Chicago, by his daughter, tells a story of the deeply religious training of his childhood. He had the old-fashioned faith in the efficacy of prayer, before he was of sufficient age to understand the reasonable limits of such petitions.

Once when James was only eight years old, the waggon was sent to Chicago for provisions. Five days elapsed, the waggon was detained, and the Bradwell family was without food and without a man to provide it. Little James, as usual with even small boys of the time and place, was a good shot. His mother loaded the gun for him, and he started out to see what he could shoot to supply the table.

In due time he saw two prairie chickens not far away. He got his gun ready, and then took long enough to pray thus:

"O Father, if you will just let me bring down those two chickens, I'll give your minister the choice of the pair."

The trigger was pulled, and down came the two prairie chickens. James believed the shot to be a direct answer to his prayer. He took the two birds to Elder Snow, the minister, and told him of the circumstances.

The good elder took a long time to examine the two chickens, in order to be quite sure that he got the better of the two; because, he said, he thought it best the boy's compact should be faithfully carried out.—Youth's Companion.

How to Cure the Blues.

Howard, the Philanthropist, in the early part of his manhood was much disposed to gloom and despondency. He gained habitual cheerfulness only by doing good. He said:

"Set about doing good. Put on your hat and go and visit the sick and poor in your neighborhood; inquire into their wants and minister to them; seek out the desolate and the oppressed and tell them of the consolations of religion.

"I have often tried this method, and have always found it the best medicine for a heavy heart."

The CHARM OF BEAUTY

Not in the Features so much as in the Grace and Vitality of a Healthy Body—Dr. A. W. Chase's Nerve and Blood Pills make Women Beautiful.

There's a certain charm of beauty in the graceful, elastic movement and clear complexion of a healthy woman in which the features do not play an important part.

The pale, sallow complexion and dull leaden color of the skin, dark circles under the eyes, headaches, pains in the back and sides, dull eyes, weakness, nervousness, despondency and low spirits are symptoms of weak, watery blood and improperly-nourished nerves.

No woman can be beautiful until the blood is enriched and the nerves strengthened. Dr. A. W. Chase's Nerve Food is a food for the blood and nerves.

Dr. A. W. Chase's Nerve Food restores the energy and strength to a run-down system. Note your weight before using them, and the increase week by week as the brightness returns to the eyes, the color to the cheeks and the form rounds out with firm, healthy flesh, the natural result of rich, pure blood and a healthy nervous system.
