OBITUARY

HERBERT JOSEPH STEELE
Inserted by the Family.

Death always brings it's hour of human sadness. The heart of man is made attuned to love. The chain of affection which binds together the members of a christian family, the love of a father and mother and of their children growing up around them, freely given and generously returned, is the strongest of all human bonds.

When death comes in and takes a link, even though, in christian submission, we know that the One who gave the life simply took it away in His own good time, still it brings it's cup of human sorrow. To the family of Herbert Steele it might seem that the cup was overflowing just a little.

Herbie, as he was known to everyone, was in his twenty year, in the flower of his young manhood. He was now planning his future life as a man. But there was to be no future life for him in this world. The work given to him to do had been done, and death, when it came, was sudden, unexpected and tragic.

Herbie was born in Pictou, N.S. and spent the early years of his boyhood in Truro. When the family moved to Charlottetown, he continued his education at Birchwood, Parkdale and St. Dunstan's High School. At the time of his death he was attending the Vocational School planning to be a draftsman.

One of the nicest natural gifts is a pleasing personality, the gift which enables one to make friends easily and to keep them. It is not superficial. It comes from the heart. Herbie had it, and the reaction of so many people young and old, first of shock, then of sadness when the news of his death was published, was, perhaps, the greatest tribute that could be paid him.

Herbie liked sport and participated in it. His greatest interest was hockey. On the night he died he was on his way to look at one of the N.H.L. play-off games. He didn't hear the buzzer announcing the end of the first period of that game, he heard, rather, the trumpet call of the Master ending the first period of his life and ushering him into that second, unending period in which we all hope to receive not a medal, not a cup, but a crown.

His death leaves a void in the family which can never be filled, but he leaves with them the happiest, unfading memories of a loving son and brother.

His largely attended funeral was a final tribute to Herbie, and an expression of sincere sympathy to his bereaved family. May he rest in peace.

CARD OF THANKS

Mr. and Mrs. Bert Steele and family extend heartfelt thanks to all who in any way expressed their sympathy. Your kindness and thoughtfulness to us in our time of grief is gratefully appreciated and will always be remembered.

Immigration Heading For Active Year

By GERARD McNEIL

OTTAWA (CP) — First-quarter figures indicate 1966 will be one of the big years of the century for immigration to Canada.

The 170,000-mark has been surpassed in only eight years since Confederation but officials forecast 1966 will be the ninth. The first three months drew 39,713 immigrants, a sharp increase from the first-quarter figure of 22,279 for 1965. The bulk of immigrants usually arrive between April and November.

The 1965 total was 146,758 and Labor Minister Nicholson told the Commons Tuesday night an additional 20,000 to 30,000 more can be expected this year.

Half the immigrants who came last year were to enter the labor force and nearly one-quarter of these were in the professional or managerial class.

A significant 32.5 - per - cent were headed for the manufacturing, mechanical and construction industries where the demand for skilled workers is the greatest.

The figures this year continue to reflect the emphasis being put on selective immigration in what amounts to a global talent hunt.

"We are sending our travelling officers into parts of the world that have never seen a Canadian official before," an immigration department spokesman said.

These officers are plucking people from spots like the South Pacific's Loyalty Islands, which have contributed two newcomers this year.

Italy, the United Kingdom, the United States, West Germany, Portugal, Greece and France continue to supply almost two-thirds of the total figures.

The 400,870 immigrants who arrived in 1913, mostly from a Europe about to be torn by war, set a record.

Since then, the biggest years were 1951, when 194,391 immigrants arrived, and 1957, when the figure was 282,164.

Officials say two factors—the Hungarian rebellion and the Suez crisis—contributed to the 1957 wave.

This year's flow is being generated mainly by a promotional campaign based upon Canadian prosperity.
