THE DAILY EXAMINER.

JUNE 2, 1894.

NOTES AND COMMENTS.

—Crops in the Northwest are reported to be in an excellent condition.

—Cloud burst, electric storms, water spouts and miners' strikes seem to be the order of the day in Pennsylvania. Take it all round, the Pennsylvanians are having a lively time just at present.

—The Southern branch of the Presbyterian church of the United States has declined to consider a proposal for union with the church in the North. Not long ago the Methodist Church South in the same way refused to discuss a proposal to unite with its northern sister.

—The suggestion has been made that it would be a good move for the government of India to give some of the most distinguished of the native princes of that great empire seats in the British House of Lords, and in the Nineteenth Century for May there is an article by the Earl of Meath commenting favorably upon the proposal.

—Montreal Gazette: Mr. James Clancy, one of the leaders of the Conservative Opposition in Ontario, and who is a Roman Catholic, is being opposed in Kent by a P. P. A. man, who is receiving the support of the Liberals. The Liberal assertion that the P P. A. is a Conservative organization to beat Mowat, is evidently liberal in something else than truth.

—The following telegram was received by the Revising Officer of Queen's County last evening:

OTTAWA, June 1, 1894.

TO JUDGE GEORGE ALLEY:

Take no action in the matter of the revision of the voters' lists until instructions are sent out in accordance with the Prime Minister's amendment.

(Sgd.) J. COSTIGAN,
Sec'y of State.

—In compliance with a resolution, the secretary of the treasury has sent to the United States senate a large number of tables, showing the volume of trade between that country and Canada since 1821. They were prepared by both United States and Canadian authorities. According to one of these tables, the exports of merchandise in 1821 from the United States to Canada amouted to $2,014,529 and the imports from that country to the United States was $401,500. In 1893 the exports amounted to $24,138,482 and the imports to $22,108,916. The total of exports for these 73 years was $1,458,159,324, and the total of the imports $1,299,977,998.

—The Washington Post says: All the men in the United States could not marry if they desired; there are not enough women to go round. The old and bewhiskered fallacy that there is a Jill for every Jack has been exploded, and the probable fulfillment of the milennial prophecy of a time when three women will be holding to each man's coat tail seems to be increasing according to the square of the distance in an inverse ratio. In other words, if every unmarried female in the United States were to play Eve to some erstwhile disconsolate Adam there would still be 1,422,410 males who would have to view conjugal happiness through other eyes.

—The Mark Lane Express, in its review of the British grain trade, says English wheats have been dull, though London quotations show a rise of five pence. In the provincial market sales have been few and at unchanged prices. English flour has dropped a shilling and foreign wheats under the influence of large arrivals, have been sixpence lower. Flours are also sixpence lower. Barley has been quiet. Rye has advanced a shilling, and oats, beans and peas are steady. Because of the damp samples shown English wheat declined a shilling. Foreign and English wheat dropped sixpence and American threepence. Corn, flat and round, lost threepence and barley threepence. Oats, beans and peas are firm.

—The United States papers are making a great ado about the recent pulling down of the United States flag in St. Thomas, Ontario. The incident is regrettable and calls for police investigation and punishment. But to attach an international importance to it is simply absurd. It was of no more international importance than many similar incidents that have happened in the United States. At the Washington centennial celebration in New York in 1889, a British flag was hung out by a British subject in honor of the occasion; and a party of United States militiamen in uniform pulled it down. A similiar incident occurred in Philadelpia about the same time. At the Chicago World's Fair last year a British flag was also torn down. And on the very day of the St. Thomas incident, a British flag was torn down by a crowd in Buffalo, New York. For these little vagaries of a United States populace, the United States government in no way heid themselves responsible, and with the exception of the World's Fair incident, they caused very little comment. If the United States papers would remember these and many other similar incidents in which their own citizens have been guilty, they would have reason to be more moderate, and at the same time more sensible, in their comments on the St. Thomas incident.

A duel was fought at Boston on Saturday night between a young lawyer named Crowley and D. E. Goldsmith, a newspaper man, over a love affair. Each received a few scratches, swords being used as weapons. Punishment in Massachusetts for duel fighting is 20 years imprisonment.

GOT IN DEBT $200,000.

Baptist Missionary Union Found it a Hard Year to Raise Money.

The eightieth anniversary meeting of the American Baptist Missionary Union convened in the First Baptist Church at Saratoga, N. Y., on the 30th ult. The annual report of the board of managers stated that the financial strain prevailing in the United States during the year had caused the board to defer the hope that work might be broadened and increased. Expenditures of all sorts were curtailed to the utmost degree, and a very conservative schedule of appropriations was drawn, amounting to $694.697.

For the first time in many years the missionary union had come to the anniversary without a solitary outgoing candidate to be introduced, but the committee had found it impossible to avoid incurring an indebtedness amounting to $203,595. The Board had met its obligations by drawing upon the future, hoping that the financial situation would soon improve, and that in the coming year the debt might be cared for, if not fully paid.

The total sum received by the treasurer during the past fiscal year was $485,000. There was required to be added to the permanent funds and bonds account $19,056, and the payment of the appropriation of $694,657 for missionary stipends and current expenses. This had left a deficiency of $203,595 in the treasury at the close of the fiscal year, where there was a balance of $25,118 at the beginning.

COLONY OF VICTORIA.

Its Interests, as Connected With Canada, Touched Upon.

A Melbourne despatch of the 30th says: The Earl of Hopetoun, Governor of the colony of Victoria, in opening the Victorian Parliament to-day, congratulated the people on the gradual return of the country to prosperity. He rejoiced at the increase of interest throughout Australia on the subject of federation of the colonies and that there was to be conferences looking to that end. Imperial, Canadian and South African delegates, he said, were about to assemble at Ottawa, to consider not only the question of trade, but that of a Pacific cable, which it was desirable should be entirely under British control. Referring to Samoa, Lord Hopetoun said that Victoria cordially concurred with New Zealand in the proposal that that colony should supervise Samoan affairs, which would be tantamount to making the islands wholly British. The offer of New Zealand ought to be accepted because of the commercial advantages to be gained and because it was consonant with the true Australian policy.

The mission of Mr. Reid to England and Canada, he said, had paved the way for important undertakings in connection with the transportation of the surplus produce of the colony of Victoria and the disposal thereof in various countries. He congratulated the country on the successful results of its coal mining operations. In addition to this, Victoria had a suitable climate for the cultivation of sugar-cane, the growth of which should be developed. There was urgent necessity, however, for an increased export of frozen meats, an enterprise which he hoped would be pushed.

DROPPED FROM WINDOWS.

Terrible Experience in a New York Tenement Fire.

A terrible explosion followed by fire occurred at 4.30 o'clock on Thursday morning in a distillery on the ground floor of a double tenement house on Suffolk Street, New York, resulting in the death of Lizzie Yaega, aged four years, and serious injuries to four others. Twenty families tenanted the building. The explosion and fire cut them off from the stairway.

Fifteen children were thrown from upper windows Some of the older persons escaped by creeping on the narrow ledge of the second story to the window of the next house. Two men living in the house in the rear of the burning building got a blanket and used it as a net in which to catch the children dropped from the windows above. There were fifteen dropped in all. The children had to be dropped through a sheet of flame which was tearing from the side of the building between the windows and the blanket below in the rear yard.

After the children had all safely been dropped the older ones jumped. Hyman Ehren West and his son made the perilous jump in safety, but Mrs. Ehren West, who was quite heavy, broke the blanket, and was severely injured.

The firemen arrived at this time and set at work to save the rest of the occupants of the building.

Chief Ahearn found little Lizzie Yeaga on the third floor unconscious. She died a few minutes after being removed to the hospital.

Meyer Dietrich, aged 41, was badly burned in attempting to get out of the hall. Several persons of the top floor were overcome by smoke and had to be carried out by the firemen.

Three persons were burned to death in the same building two years ago.

AN INTERESTING DISCOVERY.

A discovery has just been made in the catacombs of Rome which promises to be of singular importance in the history of Christian worship and liturgiology. Pralat Wilpert, a Silesian archaeologist, has come upon a cycle of four paintings of the very earliest Christian art belonging to the first half of the second century, one of which represents a celebration of the Eucharist. The paintings were found in h chapel of the St. Priscilla catacombs, which has been open to inspection for at least a hundred years, and yet this interesting treasure has lain all that time concealed and unsuspected. It was hidden under a crust of stalactite, so that no trace of colors, and certainly none of the figures, were perceptible to the ordinary observer. Pralat Wilpert, however, declared that he could discern signs of coloring, and was allowed to experiment upon it. He dissoived the stalactite crust by a chemical process, and was rewarded by the revelation of the remakable paintings, a full description of which is to be published.—Westminster Gazette.

GENERAL TELEGRAPHIC NEWS

SOFIA, May 31.—An enormous crowd gathered in front of the cathedral last evening. Many were cheering for Stambulofa, who resigned the premiership yesterday. Others hooted his name. Somebody fired a revolver shortly after the police began trying to disperse the crowd, and shooting then became general. One person was killed, two severely wounded, and fifty more had slight wounds, and broken heads. The city is greatly excited.

ARICHAT, C. B., May 31.—Particulars wired about the poisoning and death of Charles Forrest and wife were all correct, except that the wild plant, instead of having been eaten raw, was used in soup, an hour after the partaking of which they died in awful pain and convulsions. The verdict at the inquest held to-day was in accordance with these facts. Their son and daughter, living with them, providentially escaped death, the son decling to take dinner with his parents as he had to overhaul lobster traps; and the daughter had some household duty to perform before dinner.

PARIS, May 31.—While the police were searching the lodgings of a suspected anarchist named Chambers yesterday, the suspected man made an attempt to conceal something by swallowing it. He was made to disgorge, and it was found that he tried to swollow the draft of an anarchist manifesto invoking his "comrades" to resort to the use of explosives, poisons, etc., to terrorize the bourgeoise. English money amounting to four thousand francs was found in Chamber's trunk.

BLACKFORD, Ind., May 31.—Jennie Creek, aged 10 years, has received from the French government the decoration of the Legion of Honor. This great mark was bestowed on her for saving the lives of a train filled by world's fair visitors on Sept. 10, 1893. It was a train on the Pittsburg, Chicago, Cincinnatti & St. Louis railway. On it were a large number of French officials. The child discovered a bridge on fire, and almost destroyed. The train was approaching, when she ran down the track, took off her apron, and flagged the train. The engineer brought his engine to a halt a few feet from the bridge.

BERLIN, May 31.—The government has formally protested against the Anglo-Belgian treaty on the ground that an international convention having fixed the Congo frontier only an international agreement is entitled to modify them.

PORTLAND, Ore., May 31—Portland's flood has broken all previous records. The water is still rising and spreading over a wide expanse. The wholesald district of this city is completely under water, and business is entirely suspended.

PHILADELPHIA, June 1.—At to-day's session of the Senate ot the Reformed Presbyterian Church, the committee on signs of the times reported that the return of Col. W. C. P. Breckenridge to the national legislature would be a national disgrace. The report was adopted.

MONTREAL, May 31.—The following cable ble appears in the Star from London: "I have been informed on the highest authority that there is not the slightest truth in the suggestion which was current in the city during the early part of the week, and which I cabled that Hon George E. Foster's action regarding the French treaty had anything to do in the least with the absence of his name from the Queen's birthday honor list. The suggestion was the mere gossip of the street.

PARLIAMENT OF CANADA.

What Was Done in the House of Commons Yesterday.

SOME MORE TARIFF CHANGES PASSED.

Mr. Davies Does not Move His Resolution in the Ellis Case.

OTTAWA, June 2.

Mr. Davies did not move his resolution in regard to the Ellis case yesterday, as was expected, and the House proceeded with the consideration of Government bills. Tupper's bill to amend the Inspection of Ships Act, Daly's bill for the Preservation of game in endangered portions of the Northwest and Woods' bill to further amend general inspection were read in committee and passed.

The House then went into committee on the tariff and passed the tariff changes of which notice was given yesterday, and some other items.

When the item of coal was reached McMullen protested strongly against this duty. He said he knew that strong pressure had been brought to bear on the Government by railway and manufacturing companies to remove this duty in whole or in part, but he was sorry to see the coal miners of Nova Scotia had been too strong for these Ontario interests This duty was for the benefit of Nova Scotia coal mines and for them alone.

NEWS FROM NEWFOUNDLAND.

A Further Prorogation of the Legislature Agreed To.

TRIALS OF MEMBERS TO PROCEED.

What Will Be Done When the Legislature Again Assembles.

ST. JOHN'S, Nfld., June 2.

The Governor has consented to a further prorogation of the Legislature, as decided by the Government, even though the Revenue Bill expires on the 10th June. He is determined that the trial shall proceed, and that all the accused members shall be dealt with. Seeing the impossibility of the Trinity case being concluded before the 10th, and confirmed in his previous opinions by yesterday's judgment, he is determined to resort to extreme steps to prevent any of the accused escaping the penalty, as Whiteway hoped that the necessity of passing the Revenue Bill would compel the Governor to summon Whiteway again to form a ministry, even at the cost of the dissolution of the Legislature and the abandonment of the trials. No revenue will be collected during the interim. A proclamation enforcing the provisions of the Customs Management Act, then a bill of indemnity, will come up when the Legislature meets, which will not occur until sufficient Whitewayites are unseated to give the Government a majority. The necessary financial and other legislation will then be accomplished as rapidly as possible, and the House adjourned.
