Gracie Fields Tendered Enthusiastic Welcome

Gracie Fields, world famous entertainer, arrived in Charlottetown on Saturday afternoon for a four day rest before appearing at the Forum on Wednesday evening. Looking much younger than her years, Miss Fields stepped off the plane to be met by His Worship Mayor B. Erle MacDonald and Mrs. MacDonald, City Clerk J. A. Fullerton, and a group of members of the Kiwanis Club. Introductions were made by Kiwanis President Lawson Jenkins, and a bouquet of crimson roses was presented by little Miss Patsy Jane MacDonald.

An enthusiastic crowd of fans were present to catch a glimpse of "our Gracie," and the attractive star of screen, radio, and stage smiled happily at those close enough to talk with her, and answered questions in the pleasant, easy manner for which she is so famous.

Since beginning her present tour in April, most of Miss Fields' concerts have been one night stands, necessitating a rush night after a performance in order to reach the next city in which she was to appear.

When told that a storm was expected over the week-end, she looked around her hotel room and sighed, "I've been on the go for so long that it'll be a pleasure to just sit in this attractive room and look out over your charming city." Miss Fields stated that she had been much attracted to Prince Edward Island from the air, and thought she had chosen wisely when she decided to take her very brief holiday here.

Five years ago in Bombay, Gracie declared she was too old at 47 to fling her legs around any more, and mapped out a series of farewell concerts. Three years later she attempted to retire, but public insistence brought her back.

When asked in Charlottetown if she still thought of retiring, Gracie touched her throat and said that the voice was still there, and the public still wanted to hear it. "Apparently the Lord intended that I help to entertain people," she said. "I suppose I will just keep going as long as they enjoy it."

Always ready and eager to assist those deserving of help, Miss Fields has a promising young violinist appearing with her in her present tour, in the person of 19 year old Marguerite Learning. Ten years ago in Niagara Falls Miss Learning asked Gracie if she would help her get started in the world of music. "Keep practicing," Gracie told her, and the result is that Miss Learning is now completing a Canada-wide tour with the world's greatest entertainer. It is no wonder that Miss Fields carries the international title of "our Gracie."

CHURCH "COLLECTION"

BEAUFORT WEST, South Africa—(OP)—When he heard that the floor was to be relaid in the Old Christ Church hall, a local resident got permission to sift the earth underneath. He found a large collection of coins, some more than 100 years old, and several military medals.

Island Odds And Ends

This is the time of year that door-to-door magazine salesmen make their rounds, and offer the reading lovers very attractive subscription terms. Most of the salesmen or sales-women are honest decent folk who keep faith with their customers. There are, at the same time, phonies, who collect, but never deliver, and there are others who represent nobody but themselves, and will appropriate anything not nailed down.

One of the last mentioned gentry—the kind with taking ways—is doing twenty days in the Queen's County Jail after taking himself into a home on the west end of Richmond street, and lifting twenty dollars. This smooth work represented himself as a college student working his way through McGill University, selling certain National publications. The lady of the house was not interested in the magazine proposition, but before the "salesman" left he asked for a drink of water. He helped himself to water in the kitchen and also to a twenty dollar bill which was in a cup over the kitchen sink.

The theft was discovered almost immediately and the sly-catcher was picked up within 48 hours by the Charlottetown police. In court he gave a different name than the one used when professing to be a struggling college student.

It is some satisfaction to know that the gentleman is cooped up in Queen's County Jail, but yet the twenty bucks is gone with the wind. It would be far more satisfactory if in addition to the twenty dollars, the young man was made to work long enough to repay the money. 'Tis true that he is being punished, but so are his victims—to the extent of twenty honestly earned dollars.

It would be well for the public to check the credentials of all magazine and book salesmen. The honest ones carry trustworthy identification papers supplied by the companies for whom they work.

Is there anything more delicious than a lobster supper, the kind where second helpings are welcomed and whether you gorge or eat to keep your figure down the price is the same.

Souris is winding up a Lobster Regatta to be held on July 12th with just such a supper, when the main course will be lobster and more lobster.

The Town of Souris and the Souris Hospital are sponsoring the regatta which will feature boat-racing and water sports on the town's harbor, and games and amusements on Souris Breakwater. Since the date selected falls on Wednesday, the programme should draw a big holiday crowd. Dozens of fishermen from many Island points are entering the races, some from as far as Murray River. The Murray River men by the way have made a reputation as prize winners at several similar regattas in Nova Scotia.

The lobster for the lobster feast are being contributed by the fishermen and packers of Souris and district.

Since the lobster fishing season ends on July 1st, special permission of the Dominion Dept. of Fisheries is being obtained to hold the lobster in crates until they are boiled for the supper.

Practically all the business men, young and old of Souris are serving on committees delegated to organize the boat racing, dancing, games, music and the banquet. "Bill" Acorn is pushing the publicity, and committee members include, C. E. Lavie the mayor, Mr. Roy MacLean of Matthew and McLean's, Art Peters of the Eastern Packing Company, Pete McLellan, Dominion Fisheries Dept., Jim Brennan, Brent St. John, J. J. McDonald, the station agent, and others.

Eastern Packing Company of Souris has been shipping about 40,000 pounds by refrigeration to the Boston Market. Six or more trucks leave each week and travel in twenty four hours. The lobsters under the U. S. duty free. Usually the truck driver makes the trip alone.

At the rate new residences are going up in Brighton, there will be few vacant lots out that way in a few years. Not only is this true of Brighton but of the countryside beyond Brighton's limits. Farm land is steadily making room on the North River Road for new homes owned by Charlottetown business men. If the long talked of Brighton bridge should ever materialize the overflow will spill over into York Point. Two thousand dollars is being asked for large lots in the newer part of Brighton although small ones can be had for a thousand or a little less. Two or three hundred dollars would have purchased enough land on which to build a home in this new section, before World War II.

Doc Dougan, the starter at the Charlottetown Driving Park's weekly night racing, is not only a good official, he has the color and personality to make race-follower aware, that he is the boss-man while the races are under way. You can disagree with his decisions, if you wish, but you better have your trotting rules in your pocket, and in your mind, before you clash with the Doctor. If you are merely dissatisfied be-

Congregation Of Zion Observes 90th Anniversary

Rev. A. D. MacKinnon, B.A., B.D., D.D., of Little Narrows, Cape Breton was guest speaker at both services yesterday at Zion Church on the occasion of the observance of the 90th anniversary of the founding of Zion Church in Charlottetown.

The church was filled to capacity at both services and special music was provided by the choir under the direction of Mr. Frank Johnson, A.T.C.L. The male quartette comprising Messrs. Harry Craswell, J. A. MacLeod, Wendell Phillips and Malcolm MacKinnon was heard in inspiring numbers.

Taking as his theme for the morning service, "The Church's Mission", Rev. Dr. MacKinnon based his discussion on the words of Christ to His disciples contained in John 20:21: "As my Father hath sent me, even so send I you." He reviewed the early history of the Presbyterian Church in Scotland, how it had survived disloyalty from within and developed a strong church. The church today, he said, should continue to fill this mission, that is of inspiring Christ-like living among its members.

Still greater effort is necessary in order to ensure the continuance of progress towards world reformation on Christian principles.

Evening Service

Rev. Dr. MacKinnon again delivered an inspiring sermon, his subject being "The World's Hope." The scriptural basis of his address was 1st Timothy, verse 1: "And I thank Jesus Christ which is our hope."

The speaker developed the topic in an excellent manner. The greatest danger in the world today is fear, he said this can be offset by hope and the hope of the world is the return to the way of Christ. He posed the question, "How can we conform Christ and His teachings to conditions of today?" and went on to show that in spite of its weaknesses and failures, Christianity is still the greatest power for good in the world. Whenever Christ is fully accepted in any sphere of human endeavor, he said, then He is found fully adequate for every need.

We need the power of Christ in three places, the hearts of men, the homes and finally the church.

He stressed the value of the home, and he said "Let the family altar be set up in homes where it hitherto never existed. The church also needs a Renaissance of Christian experience, a genuine revival of genuine religion. It needs the fire of God which would so inspire its members that they would love and serve it and continue the God-given mission of Christianizing the whole world. At the evening service, Rev. Dr. David Lang, of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church, St. John's, Newfoundland, brought greetings from his congregation.

A special feature of both services was the use of the Gaelic tongue in a small portion of the devotions. Rev. Dr. MacKinnon read the scripture and also a group of five men sang Gaelic hymns.

Plan School For Maritime Firemen

KENTVILLE, N. S., June 18—(CP)—The Maritimes first school for volunteer firemen will open here June 25 and continue for three days. It was announced to night. More than a score of fire brigades from the Annapolis Valley area will send representatives to take the course which is sponsored by the Provincial Fire Marshal's Department and the Kentville Fire Brigade.

cause your favorite didn't win, you won't find any solace in the rule book, and "Doc" Dougan always has verse and chapter to back his opinions.

Where the Doctor really shows his mettle is in his wire to wire description of the race over the loud-speaker. Island race officials and horsemen who have visited the best tracks in the U. S. A. claim that Dr. Dougan is a length or two in front of them all in this department. From the time the horses get away, until they reach the head of the stretch for the "stretch drive", at which time the "Doc" breaks his rapid-fire story with the words, "and here they come", a blind man can follow the action closely. The position of each horse is given every eighth of a mile, and the movements of drivers noted as they take place.

"Throughout every heat the Doctor throws in comments which help the uninitiated such as "Babe Britton is moving up on the outside," or "Carl Frisco has gone to a break". Meantime he never gets tangled up in his factual description of the race. Whether he dispenses you or suits you down to the ground, you can't ignore the Doctor on race night. He is too much on the job to be overlooked—he is very much a part of the Island racing foreground.

C. C. F. Campaigner

The C. C. F. National Expansion Drive was launched in Prince Edward Island at a lobster supper held in Larkins Restaurant, Kensington on Friday. Mr. Douglas MacFarlane, president, guest speaker was Mr. Donald C. MacDonald, Ottawa (above), C. C. F. National Education Secretary who is touring the Maritime Provinces in the interests of the Party.

Mr. MacDonald will speak at other meetings in the Alberton area on Monday night and Wellington on Tuesday. Purpose of the C. C. F. Drive is to raise $175,000 across Canada during the next three years for organizational and educational work.

"Already there is evidence," Mr. MacDonald said, "that the tide which has been flowing against socialist parties across the world is reversing itself. Recent Australian state elections have resulted in gains for the Labour party. After little more than six months of old party government since the Federal election last December, the Australian people are swinging back to Labour."

"Here in Canada," Mr. MacDonald continued, "the C. C. F. is the only party which has made gains in popular support since last June, according to the Gallup polls. "Our job in the C. C. F. at this time," the speaker concluded, "is to prepare our party so that when the tide turns we shall be ready and able to capitalize on it."

Owing to Mr. MacFarlane having to leave for another appointment, Mr. Roscoe Walker took the chair for the latter part of the proceedings.

IN "MRS. MIKE" DICK POWELL HAS MOST DYNAMIC ROLE OF HIS VARIED CAREER

Out of the memorable novel Benedict and Nancy Freedman "Mrs. Mike," comes a memorable motion picture. Bearing the same title, the picture opens (to-day) at the Prince Edward Theatre with Dick Powell playing the stalwart Sergeant Mike Flannigan, and Evelyn Keyes portraying the part of Mrs. Mike. United Artists is releasing the picture, which is directed by Louis King with a sensitive and knowing touch which will doubtless please the more than five million readers of the popular book. Samuel Bischoff served as executive producer and Edward Gross as producer.

Alfred Lewis Levitt and De Witt Boden wrote the screen script of "Mrs. Mike," which is based on the real life adventures of Sergeant Mike of the Canadian Northwest Mounted Police, around 1907. When Sergeant Mike meets Kathy O'Fallon from Boston, he warns her that life in the vast Canadian wilderness is tough for a woman of gentle birth and breeding. But Kathy is too much in love with him to realize the depth and sincerity of his arguments, and so they get married and trek north by dogsled to Hendrick's Hope, their first home.

The film, which will not let avid readers of the book down at any point, portrays with taste and fidelity the exciting, colorful adventures of this couple as, with the years, they move from post to post until, after a cruel epidemic of diphtheria during which they lose their first-born child, courage fails Mrs. Mike and she heads back to Boston. But, on the way, she has a complete change of heart, and when Sergeant Mike gets transferred back to Hendrick's Hope, he finds Mrs. Mike waiting for him.

Filed for the greater part in the Canadian wilds, the snow scenes are startling in their beauty. As for the story, it is not all drama. There are plenty of humorous interludes that are heartwarming in their simplicity. Besides its co-stars, who turn in superb performances, the large cast includes J. M. Kerrigan and John Millan.

Radio Award For Mr. Jim Coulter

HALIFAX, N. S., June 18 — A Prince Edward Island newspaper writer and radio commentator, Jim Coulter of Charlottetown, has been "cited for special attention" by the judges of the annual Canadian Radio Awards. It was learned today that the awards are sponsored by the Canadian Association for Adult Education.

The mention of Mr. Coulter's outstanding efforts in his first year of network radio broadcasting was contained in a letter from J. R. Kidd, secretary of the Awards Committee. The letter reads in part: "It is my pleasant duty to inform you that the judges cited your individual performance for special attention. They felt that your work had contributed in an outstanding way to radio in 1949. Congratulations."

Mr. Coulter did a series of talks about an imaginary village—Windy Cove—in Prince Edward Island, where the residents believed in the old-fashioned way of living and opposed vigorously all attempts by various Government bodies to modernize the village. The talks were heard over the CBC Dominion network. During the summer, Mr. Coulter will do a series of eight readings from Richard Halliburton's well-loved Sam Slick, over the CBC Maritime network. The broadcasts will be heard weekly on Monday nights at 8:45 p.m. ADT.

Yacht In Port From New York

A sleek, white pleasure boat from New York City, the Alondra II, docked at the Marine Wharf at noon yesterday after riding out the week-end storm for five hours in the Straits. She is making a trip up the St. Lawrence River to Clayton, N. Y., on Lake Ontario.

Owned by Mr. Merle Youngs, a New York manufacturer, the 75-foot boat is steel hulled and has a gross tonnage of 60 tons. She is fully rigged for racing, has an auxiliary diesel engine and all the conveniences of a modern home as well as an automatic pilot and a ship-to-shore radio telephone.

The boat made Halifax her first port of call on the trip to Lake Ontario. She pulled out of the Nova Scotia capital on Friday and called here to refuel. She will probably leave here Tuesday and stop at Gaspe before sailing up the St. Lawrence. The boat had no difficulty in riding out the heavy storm in the Straits. After the wind subsided she calmly made her way into Charlottetown harbour.

There are twelve people aboard the pleasure ship including Mr. and Mrs. Youngs, four guests and a six-man crew. Mr. C. W. Rodstrom is captain.

They will spend most of the summer racing the boat on Lake Ontario. Major races in which the Alondra II will be entered are the Lake Yacht Racing Association for the Freeman Cup and the 346-mile race from Rochester, N.Y. This is the first visit for Mr. and Mrs. Youngs to Prince Edward Island. They were attracted with the farming districts they viewed on their way into Charlottetown and hope to see more of the Province before they set out for Upper Canada.
