THE NEW YORK STATE LEGISLATURE —A HANDSOME NOTICE.

(From the New York World.)

The Legislature which has just adjourned at Albany, has passed into history with a most unsavory reputation. The following, from the pen of Mr. Amor J. Williamson, a somewhat noted Republican politician, was published in the Dispatch of this week:—

"And now the Legislature of our present writing is departing to the shades, which cannot be blacker than its reputation. We have seen debased political bodies before this; truckling assemblies, packed caucuses, dragooned committees; we have seen Common Council 'rings' and bribed nominating conventions, and half-and-half Utica split pow-wows; but we have never seen any body of wretched politicians or graceless partisans that ever came up to the present Legislature in sheer, downright corruption, sordid knavery, and unblushing barter-and-bargain selling of influence. During this notorious session of a Legislature soon (thank Heaven!) to be defunct, we have witnessed assembly men openly exhibiting themselves as shameless bidders for bribes; senators changing with every wind of influence; lobbymen playing with votes as anglers play with gudgeons, which they can hook at any time. We beheld a nominally Republican majority held as the pest and worked as the mere machine of thieving office-holders in your city of New York, who—sometimes without disguise, or with the flimsiest veil—bid off the voices and ballots of legislators, as black wenches were once bought for like purposes on the shambles of southern markets.

"We have seen the mean, servile, grasping misrepresentatives of Union constituents offering their stale influence, at the close of the session, at miserable prices, just as putrid fish is exposed and cried for sale in Saturday night stalls of your lowest vendors of spoiled articles. And at last, after pocketting their 'base bribes' and licking the feet of grog-shop politicians from New York, in order to get the washings of their rum glasses, they tried to sneak some seventy dollars per man out of the treasury, under pretence of getting stationery at the end of the session.

"Wretched traitors, penny-stealing knaves, and poor-souled political paupers are bad enough anywhere; but the specimens that have cursed the capital during this last legislative term are so many degrees below comparison and beneath contempt, that all the stationery they did not succeed in stealing could never do justice in describing them.

"We wish the Union party joy, we take joy to ourselves, we write in general testimonials of joy, that the Legislature will be a corpse before morning. Let its offensiveness be dispersed, at least, if not dissipated. Meanwhile let us speculate as to how so many such disgusting carcases tied to its neck will suffice to drag our Union organization down, ——'deeper than plummet's line e'er sounded!'"

We believe the only fault in the above pleasant piece of composition is that it is drawn altogether too mild. We do not suppose that the English language is copious enough in condemnatory phrases to do justice to that Legislature.

KIDNAPPING NEAR TORONTO.—The following is from the Hamilton Spectator, of a late date:—

"We learn that a very disgraceful case of kidnapping occurred near Toronto last week. On Sunday week Mr. James Haley, son of Mr. David Haley, a farmer of Pickering, was met by two men a short distance from his home, who requested him to ride with them. He accepted, and after going a short distance they seized him by the wrists, and in the struggle he managed to throw one of them out falling with him. He remembers no more, but presumes that he must have been drugged, for when he came to his senses he was on a steamer on the lake. Arrived at Lewiston he was seized by a couple of United States soldiers as their prisoner, and conveyed to New York where he underwent an examination, charged with being an accomplice of Booth. And strange to say, in his boots were found false whiskers and letters supposed to be from Booth. The examination, however, showed that the wrong man had been taken, and although he had been robbed of some $13 he was given only enough money by the British Consul to carry him back as far as Buffalo. With difficulty he reached Toronto on Friday night. The whole proceeding is a most disgraceful one. Mr. Haley has never, we believe, been further from his home than Toronto, in his lifetime before, and the whiskers and letters were undoubtedly placed in his boots by the miscreants who kidnapped him, in the hope that they might prove sufficient to induce his conviction, in which case they would have blood-money. His friends, while he was absent, suffered the greatest anxiety. A book which he had with him when he left the house was found on the road, with blood marks upon it, and the impression was that he must have been murdered. The case is one which should be thoroughly investigated, and the parties guilty of this ruffianly act of kidnapping brought to condign punishment."

THE STEAMBOAT EXPLOSION ON THE MISSISSIPPI.—Mr. D. Snow, the United States Senator from Arkansas, who was on board the ill-fated steamer Sultana at the time of her explosion near Memphis, gives the following details of the disaster:—

"On the morning of the 27th, about three o'clock, I was awakened by a sensible tremor or shudder passing over the boat, but heard no explosion. Not anticipating such a terrible consequence, I arose and deliberately dressed. Just before finishing dressing, I became aware of a large volume of steam being driven through the cabin by the wind. I opened the door of my state-room, and in an instant realized the horror of the fact that the boiler had exploded, killing and scalding many; that the pilot-house and at least one-third of the cabin roof had fallen in; that the boiler deck and boat were on fire, with a fresh breeze carrying the flames with lightning-like rapidity through the balance of the cabin toward the ladies' saloon. I stepped back to avoid the heat, and denuded myself of my dress, except my pants and vest, and rushed to the rear of the boat, which was on the channel and much nearer the Tennessee than the Arkansas side. I looked toward the Tennessee side with a view of leaping, but found it a sea of heads so close together that it was impossible to jump without killing one or more. I determined to try the Arkansas shore, which was about three-quarters of a mile distant. I passed over several bodies of dead men, killed and trampled in the mad rush which must have occurred some moments prior to my advent on that part of the boat. I found the same sea of heads on this side, but discovered that the flames had driven them from the vicinity of the wheelhouse, and by getting as close as possible to an open place, to leap in. Prior to leaping I saw several husbands fasten life-preservers to their wives and children, and throw them overboard into the struggling mass below. I struck out for the Arkansas shore, and reached a log lodged in fifteen feet of water, among the overflowed cotton wood land. At ten minutes to seven, after four hours of exposure, I was rescued by the steamer Silver Star.

"The Sultana contained 2175 souls. The density with which they were packed had awakened my curiosity, and I looked over with the clerk his certificates and books before retiring. There were some females, besides a few children. The bulk of passengers were returned prisoners from Andersonville, which place they left on the 17th of last February. Among them were the remnant at that point of the prisoners captured at Chickamauga and Gettysburg. They numbered altogether 1966 men and 36 officers. A large number of horses were on the boat, which providentially became unresisting victims to the flames. Had they broken loose, the fate of the swimmers would have been determined within two hundred yards of the boat. As near as can be estimated, without other data than observation, between 200 and 300 reached the bank, while about an equal number floated down the stream on doors and furniture.

"A dense mass, estimated at about 500, took refuge on the bow of the boat, while the flames were driven aft by the wind. A few moments afterward the wheel houses, loosened by the concussion and flames, fell off outward, and the boat turned stern up stream, reversing the flames. The largest part of this number must then have perished, as they had no material at hand to throw over to sustain themselves, except a few bales of hay, which were immediately seized on the turning of the boat. The gang planks were thrown overboard, but sank at once under their living freight, and rose too far out of reach for most of them.

"The yawl-boat was launched, bottom up, from the hurricane deck, upon the heads of those below and afforded a support for a few in that condition. The whole time before the boat was an entire sheet of flame could not have exceeded twenty minutes."

The California end of the Pacific Railroad now employs about 2,300 labourers, 800 of whom are whites, and the remainder Chinese. Cars will be running thirty-six miles from Sacramento very soon.

Rents in New York are said to have advanced on an average from 50 to 75 per cent. since last year. Tenements are very scarce, and there is not a large amount of building in progress.

CORRESPONDENCE.

ENCROACHMENTS.

MR. WHELAN.

SIR:—The City Council have, like our Island reptiles, suddenly quit their dormant state, and are making a fuss about encroachments on the shore under the old Barrack property, where neither the Mayor, the Recorder, any of the Council, nor any of the police will venture during the next seven years any more than they have during the last seven years, consequently their progress around the shore will not be much obstructed. While they are thus acting they are permitting the most glaring encroachments on our streets, in various places, to progress with impunity, one in particular, within whistle-call of the Police Court. Is it not too bad that, although we pay a Mayor, a Recorder, a City Club, a City Surveyor, and a batch of police to prevent encroachments on our streets, yet they will suffer them to occur under their very noses, and make a great ado about matters that are almost without their reach? Last year they allowed a most glaring encroachment to occur in the tideway at the foot of Great George street—one of our principal openings to and from the city in the winter—and, although the matter was brought to the public notice at the time, the Council took no action; while now, at a place where there is no winter traffic at all, the proprietors of the barrack property are ordered to take away all the improvements they have made through the long winter. If they have to move them let them see that Mr. Pope moves the "side walk" from the west side of his wharf ere they do so, or let all parties come under rent to the city for say, 50 years, for the use of the shores thus occupied without having previously had the city authority thus to occupy them; and let the city officials at once prohibit the encroachment on Queen street of some three feet by the erection of a new store there.

Yours,
CITIZEN.

Charlottetown, 11th May, 1865.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE EXAMINER.

SIR:—

A highly respectable meeting of the inhabitants of the Eastern part of Lot 11 was convened in the Frederick Cove school-house, on the 26th instant, for the purpose of bestowing a suitable name upon that part of the Lot hitherto known as "Frederick Cove." The meeting was organized by appointing a Chairman and Secretary for the evening, after which took place a short discussion, then several names were submitted, and resolutions moved, when the following was almost unanimously adopted.

Resolved,—That the Eastern part of Lot 11, formerly known as "Frederick Cove," be hereafter called "Freeland."

Resolved,—That the proceedings of this meeting be sent to the "Examiner," "Herald" "Ross's Weekly," "Protestant" and "Islander" newspapers for insertion.

The meeting then quietly dispersed.

CHA'S KING, Sec'y.

A MAY IDYL.

The Spring is here; the sweet May blooms,
Like snow-flakes, whiten all the air:
I smell the delicate perfumes
Of apricot and pear.

I wander down the garden slopes,
And take the path that nearest leads
To where in blind assurance gropes
My buried store of seeds.

Ah, Nature fails me not! She keeps
Her promise sacred as of old;
See where her glad fulfilment peeps
Up through the softened mould!

Pansies and pinks and daffodils—
A brave array of bursting green;
Prophetic of the bloom that fills
The summer days with sheen.

A handful of unsightly seed—
That was the simple gift I brought;
And, lo, in answer to the deed,
A miracle is wrought!

A FRIEND OF MR LINCOLN'S FAMILY.—The Boston Post says "that the propriety of raising a fund by public subscription sufficiently large to place the family of Mr. Lincoln above the possibility of want, in a pecuniary point of view, is engaging attention. It is stated that the singleness of purpose and entire devotion to the great public interests which he represented and furthered, coupled with his exemplary honesty, prevented the late President from paying any attention to his private weal or private fortune. The probability, therefore, is that Mr. Lincoln's family is left in a condition not materially or pecuniarly improved by the exalted position held by its head. Admiral Farragut had a purse of $100,000 presented to him. Generals Grant and Sherman have been recipients of substantial tokens of the esteem in which they are held by a grateful people, and Gen. McClellan's services were not forgotten by those who believed that he had rendered services to the Republic. Undoubtedly in this instance also there will not be found wanting whatever generosity may be deemed consistent or proper."

It is proposed to raise the sum of $100,000 for the purpose named above.

(The deceased gentleman was brother to the late Charles Worrell, Esqr, of Morel House, and second cousin to John Edward Worrell Alleyne, Esqr, of Hillsborough Castle, in this Island.)
