

Value Of Trade In Canada Emphasized By Dept. Chief

HALIFAX (CP)—Trade Minister Sharp said that while efforts are being made to remove trade barriers abroad, equal efforts should be made to avoid any regional barriers at home.

"Canada is a small enough economy in this world of giants," he said. "It cannot afford the luxury of fragmentation."

Mr. Sharp, speaking in the series "Canada, Progress or Decline?" at St. Mary's University here, said although greater emphasis is placed on international trading patterns, "Canada's voluminous inter-regional trade flows are in fact a key pillar of our economic strength."

Four-fifths of the country's national product is sold domestically and a large portion of this crossed provincial boundaries.

"We would, I am afraid, become painfully aware of the tremendous contribution of inter-regional trade to our economic life were we to experience a serious disruption of the free flow of goods and services."

TRADE UNITS EMERGE

"At a time when larger trade units are emerging throughout the world by way of customs unions and free trade areas, it is doubly important that we fully appreciate the value of our unrestricted domestic trade."

Mr. Sharp said the current Kennedy round of trade negotiations at Geneva is particularly important to Canada because high importation tariffs on manufactured goods have prevented Canadian products from having access to big enough markets.

The successful outcome of the current negotiations would go a considerable way toward removing this traditional obstacle.

So far as the country's overall economic development is concerned, said Mr. Sharp, the greatest challenges may lie ahead. While 375,000 new jobs had come into being in the last three years, this increase must become even greater in future if all the young people were to be absorbed into the employment picture.

"Such a rate of growth will require concerted action on many fronts and throughout all groups in the economic community."

STRENGTH NEEDED

"Most crucial of all is the need to strengthen still further our performance in internationally competitive lines of activity."

It wasn't enough merely to create greater demand; this could result in such an increase in imports that the country would face balance-of-payments difficulties.

He said the devaluation of the Canadian dollar has played an important part in Canada's current economic expansion, although devaluation had been carried out "clumsily and tardily." It was "undoubtedly" what was required to restore economic balance.

The text of his speech was given in the press before devaluation.

Presence Of Archbishop Protested

QUERBEC (CP)—A former member of the legislative assembly known for his Quebec nationalist views has protested against the presence of the Roman Catholic Archbishop of Quebec City at ceremonies marking the arrival of the Queen in the provincial capital.

Rene Chalouit, not politically active for the last eight years, said in a statement Archbishop Maurice Roy's presence "would not have been so serious in its consequences if just one man were involved."

"But it is a whole doctrine that has been directly discredited."

Msgr. Roy, who also is the primate of the Roman Catholic Church in Canada, returned to Quebec City from the Vatican Ecumenical Council to help greet the Queen and to assist at ceremonies honoring the 50th anniversary of the Royal 22nd Regiment.

Mr. Chalouit said the archbishop came back to "render homage at the feet of Elizabeth."

The former assembly member said this "results from a 200-year-old tradition of loyalty which remains suspect."

"Times have changed," he said. "Have the echoes of such a haughty yet penetrated the archbishop's liver?"
