REV. R.W. ROSS

Former CPO To Preach At Zion

Of interest to many Islanders and especially all those who were recruited during the last war at H.M.C.S. Queen Charlotte is the fact that former Chief Petty Officer R.W. Ross is now Reverend Robert W. Ross and will preach at Zion Presbyterian Church at 11.00 a.m. and 7.30 p.m. tomorrow.

Rev. Mr. Ross was stationed at Queen Charlotte from 1936 until 1944 and in the capacity of chief petty officer instructor became well acquainted with the majority of Naval recruits from the Province. Following his discharge from the Navy in 1946 he enrolled in an Arts course at Mount Allison and later attended Presbyterian College at Montreal.

Rev. Mr. Ross has been doing supply work for the Presbyterian Church in New Brunswick and is spending a vacation with his wife and family on the island.

The same force and drive which marked him as an efficient Chief Petty Officer in the Navy is evident in Rev. Mr. Ross as a Minister of the Presbyterian Church.

HAMPTON

Funeral services for the late John M. MacKinnon of New Argyle, whose sudden death occurred at the P.E.I. Hospital on July 27, were held from his late residence on July 29, with a large attendance of relatives and friends. The services at the home and at Argyle Cemetery, where interment was made, were conducted by Rev. Donald Nicholson, former pastor of the Clyde River congregation, present pastor of the Belfast Charge. Much sympathy is being extended to the bereaved family.

An enjoyable miscellaneous shower was held in Crapaud Hall on July 30th for Mr. and Mrs. Boyd MacDonald.

Miss Margaret Rose Campbell, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Calvin Campbell, is the guest of Mr. and Mrs. James V. Campbell and daughter Edith during holidays.

Miss Elvira Villett, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Villett of South Melville, was a hostess at the Charlottetown Golf Club on August 3rd.

Crapaud Gospel Hall was the setting for a very pretty wedding on July 31st, when Miss Beatrice J. Cutcliffe, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Cutcliffe, Cape Traverse and a former teacher at Hampton School, was united in marriage to Mr. Douglas. C. Patterson of Lumsden N. S. in the presence of a large number of invited guests, and friends of the bride and groom. Gifts of beauty and value were presented at a previous shower held at the bride's parents, expressive of the esteem held for this highly respected couple. Following the bride's reception, this young couple left for a honeymoon trip through the Maritimes, following which they will reside at Lumsden, N.S.

At the L.O.B.A. afternoon service in this church, largely attended, the inspiring message delivered by the church pastor on "Unity and Christian Love," this being the basic truth in the order received a very attentive hearing, with the combined choir leading in the service of song and Mrs. Allison Lea, organist, presiding.

Corporal Brehaut is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Milton Brehaut Birchwood Avenue.

Makes Tour Of N. Shore Harbors

During the past two days, Mr. Heath Macquarrie M.P. has been surveying the landing facilities and estimating costs of construction at Tracadie and Seaview. He also conferred with fishermen in this area in an effort to ascertain their needs.

Mr. Macquarrie reports that the landing facilities at Seaview are very poor. Many still have to rely on horses to pull their boats up on shore. At. Little Harbour Rustico he inspected the breastwork now under construction.

Car Hits Pole Longworth Ave.

Cecil MacFadyen, Winsloe and Charles Stewart received cuts and abrasions when the 1951 Pontiac which MacFadyen was driving struck a light pole on the north side of Longworth Avenue yesterday at 3.15 p.m. Both were taken to the Prince Edward Island Hospital where their injuries were treated. They were later released from the Hospital. The damage to the car was quite extensive.

At 1.05 p.m. yesterday a 1953 Ford travelling north on Hillsboro was in collision with a 1950 Pontiac travelling west on Fitzroy. The damage to both vehicles was not very great.

To Survey New Water Route

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Senate Friday passed a bill to authorize a survey of an inland water route from Albany, N.Y., into Lake Champlain, with ultimate connection with the St. Lawrence River.

The measure refers to the so-called Lake Champlain cutoff. It would give an inland route, from the Great Lake to New York City. A companion bill for the U.S. army engineer survey is before the House of Representatives public works committee.

The existing project on the Hudson River provides for a 32-foot channel from New York City to Albany and a 14 - foot channel from Albany to Waterford, N.Y., the eastern terminus of the Great Lakes-to-Hudson waterway.

The New York state barge canal to Whitehall at the southern end of Lake Champlain, has a width of 14 feet. The federal project in Lake Champlain provides navigable depths of 12 feet.

A route was investigated some time ago from Lake Champlain to the St. Lawrence River by way of Richelieu River and Chambly canal to Sorel, Que., on the St. Lawrence east of Montreal.

Proponents of the inland route said that it would result in cheaper shipping rates on grain and other products from the middle west and provide a protected route for ore shipments in the event of war.

Immigrant Wins Income Tax Case

OTTAWA (CP) — The income tax appeal board has upheld the contention of a Yugoslav immigrant that he supported his wife in their homeland and therefore was entitled to the $2 000 tax exemption for married persons claimed on his 1955 income.

In a judgment made public Friday, the board ordered the revenue department to allow the deduction claimed by Steve Kaposzta who came to Canada from Yugoslavia in 1951.

The department had refused to allow the deduction which Mr. Kaposzta made on the basis of having spent $448.53 in sending cash and goods to his wife in Yugoslavia.

The board's judgment said he proved satisfactorily at a hearing in Toronto that he was married in 1955 and had sent the money and goods to his wife.

Dry Cleaners NOTEBOOK

BY: P. R. McCORMAC

Sometimes when you're gathering and passing out information about clothing, as I did in a couple of recent columns, it's natural to think in terms of the white collar workers — the man in the office and behind the store counter — because clothes intended for manual labor do not seem as difficult to buy.

But there are work clothes AND work clothes, and manual workers are just as anxious to get their money's worth; so here are a few tips I hope some of you men will find useful the next time you're shopping for work clothes.

Shirts should have buttonholes closely and evenly stitched and reinforced at top and bottom; buttons should be well secured; close stitching (about eight stitches per inch) is important; collars need extra material between the two outer linings; parts should be cut to fit body contours.

Most of these points apply to trousers, which should also have copper rivets at all points of strain, plus plenty of pockets.

Hats and caps should have a removable, washable sweatband, and all garments should be checked for multiple seams, close stitching (for greater strength) and rust-proof, nonbreakable zippers and buttons.

I don't expect anybody to copy all these things down and walk into a clothing store with a check list; but if you do remember the main points, you're more likely to buy work clothes that will give you much longer wear and satisfaction.

I've heard it said that if families spent their money as efficiently as North American technology produces goods, their purchasing power would increase 20 percent. And what better starting point could there be than with the clothes you wear every day?
