Sharp Criticism Is Expressed On Loans To Moving Workers

OTTAWA (CP — Sharp criticism of the loan feature in the government's new manpower mobility program, under which certain workers are assisted in moving to new job areas, was voiced Wednesday by the Economic Council of Canada.

The council, in its second annual economic review, said it has "serious reservations" about the decision to make one category of workers eligible for outright grants and another group eligible only for loans, repayable over two years.

"According to the government's announcement, workers who have been unemployed for four of the previous six months will qualify for a grant, whereas workers who have been unemployed for any period of time less than this will receive loans.

"Apart from the difficulties which must surely arise in administering these two kinds of assistance, it seems to us that the loan feature of the program will prove self-defeating.

"For example, a loan of $500 to $1,000 for a family of several dependants, repayable over a two-year period, may appear to an unemployed worker a formidable debt to contract before he and his family move to a new and perhaps uncertain economic environment.

"Furthermore, this system ... would tend to penalize the more enterprising individual who seeks to shorten the duration of his unemployment."

The council said it considers a mobility allowance plan of vital importance. But it felt mobility should be encouraged by grants rather than loans, with appropriate safeguards to avoid abuses.

The report, dated December, also noted that the government plan was announced last spring but had not yet gone into effect when the report was written.

"It is difficult to understand the delay in putting this program into operation. This delay has resulted in unnecessary manpower bottlenecks."

The labor department announced Dec. 15 that the program would begin Dec. 26.

It pays, either in the form of a grant or loan, the full cost of moving a worker, his family and household goods.

An added resettlement allowance of up to $1,000 also is available, again as a loan or grant depending on the worker's category.

UC Magazine Suggests Role For Anglicans

TORONTO (CP)—The United Church Observer says Anglicans should be involved in discussions about a successor to Rt. Rev. Ernest M. Howse, moderator of the United Church of Canada, who steps down next fall.

"For 1966-68 a statesman is needed" the church's official publication says.

"Such a statesman, of course, could be a layman, or a lay woman, or an ordained woman. No layman or woman has yet had this office in the United Church, but it could be. Perhaps it should be done now, not as a reminder to Anglicans that such is possible or in any sense a last fling, but as a dramatic and prophetic act signifying our belief that in the church of the future such high office is not just for men or clergy."

The general council will consider at its meeting a document of suggested principles of union between the United and Anglican churches. The Anglican General Synod approved the document last summer.

The head of the Anglican church, the primate, is elected by the House of Bishops. Women are not ordained in the Anglican church.

Astronauts Are Praised

HOUSTON (AP)—U.S. astronauts Frank Borman and James Lovell harbored some natural apprehension and anxiety during their two-week space flight in Gemini 7, but turned in a "really outstanding" performance, the flight surgeon said.

For one thing, Dr. Charles A. Berry said, the two pilots felt an obvious letdown when Gemini 6 returned to earth after only one day in space, following a space rendezvous.

The fuel cell problem that threatened to cut the flight a day short caused a period of anxiety, Berry said, until ground controllers assured the astronauts that the power-producing cell would last the full 14 days.

Berry, who discussed medical aspects of the flight at a press conference, said:

"It was really outstanding . . almost unbelievable" how Borman and Lovell emerged medically after 14 days in their tiny spacecraft, he said. "They were in better shape than we expected."

Berry agreed with the astronauts that on future long missions more attention should be paid to incorporating more comfort items in the spacecraft —"For example, a hot cup of coffee in the morning."

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE — Here's how to work it:

A X Y D L B A A X E
is L O N G F E L L O W

One letter simply stands for another. In this sample A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophies, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

Opening lead—nine of hearts.

Declarer is usually in trouble if he does not have adequate communication between his own hand and dummy's. Whatever the particular circumstances, the ability to enter either hand more or less at will is generally a tremendous factor in declarer's favor.

The defenders likewise gain an advantage by being able to communicate with each other, and in many hands this contact is absolutely vital to their interests. However, since the defenders usually have much less high-card strength than the declarer, they must husband their resources somewhat more carefully to stay in touch with each other.

Here is a case where East had to make a good play to defeat the contract. West led the nine of hearts in response to East's overcall and declarer played the ten from dummy.

If East had made the mistake of playing the king, South would have made the contract with ease. Whatever East returned, South would have been able to establish his clubs in time to make at least nine tricks. East's hearts would have withered on the vine because he could not both establish and cash them.

Aware of this difficulty, East decided against winning the ten of hearts with the king and played the eight instead. This was a signal for West to lead another heart if and when he obtained the lead. East's only hope at this point was that West had another heart and also a club entry.

When this turned out to be the case, South had to go down one. Declarer overtook the ten of hearts with the jack and led a club, but West went up with the ten of hearts with the king establishing East's remaining hearts.

Declarer could now do no better than cash four diamond tricks and the A-K of spades, but that brought him to only eight tricks and he wound up going down as a result of East's excellent play at trick one.
