The grand essentials of happiness are something to do, something to love, and something to hope for.—Chalmers. Absence from those we love is self from self! A deadly banishment.—Shakespeare. Fortune turns faster than a mill-wheel, and those who were yesterday at top may find themselves at bottom to-day.—Don Quixote. M. Nordenskjold maintains that the aurora is a permanent phenomenon in polar regions, being always seen when the sun is below the horizon or when the moon is invisible. Let us do good, not to receive more good in return, but as an evidence of gratitude for what has already been bestowed. In a few words, let it be 'al for love, and nothing for reward.—Jean Ingelow. I think we cannot too strongly attack superstition, which is the disturber of society; nor too highly respect genuine religion, which is the support of it.—Roscian. The talent of success is nothing more than doing what you can do well, and doing well whatever you do, without a thought of fame.—Longfellow. The way to subject all things to thyself is to suby to thyself to reason. Thou shalt govern many if reason govern thee. Wouldst thou be crowned the monarch of a little world? Command thyself.—Quarles. It was a very proper answer to him who asked why any man should be delighted with beauty, that it was a question that none but a blind man could ask; since any beautiful object doth so much attract the sight of all men that it is in no man's power not to be pleased with it.—Clarendon. It is announced that a contract has been closed between the Canada Southern Railroad Company and the Phoenix Bridge Company, for the building of a new suspension bridge over the Niagara River, a quarter of a mile south of the old suspension bridge. The new bridge is to be ready for traffic by September, 1883. What waste, what misery, what bankruptcy, come from all this ambition to dazzle others with the glare of apparent worldly success, we need not describe. The mischievous results show themselves in a thousand ways—in the rank frauds committed by men who dare to be dishonest, but do not dare to seem poor; and in the desperate dashes at fortune, in which the pity is not so much for those who fail, as for the hundreds of innocent families who are so often involved in their ruin.—Samuel Smiles. I recommend no sour, ascetic life. I believe not only in the thorns of the rose-bush, but in the roses which the thorns defend. Asceticism is the child of sensuality and superstition. She is the secret mother of many a secret sin. God, when he made man's body, did not give us a fibre too much, nor a passion too many. I would steal no jussion from the young maiden's bosom; rather would I fill her arms with more fragrant roses. But a life merely of pleasure, or chiefly of pleasure, is always a poor and worthless life, not worth the living; always unsatisfactory in its course, always miserable in its end.—Theodore Parker. Farm Notes. Mr. Goodbean says, "I have great faith in linseed oil. A farmer should never be without a good supply of this valuable oil, for if a bullock is blown, or a horse has been eating wheat, or a cow choked, indeed in nearly every thing else, give it first some linseed oil, and then send off for your veterinary, and he will tell you that you could not have done better." The total number of horses exported from Great Britain during the eleven months of the present year was 6,070, of which 1,942 went to France. Last year, in the same period, the number exported was 5,726, and in 1880 it was 4,845. The value of the horses exported last year is stated at $384,805. The value for 1881 was $353,043, and for 1880 $292,992. Special Notices. FRESH North River Oysters at the Union House. If you wish to buy a cheap pair of Skates, buy of R. B. HUESTIS.
