

Eugene MacDonald Elected President Of S.D.U. Alumni

Eugene MacDonald of Charlottetown was elected president of the St. Dunstan's University Alumni Association at the annual meeting held this week.

EUGENE MACDONALD

Other officers elected include: first vice-president, Henry Wedge, Summerside; second vice-president, Lt.-Col. S.J. Parent, Quebec City; past president, Judge Sylvester Desjardis, Montague; secretary-treasurer, Rev. Edmund Roche and assistant secretary, Rev. Frank L. Ledwell, both of St. Dunstan's.

Members of the Executive Committee are Dr. J.L.F. Burge, Elmer Blanchard, Urban McQuaid, Leonard Donnell, all of Charlottetown; J.B. Johnston, Boston; E. Somerland Trainor, Charlottetown and George McMahon, Summerside.

One of the chief items of business on the agenda at the annual meeting was the financial campaign for the erection of the Alumni Gymnasium-Auditorium on the campus. The campaign started in 1949 and will be completed this year. The gymnasium was completed in 1952.

After the meeting a social evening attended by some 400 people was held in the auditorium. This part of the program was under the chairmanship of Urban McQuaid and Ivan Dowling.

Alumnae and wives of the alumni served a buffet lunch.

Federal Gov't Decision On Immigration Delayed

By JOHN E. BIRD
Canadian Press Staff Writer
OTTAWA (CP)—A federal government decision on Canada's immigration policy for 1959 will be delayed until sometime early next year, Immigration Minister Fairclough said Friday.

She made the statement in an interview following her return to Ottawa Thursday from a 10-day fact-finding tour of the United Kingdom.

In years of high employment, tentative immigration targets usually are set in November or early December for the following year.

Restrictions were placed on immigration July 31, 1957, because of an anticipated large increase in unemployment last winter.

HALTED BIG FLOW
They were put into effect at the height of the biggest movement of immigrants to Canada in 44 years. Immigration to Canada in 1957 totalled 282,164, the largest number since 1913 when 400,870 arrived.

The restrictions have remained in effect for 1958 and will reduce immigration this year to about 125,000.

The restrictions are aimed at preventing persons without jobs and sponsors from entering the country. Most immigrants now arriving are persons joining families in Canada and those with special skills or jobs to go to.

If a government decision on immigration is delayed until late next winter or early spring, this will reduce the number of immigrants who might otherwise arrive in 1959. It takes several months for the flow of immigrants to increase once the immigration department sets its entire machinery in motion.

The restrictions do not apply to citizens of Britain, Ireland, France and the United States.

W.I. HOLDS 11TH ANNUAL BANQUET

The Fortune Road Women's Institute, (above) at their eleven annual banquet held recently at the Bison Restaurant, Montague. Although not large, this group is very active in School work, having made many improvements and additions to the building. They also take a very active part in community affairs.

on the table, I did not say "Why don't you drink what is in the bottle." It wasn't much of a drink for some people. I got him a can of beer.

"I went past him into pantry. I gave him the beer and he started to drink it. I was standing by the kitchen table. We didn't talk.

"He asked me to get him something to eat. I told him it was getting late and he should lie down and have a sleep. He had a rum bottle in one hand and a beer in the other.

"I had another beer and went in to the pantry to get it. I drank the first fairly fast. I was about half-way through the second beer and don't know how much he had to drink.

"I turned to look out the window. I thought I had seen car lights. I was standing near the table. The couch was to my right and to the left of the door. Window is directly to the right of the door.

"He mumbled something just before he threw the bottle. I couldn't make out what he said. I looked around and saw him lunging at me. I don't know where his tin of beer was. The bottle hit in the vicinity of the door leading to the porch.

"He didn't say anything when I hit him either the first or the second time. He didn't swear or curse. Not a word was said. I think he took what I said wrong. I don't remember him saying that he owned the house. I just suggested that he go to bed.

"I did not have my shoes on, just my socks.

"He did not hit me once. He was pretty drunk.

"I couldn't see the eye too well in the morning. It was covered up with compresses. Don't remember hitting him in the eye or nose. I hit him twice on the jaw.

"I staggered into the stove. I wasn't drunk and didn't know I had beaten him so badly.

"I left the house because I thought he would wake up and look for more trouble. I went back into the house, washed some blood off my hands, put on my shoes and went out.

The presentation of evidence was completed yesterday morning to where the road machines were working; about 300 yards from the house and went to sleep.

"I saw Ivan Woods again about 8 a.m. at the house. My step-father was lying on the couch. I didn't see any marks on him earlier in the morning except for a nose bleed. Saw black eye in the morning.

"I had no idea that he was seriously hurt.

"My brother Kenneth, sister Ruth, my brother's girl friend and a neighbor's son were due in that day from Ontario. I saw them when they arrived and Kenneth bawled me out for hitting him (Ross).

FOR DOCTOR
Kenneth suggested going for a doctor. He went and got Dr. MacDonald. When he arrived my step-father was dead.

"I didn't make any move towards him (Ross) and then he got up and tried to hit me again. No threats were made by either of us. Nothing was said.

"I knew mother and he used to argue when he was drunk. My mother told me they have ever since they were married. He and I didn't have any arguments between ourselves.

"I did not intend to kill him. I did not intend to commit any bodily harm with the intention of killing him. I did not intend to commit any bodily harm."

CROSS-EXAMINATION
Roger MacLean's answers to the questions given to him by Crown Prosecutor J. P. Nicholson were as follows:

"To get to Ivan Wood's place you go out our lane to where they were working on the highway. His place is about three-quarters of a mile away. After I left house I went down around the Orwell School, not towards Wood's place. I sat on the steps of the school for about five hours.

"I suggested to mother that she might as well go back to bed. I thought he would be up in a few minutes.

"I first started to leave home when I was 16 years old. I didn't note any enmity on my step-father's part at any time. He always wanted to argue when he was drunk. I was not present at any of the arguments that he had with mother but she told me about them.

"No. She did not say she was having an awful life. He was a good provider when he wasn't drinking.

"I just wore my underclothes to bed. I put on my jeans and shirt when I went down stairs. He (Ross) was on the couch. He asked me for something to drink. I saw the bottle of rum

Hold Variety Concert In Yeo Theatre

MONTAGUE—A highly successful variety concert, sponsored by the Montague Women's Institute, was presented at Yeo's Theatre, Wednesday evening, October 15th. before a capacity audience.

Mr. John Hughes, was master of ceremonies. Piano accompanists during the evening were: John MacKinnon, Mrs. Ralph Beck, Mrs. Horace Fraser and Miss Peggy Beck. Violinists were Alex. MacDougall and George Boudreau. Pipe Major George Fraser, Charlottetown, played selections and also piped accompaniment for Miss Gwendie Clark in her Highland dancing.

Each number was superbly rendered and was heartily enjoyed by the large, appreciative audience.

The following is the program: Square dance, eight tiny tots under the direction of Mrs. Douglas Coffin; vocal solo, Gillian Taylor; vocal duet, Mrs. Arnold Wightman and Mrs. Douglas Coffin; Sann Taubis, Gwendie Clark; reading, "Maggie and Jiggs at the Golden Gate"; Mrs. Cyrus Shaw; harmonica and guitar selections, Mrs. William Matheson and Johnny Bears. Irish Jigg, Ralph Fraser; vocal solo, Ron Lawford; comedy vocal and instrumental numbers, Ralph Beck; George Arsenault, Eugene Murphy; vocal solo and tap dance number; Miss Florence MacDonald; pipe selections, George Fraser; step dance, Miss Viola Shepard; vocal solos "Mighty Lak A Rose" and "Little Black Sheep"; Mrs. Ralph Beck; Brooklyn Trio, "There's Music In The Air"; The Queen.

A MODEL OF NOTE
This has been made possible through the design and location of the kitchen at the Hillsboro Active Treatment centre. Both male and female sections of the old hospital are now served by the new kitchen. Meals are served and dishes washed in the respective wings however.

"Maintenance of our public buildings is a continuing and expensive part of government administration," said Mr. MacKay, "and we are constantly alert to the many pressing needs arising therefrom. In so far as it is within my power, I will not see any of our citizens suffer through lack of proper facilities to house and care for them." Mr. MacKay concluded.

BRUSSELS (AP) — The International Federation of Agricultural Producers has elected James J. Patton of North Dakota as its president. Patton is president of the American National Farmers' Union and of the North Dakota Farmers' Union. The federation chose him at its 10th general conference, which ended a 10-day session here Monday.

Partition Of S.W. Africa Is Not Under Consideration

With regard to South West Africa's future international status, the delegation has already stated that in our view the proposals which the Good Offices Committee has put forward are procedural and that this is not the occasion to enter into a debate of substance." So said a statement by Mr. Heath Macquarrie, M.P., Canadian Representative on the Fourth (Trusteeship) Committee of the United Nations General Assembly on Monday, October 13, 1958.

PARTITION
"The report mentions the possibility of partition as one solution which we might wish to invite the Union to investigate further," continued Mr. Macquarrie.

"We do not at this stage wish to pronounce ourselves on the substance of partition or whether or not we might in the future approve of a partition plan which we could not do so at the present time for no such plan is before us and we have no precise idea where the boundary lines might be drawn, or how large a part of the population might be placed under trusteeship.

INHABITANTS
"We note, however, that in their statements, Sir Charles Arden Clarke and the Foreign Minister for the Union of South Africa have both pointed out that there could be no partition plan until the desires of the peoples of the territory had been ascertained and of course in our view this consultation would have to be in a manner which would be satisfactory to the inhabitants of the territory and to the United Nations.

"It is a matter of great concern to us," continued Mr. Macquarrie, "that our discussions afterwards because I thought he would wake up and start trouble all over again.

"I went down around Orwell School for a while and then went to where the road machines were working; about 300 yards from the house and went to sleep.

"I saw Ivan Woods again about 8 a.m. at the house. My step-father was lying on the couch. I didn't see any marks on him earlier in the morning except for a nose bleed. Saw black eye in the morning.

'Not Guilty'

He got right back up and came at me again in the same way. I hit him again and he fell against the stove, slid off and hit the floor frame.

"He mumbled something when he came at me the first time but I couldn't make it out. There wasn't anything else said. I guess he took what I said to him the wrong way.

OUTSIDE
"I carried him out back and laid him on the ground so that the fresh air would sober him up. I dragged him out by lifting him up by the armpits from the back. One foot was on the step.

"I went back into the kitchen. Suggested to my mother that I would go back to bed and that I would stay down. Went out soon
