Parliament At A Glance

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

WEDNESDAY, May 18, 1966

An explosion in a Commons washroom killed an unidentified man who apparently smuggled a bomb device into Parliament Hill's Centre Block. Speculation was that the intent was to explode the device in the Commons chamber or galleries. Opposition Leader Diefenbaker announced a Conservative boycott against the Munsinger inquiry, denouncing it for a "McCarthy smear." The inquiry heard its final witnesses and was to wind up with summaries by lawyers beginning Thursday. Following the Commons explosion MPs approved an introductory resolution providing Newfoundland's $8,000,000 grant in perpetuity. Immigration Minister Marchand introduced legislation to increase the allowances paid to persons taking re-training courses.

Blast In Washroom Possibly Premature

By TOM MITCHELL

OTTAWA (CP)—A man who apparently smuggled a bomb into the Centre Block of Parliament Hill Wednesday was killed when an explosion ripped through a washroom near the offices of Prime Minister Pearson and External Affairs Minister Martin. He was identified as Paul Joseph Chartier, about 45, of Toronto after eight hours of intensive investigation by RCMP and other police. Speculation was the washroom explosion was premature and the intent was that the device be set off inside the Commons chamber or in its galleries. Commons Speaker Lucien Lamoureux and Solicitor-General Pennell held a joint press conference Wednesday night to give details and identify the victim. Mr. Lamoureux said the victim was from Toronto, that police there had investigated his residence and found sticks of dynamite and three home-made bombs, and that the man had a history of psychiatric treatment in a Toronto hospital.

Mr. Pennell said information "strongly indicates no other person was involved." There was evidence the man was emotionally unstable. FELT INJUSTICE: Mr. Pennell said this was based on "written material" that indicated "he felt perhaps the world hasn't done right by him and there were injustices to correct." Mr. Pennell said he understands Chartier's parents live in northeastern Alberta and there has been difficulty in locating them. Mr. Lamoureux said he understood the explosive device was a home-made dynamite-type bomb with a fuse, you would have to light yourself." Identification of the victim took time because of confusion arising over conflicting identifications, found on the body. Shortly after the blast jolted the Commons and spilled billows of bitter-smelling smoke through nearby corridors, the Centre Block building was cleared of visitors. RCMP officers and two army bomb squad experts combed the smashed and blood-stained washroom for clues. Pictures were taken. Some 90 minutes after the explosion, the body of the victim was taken away on a stretcher covered by a rubber sheet. The blast came about 2:50 p.m. EDT, minutes after the Commons had settled quickly into its routine procedure for a Wednesday. The echoing explosion stunned MPs and the crowds jammed into the public galleries—mostly visiting school children and their teachers. Mr. Pearson and Mr. Martin were in their seats. RAN TO SCENE: Reporters in the press gallery at the north end of the Commons chamber scrambled toward the blast site, at the south end of the building. They found the corridors filled with smoke when they arrived at the washroom. The washroom is tucked into a corner off a U-shaped corridor that forms a balcony overlooking the main entrance to the Commons chamber, one floor below. The washroom is on one side of the U. Mr. Martin's office is next to it, along the base of the U, and Mr. Pearson's office is next to Mr. Martin's. The explosion shattered glass in the one window in the room, ripped chunks of marble from walls and toilet facilities and blew out the panels of the heavy wooden door to the corridor, although leaving the door frame intact. One chunk of marble was found in the corridor outside. Two doctor MPs were among the first on the scene after the blast. Dr. Hugh Horner (PC—Jasper-Edson) and Dr. P. B. Ryan (PC—Simcoe East) both said the victim died almost outright. The man's chest, arms and legs absorbed the main force of the explosion, Dr. Horner told reporters. The doctor told "pretty well mangled."

Mad Kidnap-Killer Brought Down By Slug From Teen-Age Boy's Gun

SHADE GAP, Pa. (AP)—A mad kidnap-killer was shot to death Wednesday in a running gun battle with state police and two teen-age farm boys. His kidnap victim of almost a week, 17-year-old Peggy Ann Bradnick, escaped safely during the fusillade.

William Diller Hollenbaugh, 44, came within yards of escaping the largest police cordon in recent Pennsylvania history. A closed gate on a farm just off the Pennsylvania turnpike blocked his mad dash for freedom and led to his ultimate death. Hollenbaugh, a former convict and for 13 years a patient in a mental hospital, left a trail of violence before he fell in a farm yard with a slug in his neck, apparently from the shotgun of a 15-year-old farm boy.

The man described variously as the phantom sniper and mountain man shot and killed an FBI agent Tuesday and critically wounded a deputy sheriff whose car he commandeered in his attempt to break through the cordon.

KILLED BY BOY: Jack Conny, press secretary to State Governor William W. Scranton, said the fatal shot is believed to have been fired by young Larry Rubek, a son of the owner of the farm where the gunfight took place. "Young Larry fired his shotgun as another state trooper fired at Hollenbaugh," Conny said. "It is believed Hollenbaugh was struck simultaneously by rounds from the trooper's gun and the shot by Larry." An examination of the body, however, by Dr. Russel C. McLucas at a funeral home, showed only one slug struck Hollenbaugh, a large-calibre bullet apparently from the type of gun used by the youngster. It entered the rear of the left shoulder and exited in front where the shoulder and neck join. The gunfight climaxed the massive man hunt started a week ago Wednesday when Hollenbaugh—walked out of the woods and snatched Peggy Ann as she walked home from school with her five brothers and sisters. This brought state police, FBI agents and volunteers by the hundreds to this community of 140 persons in the Tuscarora mountains 70 miles southwest of the state capital of Harrisburg.

PCs Boycotting Munsinger Probe

OTTAWA (CP)—Opposition Leader Diefenbaker imposed a Conservative boycott on the Munsinger security inquiry Wednesday as the royal commission heard its last witness. Mr. Justice Wishart Spence, the commissioner, announced that final argument will begin today at 10:30 a.m. Neither Justice Minister Cardin, whose charges led to the inquiry, nor Mr. Diefenbaker, accused by Mr. Cardin of mishandling the Munsinger case, when he was prime minister, appeared before the commission. Mr. Diefenbaker announced he had instructed the lawyers representing him and former Conservative justice minister David Fulton to quit the inquiry. They did and, consequently, will not present final argument. Mr. Diefenbaker accused Mr. Justice Spence of making public last week "a sordid, libelous document" and "a McCarthy smear." The document was intended to destroy his reputation and many points in it were contradicted by the evidence, he said. Mr. Diefenbaker referred to a document prepared by Commission Counsel J. L. O'Brien and J. J. Urie. It was a summary of police reports about Gerda Munsinger and her relationship with Pierre Sevigny, former Conservative associate defence minister, and others. The judge said the document was not evidence. Mr. Diefenbaker said at a press conference that Mr. O'Brien boasted publicly in Montreal of what he was going to do with a former prime minister and had stated "over and over again that he was going to get even." Mr. Diefenbaker said Mr. O'Brien had been counsel for the Bell Telephone Co. of Canada when the Conservative cabinet objected to an application for a phone rate increase. Mr. O'Brien told reporters before the afternoon session of the inquiry began. "I have never said it and I have no reason to get him. Apart from that, I'm not very interested."

Seed Potato Mission Planned By Federal Trade Department

OTTAWA (CP)—The federal department of trade and commerce is planning a seed potato mission as part of its 1966-67 trade promotion program, Hon. Robert Winters, minister of trade and commerce, said Wednesday. Mr. Winters made the statement during an address to the Lunenburg Board of Trade. A copy of his remarks was released in advance. "In our 1966-67 program, plans are underway relative to an incoming seed potato mission which will bring buyers from overseas who are interested in obtaining seed potato from this area," Mr. Winters said. "This is one of many similar missions the department has developed in co-ordination with industry to promote the Maritime potato trade." He said that a special food mission to Britain is also included in the current program as was a fisheries mission to the Caribbean and South America. Turning to the question of transportation, Mr. Winters said that he was pleased that the causeway to Prince Edward Island would become a reality. "I became involved in this project while I was a member of parliament for this constituency and minister of public works. That was 10 years ago. I guess the comment that would apply here is that progress has been slow but steady," Mr. Winters commented.

Summerside Argus Aids Sea Rescue

HALIFAX (CP)—The Greek freighter Aurora Wednesday night was reported sinking about 160 miles east of St. John's, Nfld. The Air-Sea Rescue Centre here said the vessel Overseas Carrier took aboard several of the Aurora's 29 crew members and was standing by. The weather was bad, with high winds, heavy seas and fog. The ship has been located earlier by an RCAF Argus from Summerside, P.E.I.

Effects Spreading Rapidly In Britain's Seamen's Strike

LONDON (CP)—Britain's growing seamen's strike has threatened a disastrous general walkout, split socialist ranks, pushed food prices up, weakened sterling and started to bite into the country's vital tourist trade. Lord Manocroft, president of the London Tourist Board and deputy chairman of Cunard Lines, told a luncheon Wednesday his company has received "a very large number of cancellations" from visitors who intend going to Paris and Rome instead of London. Meanwhile, the seamen's union reported that 364 ships are tied up, involving 10,740 seamen, and sympathy for the union's demands is spreading among other worker organizations. "We have to restrain the dockers from going all out to help us by halting loading and unloading," a union spokesman said. A shipping federation official said the total ships tied up is 320—not 364—and that the dock workers are continuing to do their job. Some 2,200 British ships are still at sea or in foreign ports, carrying about $2,000 British. These return home they will be tied up and the seamen will take up picket duties.

Prince MP Will Visit Washington

OTTAWA (CP)—David MacDonald, MP for Prince, will be one of 24 Canadian delegates attending a meeting of the Canada-United States inter-parliamentary group in Washington this week. The Canadians include six senators and 18 members of parliament and they will meet for two days to discuss matters of mutual interest with such well known United States legislators as Senators Mansfield, Fulbright and Aiken. Chief items for discussion will be economic affairs, defence and security. On Saturday the group will visit the atomic energy installation at Knoxville, Tennessee. Normally, the group meets twice a year, once in each country to exchange views in an informal way. The Canadians are expected to return home Sunday.

House Resumes After One Hour

OTTAWA (CP)—The Commons resumed its sitting after a one-hour suspension Wednesday, then returned to the nation's business while the smell of smoke still hung in the chamber. The record contained only 252 words in direct and oblique reference to the washroom explosion of a bomb that killed a man a few dozen feet from the chamber. The building echoed with the blast, but debate continued 15 minutes in competition with excited chatter among MPs and several hundred persons occupying the galleries. Finally, at the suggestion of Opposition Leader Diefenbaker and Prime Minister Pearson, the House adjourned 55 minutes. On their return, MPs rapidly approved an introductory resolution to give effect to one of the terms of the 1949 union of Newfoundland with Canada, providing the province with an $8,000,000 annual federal grant in perpetuity.

Quebec To Get A-Power Plant

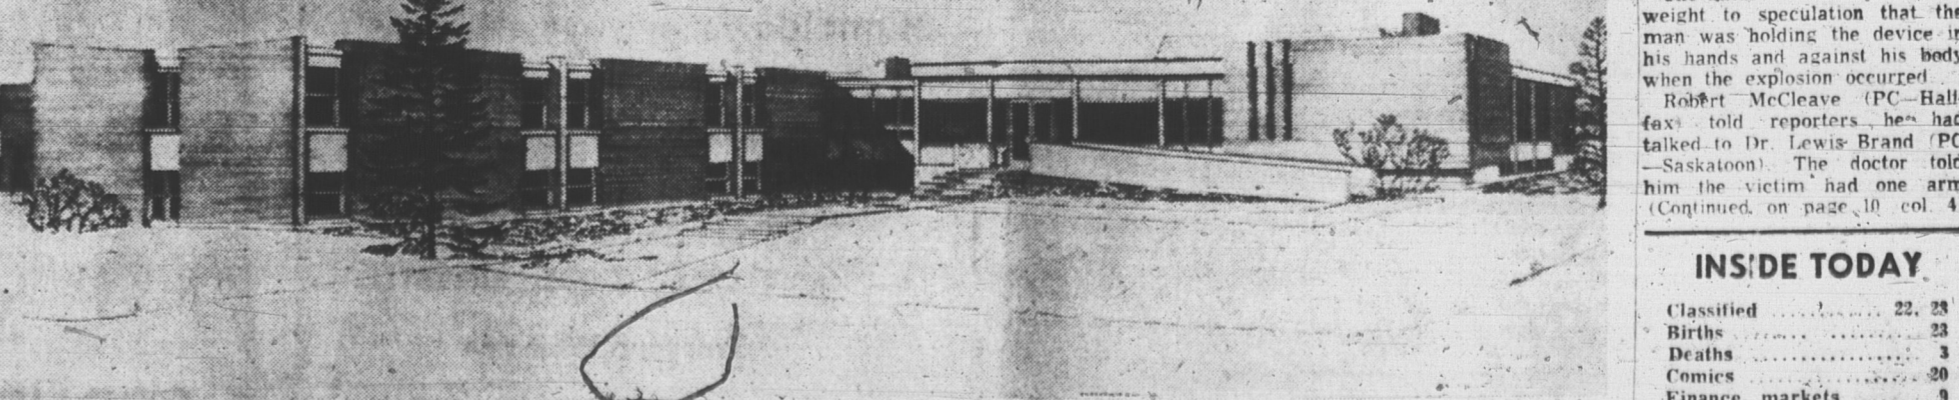

QUEBEC (CP)—Premier Jean Lesage announced Wednesday that Hydro-Quebec is to construct at Beauceville, Que., Canada's first light water atomic energy electricity generator at a cost of $100,000,000. The plant, the third nuclear generating station in Canada, will have a production capacity of 250 megawatts. Construction is to begin this fall. It will be completed within a year from its start.

Laughed At Reaction

Several members on the government side, including the prime minister, laughed at the dash being made by press gallery members in the direction of the blast. Mr. Diefenbaker finished his question and several more were asked before he rose again to say that the reason for the heavy buzz of conversation in the House was "the current report that someone has just away within the precincts of the House of Commons." He proposed an adjournment and Mr. Pearson suggested the House rise and return in an hour's time. "It appears that there was a bomb explosion in the washroom at this end of the third floor and that a man has been killed, under circumstances which are not yet quite clear," Mr. Pearson added. When the House resumed business a short exchange between Mr. Howard and Solicitor-General Pennell (Continued on page 10, col. 6)

SAYS BOMB-HOME-MADE

"He apparently blew himself up with a home-made bomb," Dr. Horner added. "The smoke smelled like that from an explosion of dynamite or black gunpowder," he added. "He's not a very pretty sight," said an RCMP constable emerging from the wrecked washroom. The nature of the injuries lent weight to speculation that the man was holding the device in his hands and against his body when the explosion occurred. Robert McCleave (PC—Halifax) told reporters he had talked to Dr. Lewis Brand (PC—Saskatoon). The doctor told him the victim had one arm (Continued on page 10, col. 4)

HOME FOR SPECIAL CARE TO BE BUILT IN MONTAGUE

Health Minister Henry Wedge said construction of the $450,000 complex will begin in July and occupancy is slated for early next spring. The building will have about 96 rooms. Included in the structure will be a chapel, library, kitchen and dining room facilities, library, recreation and crafts rooms, lounges, and all administration offices. The building is designed so that it can be expanded as future needs require. Mr. Wedge said Architect is G. Keith Pickard. A location has been acquired for the complex in what Mr. Wedge termed "a beautiful and natural spot for a project of this kind." An architect's sketch of the proposed complex is seen here.
