I Shall Find Rest.

A little further on.—
There will be time—I shall find rest anon:
Thus do we say while eager youth invites
Young hearts to try her wings in wanton flights,
And nimble fancy builds the soul a nest
On some fair crag; but soon youth's flame is gone—
Burned lightly out—while we repeat the jest
With smiling confidence,—I shall find rest
A little further on.

I shall find rest; half-fiercely we avow
When moon beats on the dusty field and care
Threats to unjoin our armor, and the glare
Of throbs with the pulse of battle, while life's best
Flies with the flitting stars: the frenzied brow
Pains for the laurel more than for the breast
Where Love soft-nesting waits. Not now, not now,
With feverish breath we cry, I shall find rest
A little further on.

A little further on
I shall find rest; half-sad, at last, we say,
When sorrow's settling cloud blurs out the gleam
Of glory's torch, and to a vanished dream
Love's palace hath been turned, then—all depressed,
Despairing, sick at heart—we may not stay
Our weary feet, so lonely 'then doth seem
This shadow-haunted world. We, so unblest,
Weep not to see the grave which waits its guest;
And feeling round our feet the cool, sweet clay,
We speak the fading world farewell and say:
Not on this side—alas!—I shall find rest
A little further on.

Bailiffs Badly Beaten.

FRUITLESS ATTEMPT AT EVICTION—LIVELY SCENE AT TIM O'LEARY'S COTTAGE.

A special despatch from Cork to the New York Herald gives full particulars of an eviction which failed on Tuesday on an estate in South Cork, belonging to Sir George St. John Colthurst. A tenant named Timothy O'Leary owed £700 arrears of rent and costs. The baronet's agent offered to accept £100 in full satisfaction, O'Leary to surrender possession. He refused and an eviction writ was issued. There was a crowd of three hundred persons, headed by the secretary of the local branch of the National League and a band. Sheriff and bailiffs were protected by twenty policemen in charge of the district inspector. When the party arrived at 7 o'clock in the morning they found the house barricaded and a number of men inside prepared to offer every resistance. Over the front door was suspended a hay rake, which by means of ropes attached, the defenders in the house were able to drop upon the heads of the bailiffs. Seeing the difficulty in forcing the door, some of the bailiffs got upon the roof, but no sooner had they made an opening than they were attacked by those within, who shot out long poles at them, and one of them narrowly escaped being hurled to the ground. After five hours work the bailiffs forced an entrance to the ground floor, but having got thus far they were assailed with stones and other missiles and assaulted with mops dipped in boiling tar. Matters became so serious that the police inspector ordered his men to load and fire. The latter part of the order, however, was not carried out. After seven hours of fruitless effort the eviction was abandoned. In the yard of the premises is an open well fifty feet deep. This was covered over with light laths and rushes, and had any of the sheriff's assistants fallen into the trap laid for them they would in all probability have been killed. The wero no arrests made and the national league present shouted triumphantly as the sheriff abandoned his efforts to enforce the degree of the court.

Correct English.

The New York Independent says:—A certain Mr. Rockefeller has undertaken to teach the children of Arizona to speak the English language correctly. The following simple, but often ignored, laws of speech are said to be written in great letters on the wall of the school room: "My scholars must not pronounce dreadful, 'dretful'; or catch, 'ketch'; or newspaper, 'noos-paper'; or society, 'sassyety'; or February, 'Febuary'; or Massachusetts, 'Masschusetts'; or eleven, 'leven'; or light, 'hithe'; or drowth, 'drowth'. They must not say 'fur' for 'for', or 'git red of' for 'get rid of'. They must not say 'anywheres' or 'nowheres', or 'anyways' or 'a long ways', or 'those sort of things' or 'those kind, for that sort and that kind'. They must not say 'he don't', for 'he doesn't', and they must never use the word 'aint'. They must soften the u in such words as duty and opportunity, and not pronounce them 'dooty' and 'oppoortunity'. They must not drop final s' or leave out of words their h's. They must not halt pronounce, must not say 'gray deal', for great deal. Every word demands the full, authorized, verbal mention of all its letters."—The New York Observer's remarks.

Chicago's Tribute

TO THE QUEEN'S WORTH GRACIOUSLY ACKNOWLEDGED BY HER MAJESTY.

Mr. Collier, of Chicago, was granted an audience by the Queen, at Osborne house, on the 22nd inst., when he presented to Her Majesty the address of the Chicago Sons of British Subjects and parentage, in honor of her jubilee. The Queen replying said: "I thank you and the people you represent for this address, and you personally for your own kind words. My answer to it you will find in this paper." The Queen then handed a document to Mr. Collier, which read as follows: "I thank you for the address you have presented to me. Coming, as it does, from persons of English birth beyond the sea who retain feelings of love for their mother country and sympathy for her welfare, I receive it with peculiar satisfaction. That the people should give expression to these kind sentiments, not only toward the Anglo-Saxon race in these realms, but also toward myself, is to me a source of much gratification and sustains me in the belief that the friendship and good will which now exists between the two countries, and which I have always endeavored to promote, are of a real and enduring character."

Bishop Perry's Election.

The New York Churchman of August 20th says: The announcement in another column that the rev. the Bishop of Iowa, Dr. Perry, has received a unanimous election to the Episcopate of the diocese of Nova Scotia, and the fact that his acceptance is held as a foregone conclusion, have occasioned not a little surprise. The procedure is not only without precedent, but the relation both of comity and ecclesiastical fellowship between the Anglican and American churches are in such a nebulous and unsatisfactory condition that canonical questions of a perplexing nature are certain to arise in such an unlooked for contingency. The nature and tenure of the band between a diocese and its Bishop, the conditions under which it may be severed, and the eligibility of an elective episcopate with right of legitimate transfer, are questions hitherto undetermined and even considered, so far as they have respect to foreign churches. In any event there must be an adjustment between Bishop Perry and the diocese of Iowa before the question of his removal to a foreign jurisdiction is in order.

The Loyalty of Mr. Davies.

L. H. Davies, M. P., has given Sir John Macdonald and his associates an exceedingly bad name. He says they are thieves, and incompetent men, and hoary old sinners. Mr. Davies says of himself that he is loyal to the country which will give him the best living. It was Canada which paid Mr. Davies $15,000 for some four months service as counsel in the fishery commission. Though Mr. Davies took no part in the argument, he received about $200 for every day the arbitrators were in session. Even though there are no more such jobs as this, Mr. Davies might allow his loyalty to extend a few years beyond the period in which so abundant a living was given him at the expense of the Canadian taxpayer. We do not say that Mr. Davies is a boodler, but his own arguments respecting other Canadian statesmen would make him the greatest boodler in Canada, for certainly no other public man has pocketed so much for doing so little.—St. John Sun.

The Salt Lake Daily Tribune says: "It seems ridiculous that the United States, last year, paid out more than $60,000,000 for foreign iron and steel. It certainly is all wrong that we should send away as much money for iron as all the gold and silver dug from our mines amount to. It is probably due to two causes. One is that more railroads were built than any one expected; the other is that through our neglect to keep our ship yards up to the times, there are several furnaces of iron and steel castings which we have no facilities for making on this side of the big ferry. But there should not be a moment's delay in making the changes necessary to be independent. Suppose the fisheries trouble should lead up to a collision with Great Britain, would we not present an interesting spectacle to the world? No ships, no forts, no guns, no foundries—just a great carload of agricultural people who have trusted to luck until we are helpless so far as modern military appliances are concerned.

ADVICE TO MOTHERS.—Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup should always be used when children are cutting teeth. It relieves the little sufferer at once; it produces natural quiet sleep by relieving the child from pain; and the little cherub awakes as "bright as a button." It is very pleasant to taste. It soothes the child, softens the gums, allays all pain, regulates the bowels, and is the best known remedy for diarrhea, whether arising from teething or other causes. Twenty-five cents a bottle. Be sure and ask for Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup, and take no other.
