

MR. AND MRS. CARL LEO GILLIS

Saint James Church Has Another Pretty Wedding

A pretty wedding was solemnized in St. James Church, Summerfield, recently when Susan Margaret, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John A. Matheson, Breadalbane, became the bride of Carl Leo Gillis, son of Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Gillis, Kensington. Rev. Eugene Murray performed the ceremony.

The church was attractively decorated for the occasion with multi-colored autumn flowers. Mrs. Edgar Hickey was in charge of the wedding music and sang appropriate hymns during the nuptial mass and the signing of the register.

The bride given in marriage by her father, was lovely in her floor length wedding gown of white brocaded lace over taffeta. Her three-quarter length veil of rayon net was held in place with a matching halo. She carried a lace covered missal topped with a corsage of red sweetheart roses and streamers.

Miss Arlita Gillis, sister of the groom, as maid of honor, wore a ballerina length gown of pink net over taffeta with matching headress, sequin trimmed, and mitts. She carried a fan shaped bouquet of autumn flowers.

The Misses Marion and Annie Matheson, sisters of the bride, as bridesmaids, were gowned in ballerina length net over taffeta in yellow and blue, respectively, with matching headresses, sequin trimmed, and mitts. They carried fans covered with autumn flowers.

Mr. John F. Gillis was his brother's groomsman and Messrs. Eugene Gillis, brother of the groom, and Elmer Matheson, brother of the bride, ushered the guests to their pews.

Mrs. Matheson chose for her daughter's wedding a suit of navy with a corsage of white sweetheart roses. The groom's mother was attired in a light blue suit with a corsage of white sweetheart roses.

Following the ceremony a reception for fifty guests was held at the home of the groom's parents, where the bride's table with its attractive arrangement of autumn flowers, was centered with a three tiered wedding cake, topped with miniature bride and groom.

For a honeymoon trip to Niagara Falls, Ottawa, the Maritime Provinces and the Eastern states the bride travelled in a powder blue suit with matching hat and white accessories. Her corsage was of red sweetheart roses.

Mr. and Mrs. Gillis will reside in Norboro, where the groom is engaged in farming.

Among the out-of-town guests were Mr. and Mrs. Billy Fitzsimmons and little daughter, also Miss Edith Fitzsimmons of Halifax, N.S.—Photo by Heckbert Studio.

HAPPENINGS

Miss Margaret Webster, B.A., Principal of the Presbyterian Missionary and Daughters Training School, Toronto, has been in the province. Miss Webster was here in the first stage of a campaign to raise $400,000 for the erection of the new school. Her speaking engagement in Charlottetown was on Wednesday, November 12th. Her speaking itinerary took her to 11 Quebec and Maritime cities during 12 days.

In addition to teaching and administrative duties, Miss Webster is a member of the National Campaign Committee appointed by the board of the school from members in all organizations of the church across Canada. She will be speaking to Presbyteries, women's groups, local campaign committees, and conferring with church officials in many points.

While in Eastern Canada, Miss Webster met up with many old friends. Her father, Rev. G. Carlyle Webster, was minister of Zion Presbyterian Church in Charlottetown for many years, a later she travelled the Maritimes extensively as Girls' Work secretary for the Presbyterian Church.

Mrs. Webster arrived in P. E.I. on November third. She was a guest of Mr. and Mrs. R. C. Parent, and Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Roper. She also stayed at the Charlottetown Hotel. After speaking in Charlottetown Miss Webster went on to Summerside. On Friday Mrs. Webster and Miss Webster left upon return again for Toronto.

Mrs. Dora M. Campbell has been visiting her sister Mrs. Frank Chauvin and Mr. Chauvin in Montreal. Mrs. Chauvin and Mrs. Campbell went on to New York City. There they were met by Mrs. Campbell's daughter, Mrs. Parker Henderson (Mrs. Ry) of Baltimore, Maryland. Mrs. Campbell returned recently after her delightful trip.

Dr. Cantelo, author and scientist, and son of Mr. and Mrs. William W. Cantelo of West Somerville, Mass., was visiting his parents for a few days recently. He had been flown to Washington, D.C. for a five day conference and managed to get home for four days. He then was en route to Guam via Hawaii where he had a two day business stop over.

Dr. Cantelo was married this summer. His parents, were originally from Prince Edward Island.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Derrill White, Hunter's River, who are now residing in Charlottetown, were entertained at a dinner held in their honor by Mrs. Blois Dickleson, Hunter's River on the occasion of their 40th Wedding Anniversary, November 8th.

ELIEN'S DIARY

Pork Roast Is Bought Changing Times Indeed

November showers and mists. Into the morning they came to put an end to today's fieldwork. We experienced the damp intimately a while ago when "showered" we came with James to the stables on invitation, to see some of the young'uns of pasture that had been brought in this evening to overnight-stabling.

The stables are cozy shelters tonight even though a mildness prevails without. Stalls are comfortably bedded, and it came to mind that above the heavy beams there is fodder in plenty, should the need arise shortly to give them continued stabling there. We saw damp-coated yearlings, and those a bit older, and the calves, that like all young things have a peculiar charm of their own. Winsome little maids of heifers, sturdy lads of calves—mon Jenkins of Bath, Ontario. They also attended the wedding of their grandson Athol in Toronto. From there they visited Kingston, Niagara Falls and returned home by Boston. While there they visited Mr. Jenkin's relatives in Kingston, Galt, Guelph, Niagara Falls and Boston.

Miss Marjorie Windeler, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. S. Windeler is expected in the province this weekend. Miss Windeler has been in Europe since the beginning of July.

those claiming names in their own rights, and as well, the interesting crosses of the breeds beef-ward.

Beyond the lights the night was dark, the branches of the yard-trees stark against the dimness. And we thought of the swallows and the summer songsters—and Papa and Mamma Starling gone away into the niceties of summer across the long miles.

We remembered too young Novemberers at Alderlea, when with the children abed (and ever an eye kept to their welfare!) we came sometimes to hold light for James about his last round of stables on just such a night as is this one. Then the cattle, though an integral part of it, were the lesser animals of the farming. The horses held first place in the farm-scenes of those years.

"They've done 'fair-good'". James offered inspecting the younglings of cattle. "Now this one—there wasn't much size to him when he went out to the grass last spring. Remember?"

At a thought he reached into a pocket. "I'll just 'top him' he nodded. "To see how much he has gained. Now" he nodded happily a minute later "not bad, not bad at all—should be quite an animal by spring."

There may be, to some folks, there invariably has to be, more attractive occupations, but certainly none more rewarding than is his to the farmer when he tests his stewardship in some way and proves that it is good.

"Now where was the sun all day?" Mack queried this evening looking up from some pasture in the yard when briefly the sunset colors flamed, dissolving the gray of the west.

"It was veiled by the clouds" we said.

"Looks promising for tomorrow" James offered in passing. "It just may settle away before the morning. Let's hope so... so the lads will get to the plowing."

And "Here, Ellen" he says, coming in now from an excursion abroad for "wittles", "is a little roast of pork. 'My', he sighs, "times have changed on this farm when we buy it in a parcel like that!"

Until tomorrow—Diary — — — Good-night.
