

WE AND OUR NEIGHBORS

JUNE BRIDES AND GRADUATIONS

June brides are already returning from brief wedding trips to their jobs in offices, laboratories, hospitals etc. I met a charming bride of exactly two weeks who actually felt she must apologize for taking a whole month's vacation "You know," she said, "we had a big wedding and I'm kind of tired, and there's still a lot to do before our apartment's ready so I'm not going back to work before some time in July."

WORKING WIVES

Of all the changes on the Island one of the most abrupt has been the switch from the husband-supported household to the husband-wife earning partners. Not more than ten years ago work outside the home for the married women, considered a reflection on her husband, I remember a friend who explained to me at some length that she was working only temporarily—that there had been illness in the family, the bills had mounted up etc.

How has this arrangement worked out? As far as husbands are concerned, it was feared that they would resent being moved from their place as sole providers in the home. It would surely prove harmful, it was thought, to upset the traditional role of husband and wife—he, who brought the bread into the home, so to speak, she, who remained in the home and prepared the bread and cared for the household. To challenge man's position as head of the household, it was feared, would breed jealousies, would undermine the good relationship of husband and wife.

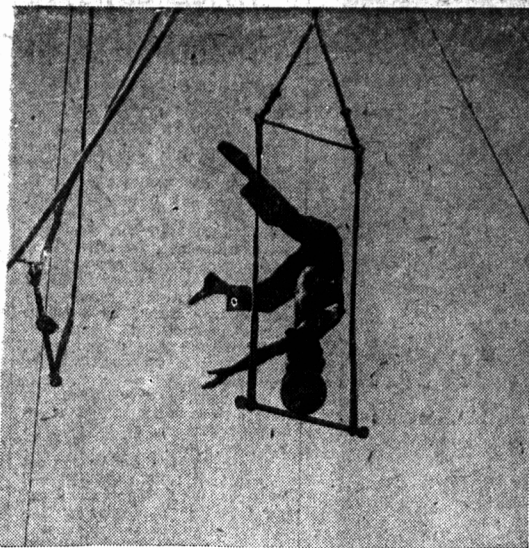

Through common observation of our friends and neighbors (though no one can know the real truth except the couples involved) there seems to be as good an understanding between husbands and wives where both work as where the husband alone supports the household. In many cases the wife's earnings make all the difference between constant worry and a tiny margin of economic security—and that certainly must add to mutual content. Nor is a woman's job often listed by divorce authorities, as a major cause of the trouble. The effect on children, however, of a mother who is away from home most of the day, is another question. We have all seen fine families rales by working mothers and we know of cases where it would be much better to have the mother at home. Much depends on the provisions made for the child's care during the mother's absence. Sometimes a relative or even a kind woman who is paid, can give the child more emotional security than a harassed and irritable mother. In any event June brides and June Grooms in growing numbers are planning their lives on the basis of joint pay envelopes (for a longer or shorter period) and communities are taking that important fact into account (nurseries, play schools etc.)

GRADUATIONS

June is the month of graduations as well as weddings so there is no need to page Freud for a dream I had the other night. It wasn't a good dream I dreamed I was the guest speaker at a College Commencement and when I got upon the platform I couldn't say a word. My carefully prepared speech simply didn't ring true I had written the usual phrases—congratulations to parents and teachers on preparing these fine young people to go out into the world to make it a better and happier place for all. A ringing challenge to the young men and women themselves—Her is your opportunity—here is your chance to pay your debt to parents, teachers and community, etc., etc. But I tore up the notes—flow wisely had we prepared them for a strange new world—for an unpredictable world—how much were they really indebted to us—?

W.I. District Convention Held At Mount Herbert

The Annual District-Convention of W.I. for the surrounding districts was held on June 24th, at the Mt. Herbert Orphanage, where the members from eight sister W.I. are so kindly and graciously welcomed each succeeding year.

They were entertained by the Pownal W.I. under the very capable leadership of Mrs. Edison Smith, President, and Mrs. Harold Smith, Secretary. Mrs. Harold Carver acted as Pianist, opening with our familiar Ode, and collect repeated in unison.

Mrs. Ray Herman very graciously welcomed the Institute members, eight districts responding to roll call with an attendance of 61. After the reading of the previous year's minutes, and adoption of a condensed report of all participating Institutes was capably given by Mrs. Hope Mutch, followed by nominating report by Mrs. Harold Smith.

Mrs. Winston Wood gave an interesting and well prepared paper on Education. This was followed by introduction of next year's president and secretary. Mrs. Harold Beaton and Mrs. George MacGowan were very fortunate in having with us our Provincial President, Mrs. Murdoch MacGowan, who brought greetings and
