-PICKUP ON SOUTH STREET - CAPITOL THEATRE, SUMMERSIDE

The powerful assault and battery that builds the action of Twentieth Century-Fox's "Pickup on South Street" starring Richard Widmark, Jean Peters and Thelma Ritter, sent the unusual spy drama off to a jolly start at the Capitol Theatre.

The film has no holds barred when it comes to developing its story about small-time pickpockets, stoolies and their girls involved on the side of the F.B.I. to uncover a Communist spy ring, and the refreshing directness of its delivery plus the obvious gusto of its performers has created a type of entertainment too long absent from the screen.

For the reviewer the Jules Schermer-Samuel Fuller melodrama ranks tops for this year's offerings in realism, action and unusual story line, having the honesty and simplicity that made another spy story, "House on 92nd Street," great.

Expect Homes To Be Erected Of Straw Bales

SWIFT CURRENT, Sask., (CP) - Farmers in southwestern Saskatchewan are finding new uses for baled straw or hay. They make strong buildings at fractional cost.

Within the next year, homes are expected to be erected of straw bales. Walls will be stuccoed on the outside, plastered on the inside. Cost is nominal and so far tests have proved construction to be excellent.

Preliminary tests are being made at the Dominion Experimental station here. Greville B. Harrison, construction superintendent, has blocks of baled hay and straw coated with stucco and plaster placed outside unprotected from the weather. They will remain there until spring when results will be announced.

The most popular building built to date is a cable shed. A roof suspended by cables which eliminate centre pillars is suspended over baled straw walls. The job was finished quickly. Ranchers said it is warm, one of the best cable sheds they have seen.

Another form of farm building being developed is a modern root cellar made of concrete. Construction entails use of a form which can be used repeatedly. Buried underground, only the ventilators and the front entrance will be visible when the cellar is completed next summer.

THE CANADIAN NORTH Residents of the Canadian North West Territories, whose government has been described as a "kindergarten democracy" because it runs mainly on orders from Ottawa, moved a step closer to home rule lately. Meeting in Ottawa under its new commissioner, R. Gordon Robertson, the North West Territories Council passed ordinances establishing greater local control in three fields of government—education, liquor control and allocation of taxes for local improvements.

Robertson automatically became commissioner of the North West Territories and head of the eight-member legislative council—made up of three elected members and five government appointees, meeting once a year in the Northwest—in November, when he was appointed deputy minister of resources and development.

Mr. Robertson who is a Rhodes scholar entered government service in 1941 as third secretary of External Affairs. Last November he was promoted from the Cabinet secretariat to become, at 36, the youngest deputy to a Cabinet minister. With their strategic location and vast mineral wealth, Robertson feels confident that the Territories can look forward to continued economic, political and social growth.

PARADE BAN LIFTED TRIESTE, (AP)—Gen. Sir John Winterston, commander of Allied troops in zone A of the Trieste free territory, lifted a ban on public meetings and parades Saturday. It had been in effect since Oct. 8, when Britain and the United States announced they would withdraw their troops from the zone and return it to Italian administration. The announcement led to riots.

SUMMERSIDE LADIES CLUB - Mrs. R. W. Wood was appointed president of the Ladies Club of the St. James' Episcopal Church at the annual meeting on Tuesday evening at the home of Mrs. Frank MacNeill. Other officers are: 1st vice-president, Mrs. Lloyd Gorrill; 2nd vice-president, Mrs. Ernest L. Walker; secretary, Miss Jean MacFadyen; treasurer, Miss Clara Mountain.

The retiring president, Mrs. J. W. MacKenzie, opened the meeting with the repeating of the Lord's Prayer in unison.

The secretary's report outlined the year's activities and the treasurer submitted a most gratifying financial statement, after which Mrs. MacKenzie expressed sincere thanks for the members' cooperation during her term of office.

Committee appointed: purchasing and League of Mercy, Mrs. Frank MacNeill and Mrs. Fred Bingham; fruit and flower, Mrs. Judson MacKinnon; meeting place, Mrs. Alfred Simpson; lunch, Mrs. Cleve Whalen; Red Cross, Mrs. Hilbert Johnston.

Delicious refreshments were served by Mrs. MacKenzie and Mrs. MacKinnon.

Attack This Point Milliken, Reed and Simpson jumped on this recommendation. So did McDonald, Senator Bourke Hickenlooper (Rep.-Iowa), and Senator Walter George (Dem.-Ga.).

On some points, except where the general disagreements of Reed and Simpson might apply, nobody did any fault-finding. That was the case, for example, with the idea of promoting more foreign travel by Americans. This was coupled with a recommendation for letting each tourist bring in $1,000 worth of overseas purchases duty free. The limit now is $500.

The commission said it was primarily concerned with steps the U.S. can take towards solving the world's dollar problem. This is a two-way affair. Foreign countries need dollars to buy U.S. goods, and they need to sell exports here in order to earn dollars.

Implicit in all its recommendations, the commission said, is the necessity for like action by other nations, as "the United States cannot do this job alone."

Credit Union Film Made In Hollywood To Be Shown In S'side

"King's X", a half-hour dynamic credit union story filmed in Hollywood, will have its first public presentation on Prince Edward Island at the Capitol Theatre in Summerside, as part of the regular program on Monday and Tuesday evening.

In an interesting and unusual way, "King's X" shows how credit unions are serving the people of Canada. It is a portrayal of the services offered by the credit unions to their members.

The term "King's X" came into use in early English history when men were thrown into prison for debt. The king's soldiers marched through the streets, forced entry into the homes of debtors and often dragged the householder off to a debtors' prison. However, if representatives of the king had placed an "X" on the door of the house, accompanied by the king's coat of arms, that home was immune. None dared enter. Thus a debtor might be protected by the king's "X".

In the film the credit union is likened to the "King's X" of modern people, protecting against persecution because of indebtedness. Part of the story so capably told in the film "King's X" concerns a young couple who become financially involved and are expected by the credit union. It effectively demonstrates the operation and function of a credit union, and tells how the Credit Union National Association's (CUNA) services to its members are comparable to this "X" protecting them from the hazards of debt and financial failure.

The members are encouraged to save against the time when it may be necessary to borrow for some unexpected emergency. This Hollywood production traces the history and modern use of credit unions. "King's X" makes the point that the ordinary worker can help himself by carefully analyzing his financial problems and consulting with his credit union for help.

This exceptional picture which cost nearly $100,000 to produce, was written to give all credit union members a better understanding of the credit union movement, and to show non-members the opportunities available to them through credit union participation.

In Prince Edward Island, there are at present 57 credit unions with a combined membership of approximately 10,000 members, and assets of more than $1 million.

Since the inception of the credit union movement in Prince Edward Island in 1936, about $5 1/2 million has been loaned by credit unions to their members in this Province.

The credit union movement which originated in Germany in 1848, began to develop on the North American continent in Canada before the turn of the century, and spread into the United States in 1909. Its rate of growth is now in excess of 2,000 new unions each year. In the United States, Canada, and the Caribbean area there are now more than 15,000 credit unions with a membership of approximately 9 million members with total assets of $2 1/4 billion—$.

restrictive devices such as inflexible price-support programs which result in fixed prices, open or concealed export subsidies, import quotas, home and abroad, excessive use of tariffs here and abroad, exchange restrictions, and state trading.

Abandon Rapidly It said such devices should be abandoned "as rapidly as feasible" if foreign economic policy is to contribute to improving foreign markets for American farmers.

Milliken, George and Reed filed dissents on the farm section.

The commission put up an almost solid front against one proposal offered for its consideration. It was a suggestion by David J. McDonald, president of the CIO United Steelworkers and the only labor spokesman on the commission, for government help for industries and workers injured by tariff cuts. The commission lined up 16 to 1 against McDonald on that.

While the commission endorsed efforts to shut off shipments of military and strategic goods to Communist China, North Korea and Soviet-bloc nations in Europe, it said western Europe might get a net advantage out of more trade in peaceful items with the Iron Curtain countries.

So far as it can be done "without jeopardizing military security," and subject to U.S. embargo on trade with Red China and North Korea, the report said, the United States should acquiesce in more traffic in items that "do not strengthen the forces of military aggression."

Attack This Point Milliken, Reed and Simpson jumped on this recommendation. So did McDonald, Senator Bourke Hickenlooper (Rep.-Iowa), and Senator Walter George (Dem.-Ga.).

On some points, except where the general disagreements of Reed and Simpson might apply, nobody did any fault-finding.
