How They Enjoy It!

JOHNSTON'S FLUID BEEF

CONTAINS ALL THE ELEMENTS THAT ARE NEEDED TO FORM "Flesh," "Muscle" and "Bone."

OUR $2.75 WATCH, made by the Waterbury Watch Company, will not last as long as the more expensive Watch, but is just the thing for a boy attending school or for boating or fishing parties, saving the risk and yet doing the work of the better Watches.

OUR $4.50 WATCH, made by the same Company, only better quality, is short wind and jeweled.

OUR $7, $10, $15 AND $20 WATCHES are correspondingly better goods. You will be satisfied in trading with us than by sending to irresponsible parties at a distance, and who, if a mainspring breaks or anything goes wrong, are too far away to send to. We are here to guarantee and stand by every Watch we sell.

W. T. A. LO, CAMERON BLOCK, Charlottetown, Feb. 23, 1891.

THE candidates addressed the electors of Bonshaw and Emysvale Polling Divisions in the Court House at Bonshaw, on Monday evening last. The electors of both parties were numerously represented.

Mr. Ferguson spoke first, and reviewed the National Policy and the good it has produced in the past and is likely to do in the future; also the injury that would be done by Unrestricted Reciprocity if it should ever become more than it is at present, namely, a scheme devised by the ambitious Yankee-Canadian Woman, and adopted as a last resort of the party which started as Reformers and are ending as Annexationists.

Mr. Davies then went over a good deal of the same ground from a different point of view, and seemed to think the farmer of Canada, who cannot put up with the small amount of protection afforded to the Canadian manufacturers by the National Policy, would grow rich if they would put themselves under the high protection tariff of the United States. He said that the two greatest railway companies in Canada—the Grand Trunk and the Canadian Pacific—two great monopolist bodies (though, of course, he did not now call them so), were in favor of Unrestricted Reciprocity.

Mr. Blake said that he believed in Reciprocity, but not the unrestricted article. He would like to sell our horses, eggs, etc., to the Yankees, but did not think it would pay in the long run to grow and ship potatoes in large quantities to the United States. He would be willing to throw in the fisheries as an inducement to the Yankees to trade with us, but would not agree to discriminate against Great Britain, and thought it was an insult to be asked to do so.

Mr. Welsh said anyone was a barbarian who did not believe that trade should be as free as the air we breathe. Our brothers in the United States did not take that to view altogether yet, but they would do so in time. He had heard some converts singing "Rule Britannia," and he never liked it since, but was truly loyal, nevertheless. He (Welsh) designed the steamer Stoney, got the $20,000 extra subsidy for the island, also several other things. He did not believe in being too submissive when you wanted to get anything out of the Dominion Government, but thought the best way was to give them a good blowing up and then shake hands and vote against them all the time.

All the candidates are now in favor of the tunnel, though some of them are rather late converts. Mr. Laurier, too, is said to have gone as far as to say that "he is in favor of it if it is practicable." The cost does not appear to trouble him, as he does not expect to be in a position to be called on to provide the necessary funds.

Notes and Comments.
—Mercier knows that in Sir John Macdonald he will never find a confederate for the robbery of the people of Ontario and the other provinces of Canada. Laurier has publicly attested his partnership to the the rapacity of the hungry Quebec Premier.

—Referring to the Cartwright-Farrer conspiracy, a contemporary says: "The duty of loyal liberals is plain. They must unite with Conservatives in denouncing and repudiating a course of conduct that must bring indelible disgrace upon all those concerned in it."
—The Montreal Star's correspondent at Washington certifies that Mr. Blaine "is taking a very active interest in the campaign in the Dominion. A pet phrase of his in talking about Sir John is to term him 'an old wriggler.' Alas for Sir John, he wriggles! He refuses to lie still and be skinned. Mr. Blaine would prefer a more submissive eel, and he expresses his opinion of Sir John in anything but complimentary terms." "Was ever thus with the man who can't get a good grip of the eel. Shall we send Mr. Blaine one that he sanded some time ago and knows exactly how to take hold of?"

—The grit meeting held on Saturday evening at Charlottetown, Ontario, passed the following: "Resolved, that we, the electors of Rayside and Bonshaw, in mass meeting assembled, do take advantage of this opportunity to express our unbounded confidence in the Right Hon. Sir John Macdonald, who has so long, so faithfully and so ably directed the government of this Dominion, and in the members of his Cabinet, and desire further to express our entire approval of his policy for the future as outlined in his manifesto to the electors of Canada." This is a sample of how Sir John's stand has aroused people hitherto opposed in L. Ke Superior district.

Another Successful Islander

Dr. John J. McPhee, who occupies the position of instructor of pathology, microscopy and practical chemistry in the Post Graduate College, New York City, is another of our young men who, in a short time, has obtained prominence in his profession. Dr. McPhee is a native of Bear River, in this province, and formerly taught school in his native place. He began the study of medicine four years ago, and last July was graduated from the University of Vermont at the head of his class, thereby winning the fifty dollar prize. On four subjects of his examination he made 100 per cent, and on the total number on which he was examined he aggregated 685 per cent, out of a possible 700 per cent. THE EXAMINER, always glad to record the success of an Islander, congratulates Dr. McPhee on his past achievements and wishes him continued success.

To Sir John A. Macdonald.

We hail thee first among many great
Whose name's a crown our history's page,
Illustrious in thy favored fate—
Thy wisdom-guided vigorous age.
A house old word in million homes,
Thy name to noblest deeds inspires
Old age and manhood, and the youths
Fresh thoughts with emulation fires.
Not mine the thought—far less the wish—
Our greatest name was less than great;
Not venom'd pen, nor blasting speech
Can alter the decrees of fate.
Rich art thou in the wealth of trust,
Thy fellowmen in these repose,
And after years and after men,
Will answer well for thee and those.
A nation in thy thought was born,
Its first faint blippings in thine ear:—
That weakling, now a giant grown,
And stronger growing year by year:
First taught by thee itself to know;
To prize and use its latent store
Of strength and wealth, that strongly flows
In swelling flood from shore to shore:
Now feels within, the glowing heat—
The pulse beat of a vigorous life;
Self-consciousness of growing power
And confidence in peaceful strife.
No more, dissatisfied at home,
Looks longingly across the line;
But, upwards, to the vaulted dome
Of heaven, (as some great pine,
In deep-set for its high uprears
His head, dwarfing his fellows all,)
Heads duty join affection's call;
And sees, with truer sense of sight,
That great things, greater of obscure
That, better than be sometimes right,
Is, to be all times right, secure.

A Strong Protest.

The Unrestricted Reciprocity Policy Condemned.

The Views of the Leading Business Men of Montreal on the Issue Before the Country.

At a large and influential meeting of the business men of Montreal held a few days since, the Hon. Mr. Drummond in the chair, the following resolution was moved by F. Gault, Esq., seconded by H. M. Allen, Esq., and passed unanimously:

"Earnestly desiring a fair and wide measure of reciprocal trade with the United States, as proposed by the Government of Sir John A. Macdonald, we shall at all times give our support to such a policy; but as regards 'Unrestricted Reciprocity' offered to our neighbors by the Hon. Wilfred Laurier and Sir Richard Cartwright, and endorsed by the Liberal party, we believe that it would entail consequences disastrous to every interest in the Dominion. If there be any truth in the contention of the Liberal party, it will increase the cost of living in this country by bringing into force a monopoly by doubling the average customs duty on all imports. It will certainly destroy the vast majority of our industries by competition under changed conditions, with wealthy, organized, and unscrupulous opponents. Above all, it must bring about our severance from the Empire.

Therefore, we resolve to give a united, strenuous, and energetic opposition to the proposal of the Liberal party, and to every candidate for election who does not expressly disclaim it."

Horses That Think.

The American Agriculturist has the following: "Charlie, my carriage horse, does not show much fear of the cars, and we do not hesitate to take him to the station and hitch and leave him there. Yet he always exhibits some apprehension when near a railroad. As he approaches he raises his head, throws his ears front and quickens his pace, but never shies, and never hesitates to get up close. When leaving he does not brook delay or stops, but wants to be off in a hurry. This is his uniform conduct when near a railroad or railway station. But the other evening, as I was returning from a few miles' drive, I had to cross a railroad, when near train time. We were coming along at Charlie's usual gait, a smart trot. When within five or six hundred feet of the crossing Charlie quickened his pace considerably, raised his head and showed evident signs of interest, if not excitement. He kept this up until he came close to the track, when he slackened his gait, deliberately looked both up and down the road, walked over, and as soon as he was fairly over struck a live locomotive, as when he was approaching it. What driver could have been more careful?"

"One of the most striking as well as pathetic incidents of intelligence I ever knew was the following, which occurred a great many years ago in Armstrong County, Pennsylvania: A Mr. Heckman came to Kittanning on horseback. After the transaction of his business he started home about the middle of the afternoon. He had twelve miles to go, and it was summer. While in his way a violent thunderstorm came up; he was passing through a piece of timber when the rain fell. A branch of a tree fell directly upon him and the horse. Mr. Heckman was badly hurt, knocked from his saddle and left under the branch. The horse was scared and ran away. It was then nearly night, the road was not much traveled, and it seemed as if he would be left to perish within a mile or two of his own home. But in a few minutes the horse came back. Mr. Heckman called to him and the faithful animal came and stood close to his master, who was barely able to raise himself into the saddle, and he thus bore home. He died from his injuries three weeks later, but in his bed and surrounded by the members of his family, whom he would never have seen alive had it not been for the intelligence and fidelity of his noble horse."
