

Spring Work Well Under Way At Farm

Spring work is nicely under way at the Experimental Farm, and much of the land has been sown, the whole farm area showing activity in keeping with the early season. The young cattle and sheep are out to pasture but will have access to the loose pen barn. They all show unusual vigor.

Mr. W. N. Black, Supervisor of Investigation Stations, is now in the Magdalen Islands on his first trip of the season to the two Investigation Stations established on the Islands. The investigation of the jurisdiction of the Experimental Farm and Mr. Black is presently engaged in laying out a number of pasture experiments and also several full crop tests for the coming season.
