

Sunshine Dairy Takes Lead With 6-2 Win Over Flyers

With Art Ballem pitching 7-hit ball the Sunshine Dairy thumped the Salisbury Flyers 6-2 last evening at Memorial Field to take a one game lead in the best-of-three series for the N.B.P.E.I. softball title.

The Dairy sent across three runs in the second inning as George Bradley led off with a ringing single and Len Arsenault took first on a free pass. The next two batters went down without advancing the runners but Pete MacIntyre slashed a double in left scoring two runners and MacIntyre came home himself moments later on Apps Arsenault's line single.

The Salisbury boys bounced right back in the third on back up their two runs on four consecutive singles but the Dairy cut the rally short with a smart double play that went from short to second to home to nail Jones at the plate.

After that brief flurry Art Ballem took the Flyers in hand and set them down on two hits the rest of the way.

It was a tight, exciting game from that point on until the Dairy staged another three-run uprising in the eighth. The Dairy got only 3 hits but were helped more than somewhat by the erratic throwing of the Flyers right and left fielders and a 3-base error.

Pete MacIntyre, improving with the passing years, belted out a pair of doubles for the Dairy and drove home the same number of runs. George Bradley cracked out three singles and Apps Arsenault and Henry Hartinger had a pair of bingles. Angie Carroll slammed out the other Dairy hit in the eighth and came all the way around on it as the rightfielder let it get to Bill Taylor on the hill for the through his legs.

Flyers was tagged for a total of ten blows and allowed 5 walks while Ballem issued only one free ticket.

Wallace Leaman hit two singles to lead the Flyers attack.

Following the game the presentation of trophies to the Dairy team members took place at home plate.

Canadian Sportmen Deny Professionalism Harmful

By THE CANADIAN PRESS
A statement from a British Columbia magistrate that professionalism ruins every sport it touches has brought outraged denials from men of Canadian sport.

Roderick Haig-Brown, outdoors author, fisherman and farmer of Campbell River, Vancouver Island said in an address Wednesday to the Barks and Recreation Association of Canada:

"Professionalism has ruined every sport it touches because it spoils the game through the tendency of promoters to apply professional standards to sports, particularly children, who are not capable of reaching these standards."

He said professional sports are not a good example for the younger generation "since the professional thinks these sports are a thing of blood and guts."

He said professional sports are not a good example for the younger generation "since the professional thinks these sports are a thing of blood and guts."

He said professional sports are not a good example for the younger generation "since the professional thinks these sports are a thing of blood and guts."

Dr. Maury van Vliet, head of the University of Alberta's physical education department said: "Unfortunately, Mr. Haig-Brown is about 80 per cent right—so right it hurts."

"The facilities, equipment, support and instruction give publicity to professional sport out of all proportion to the number participating."

THE CRITICS REPLY
Here's what Haig-Brown's critics said:

Frank Shaughnessy, president of the International Baseball League: "He sounds like a Communist to me. Competition is the greatest thing we know in this country. The amateur sports people are just as competitive as the professionals, even more so. Competition is the way of life for Canadians and Americans. If you eliminate competition, you're getting towards communism where the state runs everything and there is no competition. I think this guy's all wrong."

Frank Selke, general manager of Montreal Canadiens of the National Hockey League: "His charge is one of the most stupid assertions the amateur people have come up with in a while. Sport is better today because of professionalism which gives the youngsters something to strive for, a chance to improve their game as well as themselves."

Leigh Miller, coach of Canada's 1954 British Empire Games team: "That idea is old fashioned. What we might do here in Canada is to get more people competing instead of watching."

MONCTON COACH OBJECTS
Douglas McNeil, playing coach of Moncton Hawks, 1955 Allan Cup semi-finalists: "I can't agree with him on that. Why, most of the kids' idols today are professional athletes. They encourage the kids and give them something to be interested in."

Conn Smythe, president of Maple Leaf Gardens: "Who is this guy? I never heard of him. The personal success of the men who play professional hockey shows what it's done for them. Look at the standing in the community of men like the Conachers, Red Horner, Hap Day, Ted Kennedy. Every one of them is a leader."

Charles Barbour, director of education for the Winnipeg boards of parks and recreation: "If his statement was true, why would the amateur sport continue to flourish? We've got more kids playing today than we ever had. It's an incentive to turn pro—whether it's in sports or business."

Cards Send Brooks To Fifth Straight Defeat

ST. LOUIS (AP)—Alex Grammas knocked in the deciding run with the bases loaded in the 12th to give St. Louis Cardinals a 3-2 verdict Thursday and send Brooklyn Dodgers to their fifth straight defeat.

Stan Musial, rapping a double and a homer, extended to 11 his National League record of seasons with 300 or more total bases.

Musial's homer and Rip Repulski's circuit drive, which immediately followed in the third inning, enabled the National League to tie its highest major league total of 1.197 home runs, set in 1953.

Grammas' hot single, skipping over the head of little Don Zimmer, drove in Repulski with two out in the third overtime frame, giving the Redbirds a sweep of the three-game series.

The decisive blow came off the Dodgers' sixth pitcher, Ed Roebuck, but the loser was rookie southpaw Chuck Templeton, who faced only one batter, walking Musial to begin the 12th.

The Dodgers collected only eight blows off righthanders Ben

Stengel, Cheery; Lopez Worried; Marion Defiant

By JOE REICHLER
NEW YORK (AP)—Casey Stengel, A. Lopez and Marty Marion, respective managers of the teams still embroiled in the three-way struggle for the American League pennant, faced the final 10 days of the season Thursday in varying moods.

Stengel was cheerful and chipper. Lopez felt "a little bit" worried. Marion hopped "and defiant."

"I see where we're still very much in the picture," chortled Stengel, whose Yankees closed to within one game of the Indians Wednesday following Cleveland's 2-2 loss to its jinx jam in Washington. "I've been reading for the past two weeks where those two other fellows (Lopez and Marion) have been predicting the 'X' for me. I'm surprised to see that neither team has won it yet."

"Well," he added with a wink and a grin, "if they don't want it, maybe we'll take it."

TOUGHER JOB NOW
Lopez, in a much more serious mood, acknowledged that Wednesday night's loss makes the job much tougher but took comfort in the fact that Yankees must play

Toronto Player Rejects Offer

TORONTO (CP)—Quarterback Tom Dublinski, who jumps his contract with Detroit Lions to play for Toronto Argonauts of the Big Four Football Union, was reported Thursday to have rejected an offer of $25,000 to return to the National Football League team.

The latest offer in a stepped-up campaign to lure Dublinski back to Detroit was said to have been made here this week by assistant coach George Wilson of the Lions.

Dublinski, who ranked fourth in passing in the NFL last season, refused to comment on the reported offer.

Dublinski's salary with Lions last season was around $7,000. He is reported to have a two-year contract with Argos at $17,000 a season.

Leafs Training Conducted At Bruising Pace
ST. CATHARINES (CP)—Toronto Maple Leafs hockey training activities were conducted at a bruising pace Thursday. Defensemen had a field day bouncing the forwards, who scored few goals.

Frank Sargent Resigns Amateur Hockey Position

PORT ARTHUR (CP)—Frank Sargent, Mr. Amateur Hockey to thousands of fans in the Thunder Bay region of northwestern Ontario, has ended an executive career that began here 27 years ago.

When he resigned from the Thunder Bay Amateur Hockey Association this week, Sargent, a partly bald, stocky man, bade a formal farewell to a game which he says still could be one of the finest sports. He will continue to serve the TBAHA in an advisory capacity and he will continue to watch hockey games, although he doesn't like the way the game is played today.

Sargent has served as an executive on the TBAHA and the parent Canadian Amateur Hockey Association. And, among other special groups, he was a member of the vital CAHA negotiating committee.

In recognition of his 27 years' service with the Thunder Bay Association, Sargent was given a life membership. He was president of the TBAHA for four of the 27 years.

Nine years ago he was honored in the same manner by the CAHA which he served for eight years, three of them as its leader.

And he is also one of the three founders of the Canadian amateur hockey negotiating committee. The others are Dr. W. G. Hardy of Edmonton and George Dudley of Midland, Ont.

Outdoor Writer

Haig-Brown, 47, lives in a farm house 180 miles north of Victoria. He has written a dozen books on the outdoors which have been published in four languages and have sold 250,000 copies. He is a magistrate at Campbell River.

He says he fishes and hunts and does other things because he enjoys doing them, not for what he gets out of them.

In This Corner

While the last post for Maritime rugby is being sounded and most of the colleges and towns are turning to Canadian football for their autumn entertainment, Charlotteville footballers—or rather rugbyists—are continuing on in the face of all this "unconditional surrendering" and will attempt to keep the game alive locally. A good few of the boys turned out last evening at the Queen Charlotte High School grounds for the first workout and practice sessions will be held practically every evening until the time comes to get on the field in earnest.

On October 24th the boys will play their first full-scale practice game, in which spectators will not be allowed. Previous to this it is hoped that a few games will be played against the Truro and Windsor senior teams and some exhibition encounters with St. Dunstan's.

While most fans seem to be accepting the passing of English Rugby from the Canadian scene is a foregone conclusion we have seen some evidence recently that might prove the exact opposite at least as far as the whole of Canada is concerned. Up in Ontario English rugby is getting bigger every year and, while its son Canadian football is grabbing the headlines and breaking attendance records all over the place, rugby is going on its merry way and expanding with the zest of a twelve-year-old boy in an ice cream factory.

Back in 1949 there were only two rugby clubs in Toronto—TorontoVarsity and the Wanderers. Today, six years later, there are over 20 clubs and 9 sponsoring bodies and the game has spread from two teams in Toronto, all over the Province of Ontario, Quebec, and down into the United States. Last year there were three leagues in operation in Ontario, the Ontario League (10 teams), Toronto League (8 teams) and the Seaway League (8 teams) and the inter-provincial game between Ontario and Quebec was revived, which was won by Ontario.

The coach of the local team Dr. Frank Jelks has been in contact with the Ontario Rugby Union and it has been learned that Mr. Fred Brown has been moved to Halifax from Ontario by the company he works for and will be acting as a contact between the Ontario Union and all Maritime teams interested in exchanging views with the upper Canadians. When these connections are set up then English Rugby will be on pretty solid footing in Canada with a chain of teams stretching from Prince Edward Island to British Columbia.

Rocky Marciano Says In Best Shape Of Career

GROSSINGER, N. Y. (AP)—Rocky Marciano declared he was in the greatest shape of his career and then proceeded Thursday to give two sparring partners a severe pounding in a four-round drill.

In sharp contrast to Archie Moore's leisurely sparring sessions the heavyweight champion exchanged punches with his two spargates in a typical "war."

That's the way the champion won his title and it's the only way he knows how to fight.

The undefeated, 31-year-old champ whacked away at the body in a two-round session with Sgt. J. B. Reed and in the final two with Keene Simmons.

At North Adams, Mass., Archie Moore hit the road for three miles Thursday and then spent the rest of the day relaxing, talking to nobody. He will box two rounds today and two Saturday, and will finish his pre-fight work Sunday for his Sept. 20 title date with Marciano.

Moore already has made plans for a six-week victory tour with Lucky Thompson's band. He will be master of ceremonies.

Ted Williams Will Be Back

BOSTON (AP)—General Manager Joe Cronin said Thursday Ted Williams will be back with Boston Red Sox next season and the club hopes the 37-year-old slugger will play "for several years."

Cronin made the statement to newspaper men after Williams was quoted as saying "it depends on the front office" whether he will play in 1956.

Although he has slowed down somewhat in the field, Williams is considered by many as the best hitter in baseball today.

by Earle G. MacLeod
Have you ever noticed how something you see every day around the house or at work may not register on you at all? A stair may creak or a small hole be torn in the wallpaper and after a little while you never notice it.

But a visitor will walk into the house and notice it first thing.

In a few years ago when every charity and community organization canvassed for funds separately about the same thing happened. You got so used to hearing about great community service and crying needs that your senses got dulled.

The needy and worthwhile organizations that came along just after three or four others had approached you got scant attention.

Then came the Community Chest, and with it the whole picture came into focus. There, once a year, we could see how much great work is done each year, much of it by volunteers, to help the needy, the sick, the underprivileged and just plain citizens who need a guiding hand.

Instead of each group coming along and telling you about the little slice of humanity they had helped, you got the whole dramatic picture of how big and noble the human heart can be.

The Community Chest is a great organization. It not only has brought home the thorough job that publicly-supported charities do, but has put their fund-raising on an efficient and business-like basis.

It costs money to raise money and when you contribute to the Community Chest you know that collection costs are kept to a remarkable minimum because one agency handles it all.

In many of our cities in Canada the Community Chest has filled a long felt need. Gone are the numerous calls made throughout the year by the various organizations and gone too are the numerous duties imposed on our community leaders in organizing these drives. A Community Chest in Charlottetown would eliminate those periodic drives while ensuring all needy and worthwhile organizations of their proper support. We have no Community Chest in Charlottetown. Why?

Football Star Is Suspended

HAMILTON (CP)—Halfback Bernis Custis was suspended Thursday by coach Carl Voyles of the Hamilton Tiger Cats for missing practice.

Voyles said the ban will last "indefinitely."

He said he had planned to use the star back in Saturday's Big Four game against Montreal Alouettes.

Regular quarterbacks Carl Garrigus and Nobby Winkowski are on the sick list and Voyles said he thought he'd use Custis at quarter.

Custis missed Hamilton's first three games because of a severe charley horse. But he shook it off this week and was pronounced ready to go.

Custis and Voyles are reported to have had words, and Custis is said to have asked to be traded or placed on waiver.

Schmidt Pleased With Players

HERSHEY, Pa. (AP)—Milt Schmidt, coach of Boston Bruins of the National Hockey League, said Thursday he is "highly pleased" with the showing of three players obtained from Detroit Red Wings in an off-season trade.

Schmidt singled out goalie Terry Sawchuk, Marcel Bonin and Vic Stasiuk for special praise.

Baseball Practice

There will be a baseball practice for Jimmy MacDonald's Flyers this evening on Memorial Field at 5:30.

NEW YORK (AP)—Eddie Arcaro, who rode Nashua to victory over Swaps in the big match race at Chicago, has been named "Pro Athlete of the Month" for August, winning by a nose over Robin Roberts, Phillies pitcher.
