Ike's Long Range Foreign Aid Plan Meets Opposition

GREETED AT THE AIRPORT

Among those greeting Prime Minister St. Laurent (right) on his arrival yesterday at the Charlottetown airport were, left to right, Mr. Simon Paoli, Treasurer, P.E.I. Liberal Association, Mr. Benjamin Rogers, President of the P.E.I. Liberal Association, and Hon. J.A. Bernard, former Lieutenant-Governor of the Province. Miss Joan Miller, daughter of the Queens County Liberal candidate, is seen in the background.

Prime Minister Enjoys Brief Visit To Charlottetown

Rt. Hon. Louis St. Laurent, Prime Minister of Canada, paid a brief visit to the Island capital yesterday where he addressed at the Charlottetown Hotel a luncheon gathering sponsored by the P.E.I. Liberal Association.

Arriving at the city air terminal at 11:30 a.m., an hour earlier than scheduled, as fog had closed in Saint John, Mr. St. Laurent was met by a large delegation of Liberal supporters including Hon. J.A. Bernard, former Lieutenant Governor, Premier A.W. Matheson and the four Liberal candidates in the forthcoming federal election—J Watson MacNaught, Neil A. Matheson, T.J. Kickham, and Cecil Miller. In addition there were present executive members of various local Liberal organizations including Mr. Benjamin Rogers, and F.A. Large, Q.C., President and Secretary respectively of the provincial Liberal organization.

At the airport a motorcade was formed driving the Prime Minister and his party to the Charlottetown Hotel by way of Brackley Point Road, St. Peter's Road, Longworth Avenue, Euston, Great George, and Kent Streets.

P.M'S PARTY

Accompanying the Prime Minister on his visit to this city were Hon. J.W. Pickersgill, Canadian Minister of Immigration and Citizenship, Mr St Laurent's daughter, Mrs Hugh O'Donnell, and Miss Perron, Mrs. Corbeil, Mrs. Fraser and Mrs. Paul Lemelin, members of the Prime Minister's secretariat. The PM's party also included several members of his personal staff: Dan Wallace, Bill Munroe, Claude Gauthier, and Donald MacKenzie. Eleven members of the press were also in the group accompanying the Prime Minister.

Before lunch the Prime Minister and members of his party visited the Provincial Building and the Confederation Building, proceeding through the city on foot.

In the Confederation Chamber the Prime Minister and Mr. Pickersgill signed the distinguished visitors' book in which, many years ago, Sir John A. MacDonald had entered his name, writing after it "Cabinet Maker." Yesterday's visitors entered their names and professions thus: "Louis St. Laurent, Ottawa and Quebec, successor to a 'Cabinet Maker';" "J.W. Pickersgill, Ottawa and Newfoundland, Expert on fish."

ADDRESSED CHILDREN

On the steps of the Provincial Building Mr. St. Laurent delivered an impromptu address to the pupils of Queen Square School who had assembled to catch a glimpse of the distinguished visitor. The Prime Minister recalled to the children the story of Confederation, and described to them the

New Disease Is Reported

TRAIL, B.C. (CP)—A medical officer has reported a "new disease" resembling measles in the Trail area of interior British Columbia.

Dr. C. J. G. Mackenzie told a meeting of the West Kootenay Union Board of Health Wednesday the disease attacks adults and especially women of child - bearing age. He did not report on the number of cases so far.

"It is doubtful if it is measles," Dr. Mackenzie said. "I think it is actually a new disease."

It usually ran its course in three weeks and left no permanent damage. Sufferers had temporary arthritic joint troubles and rashes similar to measles developed.

Dr. Mackenzie said the disease, probably a virus, started in Trail and now has spread to northern parts of Vancouver Island and the Slocan area in the Kootenays.

Democratic Group Heads Up Attack In Senate Committee

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senator Wayne Morse (Dem. Ore.) led a sharp attack on the long-range aspects of President Eisenhower's foreign aid program Thursday. He said they involved "a dangerous extension of arbitrary executive power."

Other Democratic senators joined him in protesting that the new $3,865,000,000 foreign aid bill would force Congress to surrender its annual check on U.S. spending aboard.

The storm blew up when John B. Hollister, the president's foreign aid chief, appeared before the Senate foreign relations committee to argue for authority to spend as much as $2,000,000,000 in economic aid to friendly countries during the next three years.

Morse announced he would not vote for any bill relinquishing congressional control of the billions being poured into the mutual security program.

One of the administrations 'proposals is to establish a revolving fund from which the United States could finance $500,000,000 worth of economic development in foreign countries during the fiscal year beginning July 1, and up to $750,000,000 in each of the two succeeding years.

Authority for foreign aid spending, as well as the bills appropriating money for the program, are now handled by Congress on an annual basis.

Morse said that under the legislation the administration could transfer authority and siphon millions of dollars into countries like Yugoslavia and Saudi Arabia, with Congress learning about it only "after the fact."

Hollister, head of the international co-operation administration, which administers the foreign aid funds, told the senators that next year's $3,865,000,000 program "is absolutely essential to the security of the United States."

Love Affair Becomes Problem For Prime Minister Of India

BOMBAY, India (AP) — The reported love affair of Roberto Rossellini and Mrs. Sonali Das Gupta, 27-year-old Bengali film script writer, has become a matter of official concern for Prime Minister Nehru.

Rossellini has dismissed as "fantastic nonsense" reports that he plans to divorce Ingrid Bergman and marry Mrs. Das Gupta, mother of two children. Ingrid, who is in Paris, also says there is no truth in the reports.

Mrs. Das Gupta, who is separated from her movie director husband and has occupied a hotel room near Rossellini's in Bombay's Taj Mahal Hotel, says her connection with Rossellini is only of a business nature. She won't talk about her domestic difficulties.

Nehru enters the picture because Rossellini has a contract with the Indian government for making documentary films.

A close friend of Mrs. Das Gupta said Mrs. Sucheta Kripalani, a member of Parliament, and a relative of Mrs. Das Gupta had placed the situation before Nehru, who was said to have listened sympathetically.

Members of the family are concerned that Mrs. Das Gupta might try to leave India with Rossellini. The Italian film director's visa already has expired. He will have to quit the country if it is not extended.

It would be easy for the Indian government to refuse an exit visa for Mrs. Das Gupta f iher husband requested such action. But he has made no move to do so.

Sources close t othe family of Mrs. Das Gupta gave this account:

Mrs. Das Gupta was hired by Rossellini as a film script writer some time ago. They were attracted to each other. Rossellini on one occasion flew 1,000 miles from Mysore, where he was on location, to Calcutta to consult with her on the script for his documentaries.

Hari Das Gupta, the husband, remonstrated with his wife but she continued to work for Rossellini when both the Das Guptas and Rossellini returned to Bombay.

Mrs. Das Gupta's father, a retired physician, tried in vain to persuade his daughter to abandon her idea that sh ies a talented beauty who can displace Ingrid in Rossellini's life. The father tried aslo to put pressure on Rossellini.

3 Contenders For French Premiership

PARIS (AP)—The French political spotlight Thursday focused on a trio of potential candidates capable of winning parliamentary approval as premier in time for President Rene Coty to keep his date with President Eisenhower early next month.

Newspaper and backstage speculation centred on Rene Pleven, Pierre Pflimlin and Maurice Bourges-Maunoury—in that order—as the men who might fill Premier Guy Mollet's shoes before the end of next week.

Coty, who acts as a sort of constitutional monarch before party squabbles, aws bearing down hard on political leaders in an effort to solve the cabinet crisis in time for him to make his official state visit to the United States, scheduled to begin June 3.

Siamese Twins Are Separated

YOUNGSTOWN, Ohio (AP)—The Freeman Siamese twins were separated successfully Thursday in a four-hour operation at North Side Hospital here.

The hospital announced the twin boys, James Edward and John Nelson, are in "satisfactory" condition.

The major part of the operation, the hospital said, was dividing a common liver.

The two boys, joined at the abdomen, had separate intestinal tracts and separate gall bladders.

The hospital said the twins condition during the operation was "uneventful."

In the operating room besides the head surgeon were two teams of three surgeons each to handle each twin after the separation, two anaesthetists, two pediatricians, the obstetrician who delivered the twins and nurses.

The boys were delivered by caesarean section April 26.

LIBRARY CONVENTION

SYDNEY CP — Seventy-five delegates are expected to attend the two-day annual Maritime Library Association convention which opens here Friday. James F. MacEacheron, director of library services for New Brunswick, is association president.

Prime Minister Addresses Liberal Luncheon Meeting

If the Government is satisfied as to the feasibility of the proposed causeway between Prince Edward Island and the mainland, and if it can be shown that ultimately it will put back into the national economy more than it would take out in transportation charges, "then we will deal with it as we dealt with the Canso Causeway," Prime Minister St. Laurent stated yesterday.

Speaking at a luncheon given in his honor by the Provincial Liberal Association at the Charlottetown Hotel, Mr. St. Laurent said the Government was also considering the possibilities of building the Chignecto Canal. He instanced the St. Larwence seaway and gas pipe line projects which would benefit a large part of central and western Canada and said the Atlantic Provinces were also entitled to fair treatment in connection with their transportation and other requirements.

He referred to the announcement in the Harris budget providing for increased freight rate subventions for the Maritimes, and said the Govenment was now in process of completing an examination of the whole transportation system in the Atlantic Provinces.

In his opening remarks the Prime Minister spoke briefly in French, and commented appreciatively on the warmth of welcome accorded him. This, he said, had been his experience on every occasion on coming to Prince Edward Island.

He was looking for a favorable verdict from the electors on June 10, despite Opposition criticism that the government of Canada is in the hands of "three old men who should out of charity to themselves be retired on June 10." This criticism was directed at himself, Mr. Howe and Mr. Gardiner. He pointed out that the latest cabinet appointee, Hon. Paul Hillier, has yet to reach his thirty-fourth year.

"We honestly believe," Mr. St. Laurent said, "that a Liberal administration at the present time is still a good thing for Canada, because of what has been going on over the past several years and because of we think the Liberal party has something vital to contribute to our national unity. We now have become an integrated nation economically and politically, and we are all, or most of us, convinced of the fact that if this nation is to be prosperous all of the members of the family must share in that prosperity. Although there is more being collected in taxes today than before, yet there is more left to Canadian citizens to spend on themselves and they are making more savings than it was possible for them to do before. This is due in large measure to the hard work and intelligent endeavor of Canadian citizens themselves, and to our great natural resources which are intended for the whole Canadian nation, and not just for some particular groups or sections.

SHARING PROSPERITY

"Your national government," he said, "realizes that all the residents of the ten different Provinces are citizens of Canada, that they are entitled to share in the prosperity of the country, and that there cannot be said to be any real prosperity for Canada if there are any areas that are lagging far behind."

This, he added, was the basis of the tax rental agreements. The prosperity enjoyed by the wealthier provinces comes in large part from the gains they make in trading with the whole of Canada. For this reason Parliament passed

Diefenbaker Hopes "Follow John" Slogan Will Succeed

VANCOUVER (CP) — With the federal election 18 days away, John Diefenbaker arrived here Thursday expressing hope that a "follow John" slogan may work for his Progressive Conservative party.

The printed slogan, accompanied by a set of footprints, has blossomed out around British Columbia stencilled with removeable paint on automobiles.

It began as a campaign device for Conservative candidate John Taylor in Vancouver Burrard and was promptly adapted more widely for the party leader.

At a press conference Mr. Diefenbaker indicated no disapproval when a reporter said that another slogan, "Elect a Diefenbaker government," seemed to emphasize the leader more than the party.

"In 1953 I seem to remember it was 'king or chaos.' We got both", he said, referring to the Liberal victory then under the late Mackenzie King. In 1949 and 1953 the emphasis had been on Prime Minister St. Laurent.

TREMENDOUS UPSURGE

In four full weeks of campaigning he said he has seen "a tremendous upsurge of interest with tremendous meetings."

When one reporter suggested it was only the "party faithful" who have been attending his meetings, he replied with a smile:

"If they are, I see victory on every hand. But they're not."

In this Social Credit-governed province, he said he hopes to win back former Conservatives who have been voting Social Credit.

"I'm sure that erstwhile Conservatives are Canadians first, as are erstwhile Liberals."

The 61-year-old leader arrived by air from Vancouver Island for the fourth of five days of campaigning in this province, where Conservatives held three of 22 seats in the last Parliament.

At his press conference he was asked about allegations of irregularities in the preparation of voters lists in the Vancouver Centre riding of Mr. Campney.

NO FALSIFICATION

He replied that in his experience he has seen no deliberate falsification of voters lists and suggested that any omissions of names in Vancouver Centre might be an error which could be corrected at the pre-election revision.

He told reporters that Canada's immigration policy must be "expansive rather than restrictive," geared to national development and the country's ability ti absorb newcomers without interfering with those already living here.

One reporter said there have been suggestions that Conservative immigration policy was concerned more with British immigrants than with persons from other countries.

Mr. Diefenbaker said such suggestions merely raised "a fury of racialism" and did a disservice to national unity.

"We have candidates of every racial origin in this country."

His own reason for entering federal politics in 1940 had been a desire to establish a Canadian citizenship. That had been brought about after the Second World War.

Referring to his own German ancestry, he said he had objected to the fact that although his family had been in Canada for more than a century he had had to register in each census on the basis of his family origin.

Queen Enjoys Picnic Lunch

COPENHAGEN (Reuters)—Britain's visiting Queen Elizabeth Thursday joined thousands of ordinary citizens and enjoyed a picnic lunch in a green forest on the outskirts of Copenhagen.

The Queen, Prince Philip and members of the Danish royal family had their lunch at the royal hunting lodge of Eremitagen in the heart of the forest.

But somebody forgot the brandy so one of the royal cars was dispatched during lunch to get a bottle. It arrived in time for coffee.

After winding up a three - day state visit to Denmark Thursday, the British royal couple will stay two extra days on an unofficial visit.

Across the fields and among the green foliage hundreds of red deer grazed, apparently unworried by the thousands of Copenhagen citizens who lined the roads.

The crowd broke into cheers when Queen Elizabeth, followed by Denmark's King Frederik, Queen Ingrid, their daughter, Princess Margarethe and Prince Philip appeared on the second-floor balcony of the hunting lodge.

After the two-hour lunch, Queen Elizabeth and her party drove back into Copenhagen and received the state visit's biggest ovation along the capital's main shopping thoroughfare.

Earlier, the Queen and Prince Philip visited a church founded in the 19th century by Elizabeth's Danish great - grandmother, Princess Alexandra, dropped in at the Canadian embassy, were shown around one of Denmark's mist up-to-date schools, and toured a Copenhagen porcelain factory.

Baby Is Delivered Prematurely As Mother Dies Of Injuries

CHICAGO (AP) — A baby delivered three weeks prematurely by caesarean section when his mother died of auto accident injuries, clung to life Thursday after physicians won a 58-minute fight to start his breathing.

A doctor breathed oxygen into a tube inserted in the infant's windpipe until the boy was able to take a breath of his own.

The mother, Mrs. Irma Szeinert, 19, was critically injured Tuesday by a car driven by Dr. Maurice V. H. Puckey, 75, as she was crossing a north side street with Mrs Lillian Stein, 22.

Mrs. Stein was killed but saved the life of her own son, Maurice, eight months old, by tossing him into a baby carriage she was pushing and giving it a shove just before she was struck.

Mrs. Szeinert appeared to be recovering in Forkosh Memorial Hospital, but died Wednesday night, apparently from a blood clot. Grace Gardner, nurse on duty, telephoned the hospital office for help.

DOCTOR CAME ON RUN

Dr. Thomas Creason came on the run and ordered instruments brought in on a tray. There was no time to prepare for surgery.

He started the operation within five minutes after Mrs. Szeinert's death. Other nurses telephoned Dr. Allen E. Weiner, an obstetrical specialist, and Dr. Thaddeus Niedzielski, attending physician—both of whom had just reached their homes.

They hurried back to the hospital and Weiner took over and delivered the seven-pound, two-ounce boy. The baby appeared blue and lifeless. Weiner ordered a tank of oxygen and a catheter was inserted into the baby's windpipe as he lay beside his mother's body.

The doctors too turns force-breathing oxygen into the baby's lungs and within 17 minutes his body twitched and two minutes later began to grow pink.

After 58 minutes the boy was breathing by himself.

His father, Leon, who had not slept since the accident, was told of his wife's death and son's birth. He collapsed.

Puckey was charged with reckless homicide and released on $2,025 bond. Witnesses said he was leaning from the window of his car buying a newspaper from a vendor when his car started up and went out of control.

Measles On Top Of Malaria Help Little Girl To Recover

ST. THOMAS, Ont. (CP) — A deliberate infection with malaria and an accidental case of measles have renewed four-year-old Carol Joyce's lease on life.

The little blond girl had less than a 50-50 chance of living when she lay chronically ill with nephrosis two months ago.

Today she is the same happy, bright girl she was last fall, although doctors warned her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Joyce of nearby Lawrence Station, that it will take a year to 18 months before it is certain that her apparent recovery is permanent.

Carol was stricken in November with nephrosis—a little-known kidney disease in which the kidney's fail to perform their function of removing water from the body tissues. The body accumulates water and swells as a result.

She spent the next four months in Elgin General Hospital here, with the exception of a short period when she was allowed to go home after various treatments, including large doses of cortisone, had failed.

In March, doctors decided to infect her deliberately with malaria—a treatment common in England but little used in Canada. The malaria had little effect, but about two weeks later Carol caught measles—also known to be helpful in curing nephrosis.

Six weeks ago, Carol's health suddenly improved to the point that she was able to go home and resume the life of a normal four-year-old.

"We would like to think that something we did brought about the dramatic change," one doctor said, "but the truth is . . . the luckiest thing that could have happened to Carol was her catching measles quite accidentally on top of the malaria.

"The combination of malaria, measles and nature could be responsible for her present health."

Fined For High Interest Rate

CALGARY (CP)—A 19-year-old soldier was fined $100 and costs in Alberta Supreme Court Thursday for lending money to his friends at an interest rate prohibited by the Money Lenders Act.

John Douglas Abell, a rifleman with the 1st Battalion, Queen's Own Rifles, was fined after more than six witnesses, all soldiers, testified they had borrowed money on the basis of $3 for a $5 repayment, $6 for $10 and $9 for $15.

As security Abell had the borrowers sign cheques for the repayment amount. The witnesses said they understood he did not intend to cash the cheques.

Abell's activities were discovered March 20 when he reported to a Provost Corps member that his cashbox had been broken into and 125 "IOUs" stolen.
