Demolition Of Old City Hotel

The week-end is expected to see the complete demolition of an old landmark—the Morell Hotel on Kent Street—to make way for further expansion by R. T. Holman Limited in the development of a parking area for their customers. The hotel, which for many years was operated by the late William Seller and Mrs. Seller, was a centre of activity on market days when farmers and their wives drove to the city to conduct their business at the "stalls" directly with their customers of long standing. "Good-bye, hay and oats" was the sign leaning into the rear of the hotel and equally good provision was made for the patrons who were always on hand for the noon meal. The new set-up provides for a parking area of considerable size and a concrete walk five feet wide direct from Kent St. to an entrance which brings the customers right to the main floor of the store. The area will be levelled off next week and the concrete walk completed promptly in order to have this added convenience provided by Holmans Ltd., available as soon as possible.

During the evening, the company was entertained by a selection of pipe music played by Mr. Bruce MacLaren and several Gaelic songs rendered by Major MacLeod. There followed some community singing of old Scottish songs, and Mr. Charles Craig sang "The MacGregor's Gathering" and "The Braes further entertained with pipe selections, rendered in his own inimitable style. Mrs. Gordon MacMillan and Mrs. Bruce MacLaren provided the piano accompaniments. Indictments Bring Teen-age Killers Within Shadow of The Electric Chair

NEW YORK (AP)—Four teenagers were indicted on first-degree murder charges Thursday, nine days after their chance arrest as alleged thrill killers. The indictments cast the shadow of the electric chair over the Brooklyn quartet. The death sentence is mandatory with first-degree murder convictions. Their age is no bar to their execution, if convicted. Boys as young as 17 have gone to the chair in New York. However, commutation of a death sentence is more likely for a boy of tender years. Two of the boys indicted are 17—Jerome Lieberman and Melvin Mittman. A third, Jack Koslow, is 18, and the fourth, Robert Trachtenberg, is only 15. WEEKS-LONG ORGY They are accused of a weeks-long orgy of beating and torture in Brooklyn parks, during which two men were slain. Automatic pleas of not guilty were entered for them, as required by New York law in first-degree murder cases. In no case was the question of sanity raised in the pleas. If the boys actually go to trial, it might prove one of the most sensational courtroom cases in years. With the defence are some of the best legal minds in the city. Cutler, Koslow's lawyer, is a former detective. Leo J. Healy, Mittman's counsel, is a former magistrate. Trachtenberg is being defended by Lloyd Paul Stryker, the man who won Alger Hiss a hung jury in his first trial. Lieberman's family has retained James D. C. Murray, 71-year-old criminal law ace who has saved countless clients from the electric chair. BEATEN, UNCONSCIOUS All four boys were indicted in the slaying of William Mentzer, 34, Negro father of two children. He was seized in a Brooklyn park Aug. 16, tortured with lighted cigars on his bare feet, beaten unconscious and cast into the East River to drown. His body was recovered three days later and all four boys identified him as one of their victims. Lieberman and Mittman also were indicted for manslaughter in the Aug. 6 slaying of Rheinhold Ulrickson, a 43-year-old steplife. He was set upon in a park and beaten and kicked to death.

More Than One Man For Every Woman In Canada

OTTAWA, (CP)—Canada's men folk are getting ahead of the opposite sex, in numbers at least. The bureau of statistics estimates Thursday that men outnumbered women in the 10 provinces by 198,000 at the start of June—7,583,000 to 7,485,000. It was the greatest numerical difference between the sexes in five years. A year earlier there were 7,474,000 men and 7,281,300 women, a difference of 192,700. The figures do not include the Yukon and Northwest Territories, whose population of 27,000 at June 1 brought the total to 15,195,000. Canada always has had more men than women. The 1951 census, however, showed a majority of only 164,000, the smallest margin in almost 50 years. Since 1951, the male population has increased by 608,600 and the female population by 575,000. In 1951, only one province, Quebec, had a preponderance of women. At the first of June this year men had an edge in every province. The standing by provinces: Newfoundland, 205,100 men and 192,900 women; Prince Edward Island 53,300 and 51,700; Nova Scotia, 342,500 and 330,500; New Brunswick, 274,600 and 272,400; Quebec, 2,194,700 and 2,193,300; Ontario 2,547,000 and 2,499,000; Manitoba, 420,300 and 407,700; Saskatchewan, 457,300 and 420,700; Alberta, 542,500 and 496,500; British Columbia, 465,700 and 420,300. By age groups, women had a numerical edge only in the age brackets from 25 to 34 years, and over 74.

Looks For High Prosperity In Canada

TORONTO, (CP)—One of Canada's top industrial executives told a gathering of editors Thursday that, barring a catastrophic war or complete international turmoil, there is no single reason why Canada should not continue to enjoy economic expansion and high prosperity. Rhys M. Sale, president of Ford of Canada, told the closing session of the Canadian Weekly Newspapers Association convention that "we have not been having a depression nor a recession nor anything of the kind." "We have been going through a perfectly normal period of adjustment and if I read the signs correctly we are on the way out." He said he could not understand why any business man should be unduly pessimistic. "Our own swelling population guarantees steadily increasing home markets—these are the source of a large part of our potential prosperity." Canadians had seen signs of a betterment in world markets for Canadian products with the relaxation of exchange and import restrictions in some Commonwealth territories. "The thing we have to avoid," he said, "is taking our prosperity for granted. There is no magic formula which makes it possible for the Canadian manufacturer, the Canadian agriculturist or the Canadian worker to sit back and expect the blessings of heaven to come perpetually without effort."

Motor Vehicle Industry Sets Output Records

OTTAWA (CP)—Canada's motor vehicle industry set new production records last year with a nine per cent increase in the value of its products. The bureau of statistics reported Thursday that the factory value of the vehicles had risen to $835,554,549 from $767,354,984 in 1952. This was more than three and a half times the 1945 output value. Passenger car production rose to a new mark of 360,385 from 283,534 in 1952. Truck and bus production fell to 120,574 from 150,176 the year before. The industry's 20 plants employed 32,973 persons, as compared with 31,102 in 1952.

Rust May Cut Western Wheat 80 Million Bus.

WINNIPEG (CP)—Western Canada's ripening wheat crop may be cut by more than 80,000,000 bushels this year by rust, a wind-borne fungus that saps the strength of growing plants. This was indicated Thursday by two Winnipeg rust authorities. Dr. F. J. Greaney, director of the Line Elevators farm service, said following a survey of western Canada that the Prairies might yield only 400,000,000 bushels of wheat rather than the 487,000,000-bushel estimated Aug. 13 by the federal bureau of statistics. Last year's crop was 594,000,000 bushels—third successive crop of more than 500,000,000 bushels. Dr. T. Johnson, supervisor of the federal laboratory of plant pathology, said it is too early to accurately estimate the rust's effect on yield but it could easily equal or even exceed the record year of 1935 when 87,000,000 bushels of grain were lost to rust. HEAVY LOSS CERTAIN Dr. Johnson said losses from rust, particularly leaf rust, will greatly exceed rust losses western farmers have suffered in any year since 1935. Leaf rust infection is widespread, extending from Manitoba to eastern Alberta, in Saskatchewan, in a strip about 100 miles wide from Estevan northwest to North Battleford-Lloydminster, leaf rust destroyed the leaves of Thatcher and other susceptible varieties about three weeks before the crop would have been ready for harvest. Cool, wet weather earlier retarded crop growth, giving the rust more chance to develop, especially in the Carrot river valley of Saskatchewan. Durum wheat has suffered much more from stem rust than bread wheat, with many fields destroyed before any kernels were formed. Durum samples in Manitoba are grading too low for macaroni manufacture. Plant scientists are striving continually to develop new grains capable of resisting rust. One of the most recently developed—Selkirk—still is not available in large enough amounts for general use. Stocks are being built up by 23,000 farmers who obtained six bushels each for planting small plots.

U. S. Prisoner May Be Man Sought In Canada

CALGARY, (CP)—A man whose fingerprints are reported to tally with those of Donald Winslow Henderson, Canada's most-wanted criminal and alleged murderer of a young girl here, is in custody of South San Francisco police, Calgary police officials said Thursday. Authorities said they were advised by the U. S. police that the suspect was arrested after a check of his fingerprints. He had been arrested a week ago on a liquor charge and released by the fingerprint check sent police out to pick him up again. Capt. A. (Gus) Terragno of the South San Francisco homicide detail said the man was going under the name of Raymond Martin. He said he had no photographs of Henderson but a verbal description of the wanted man, supplied from Calgary, was similar to Martin's appearance. GIRL FATALLY BEATEN Henderson is wanted by Calgary police in connection with the slaying of his fiancee, Yvonne Levesque, in a Calgary tourist cabin Aug. 11, 1949. He has been at the top of the RCMP's most-wanted list for some time. Capt. Terragno said Martin was working as a draftsman for a San Francisco factory. Henderson is a graduate mechanical engineer from the University of Saskatchewan. The U. S. official said the man denied he had ever been in Canada and likely would force extradition proceedings before he could be taken out of the country. He had reached San Francisco two months ago from Portland, Ore. Henderson disappeared from a cabin in East Calgary the day of the 1949 slaying as police tried unsuccessfully to revive Miss Levesque, who had been fatally beaten.
