STIRS ANTI-RED BARRAGE

Gromyko In Concession On Arms Plan; Blasts West

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) Soviet delegate Andrei A. Gromyko agreed Thursday to propose Western ceilings on armed forces of world powers. But he stirred up a bitter anti-Communist barrage by assailing Western policies around the globe. The Soviet deputy foreign minister told the UN disarmament commission Moscow is ready to accept Western proposals to cut to 2,500,000 men each the armed forces of the United States, Soviet Union, and Communist China and to 750,000 each the forces of Britain and France. He rejected President Eisenhower's "open skies" inspection plan. Then he took off on blasts against the West, its defence pacts and particularly American "monopolists" who are, he said, pushing the armaments race to garter huge profits. In quick succession, delegates of Iran, Britain, France, Nationalist China, the United States, Canada, Australia and Peru also replied to Gromyko. They assailed him for straying from disarmament into global politics. Gromyko looked grimmer than usual when he departed after the commission adjourned for lunch. He defended the North Atlantic Alliance as "simply a device we share with other friendly nations to provide us with a measure of security we believe essential for our security at this time." Once the necessary international conditions and an effective disarmament control system had been found, NATO and similar arrangements could be spoken of "in a different light." Gromyko early in his speech dropped Russia's proposal for troop ceilings of from 1,000,000 to 1,500,000 for the United States, China and the Soviet Union, and $50,000 each for Britain and France. Anthony Nutting, British minister of state, described Gromyko's statement on the arms cuts as "encouraging."

GIRLS MEET THE QUEEN

Canadian Debs Presented

LONDON (CP)—Fifty Canadian debutantes, their butterfly nerves soothed by a court wit, were presented individually Thursday to the Queen and the Duke of Edinburgh in a ballroom ceremony in Buckingham Palace. Then the girls joined some 200 other Commonwealth debs in the palace gardens for tea and dainties. Altogether several thousand persons — diplomats, socially prominent persons and parents — filled the park-like garden, where three marquees were set up, one for the Royal Family, another for diplomats, and a third for the debs. The Canadian girls were led through innumerable rooms in the palace, finally reaching a picture gallery. They sat on chairs, glancing at the paintings of the royal collection, while waiting to be summoned to the gold-and-white ballroom where royalty waited. "There are two spots on the carpet — one before the Queen and one before the Duke," a palace official told the debs. "When you reach them, you curtsy. When you look up, if you don't see the Queen and the duke I'll be very much surprised." With this attempt at levity, the girls laughed, and their nervousness seemed to fade — at least for most of them. One Canadian girl got safety through her curtsy, then scurried to the cloak room outside and burst into tears, apparently from pent-up emotions. She was not identified. When the last of the debs had been presented, the Queen, the Duke, the Queen Mother, Princess Margaret, the Duchess of Kent, and her son, the Duke of Kent, strolled around the garden, chatting briefly. "JUST GRINNED BROADLY" The Queen, wearing a kingfisher blue dress with white accessories and a turquoise, head-hugging hat trimmed with turquoise chiffon, looked slightly tired — perhaps from Wednesday night's pre-presentation ball for an English deb. Mary Louise Alexander of Vancouver sipped tea with another Canadian, Diane Sparkes, daughter of Reginald Sparkes, Speaker of the Newfoundland legislature. Miss Sparkes wore a blue-patterned nylon dress and a navy blue straw hat trimmed with veil and pink rose. Barbara Herder of St. John's, Nfld., was determined to win a smile from the Queen when she courtied. "I just grinned broadly," she said, "and was rewarded with a warm smile from the Queen."

Battered Ship Reaches Halifax

HALIFAX (CP)—The bow-beaten and limping freighter Dea Mazzella snuggled safely against a pier here Thursday after a 30-hour slow-moving trip through a foggy North Atlantic where she crashed through another freighter and picked up its crew members. The Mazzella, a 7,500-ton Italian ship loaded with a grain cargo from Boston, carried the 33 crew members of the Panamanian cargo ship Estoril which ploughed to the bottom after being sliced by the Mazzella about 450 miles east of Boston Wednesday. There were no injuries on either ship.

TORONTO (CP)—An industrial commission office, to attract new industries to Ontario, has been opened in New York, Planning Minister Nickel said Thursday. LABOR PARTY OPPOSES POLICY

Britain Gives Green Light For Self-Gov't On Cyprus

LONDON (Reuters) — Britain announced Thursday an immediate go-ahead on plans to develop internal self-government in Cyprus but will not grant the troubled island colony self-determination at present. Prime Minister Eden told the House of Commons that Lord Radcliffe, an eminent British jurist, will start work immediately on a constitution for the colony, where a terrorist campaign for union with Greece has been raging for 5 months. Eden also appeared to indicate the government may be ready to do business with Archbishop Makarios, union-with-Greece leader who was exiled to the Seychelles Islands in the Indian Ocean March 8 for what the British said was condoning terrorism. BEAT TERRORISTS FIRST Eden's statement was greeted with violent protests from Labor party leaders who wanted the prime minister to name a date by which the 500,000 Cypriots would be able to determine their own future. Eden replied the government is unable to get international agreement on self-determination, which is opposed by Turkey and the 100,000 Turkish minority living in Cyprus. In his reference to Makarios, Eden said, "If the archbishop were to take action to denounce terrorism, a new situation would be created." Launching of a program for self-government will begin today, Eden said, when Radcliffe leaves for Cyprus. On Radcliffe's return, he said, the government will draw up detailed terms of reference for his task. He added: "The new constitution will not be put into effect until terrorism has been overcome and law and order has been restored."

Parkdale Will Build New Eight-Room School

At a meeting of the Parkdale rate-payers held last night at the Parkdale Hall, chaired by Warren Burns, it was decided to go ahead with the building of a new eight-room school to be located on Confederation Street. The type of building planned will be of brick and steel and made fireproof throughout. The building will have eight classrooms on the first floor with space in the basement for an additional four rooms for home economics, science, etc., and will be located on a four and one half acre lot which has been acquired from the T.G. Ives estate. Once let, the contract calls for the building to be completed by December 31, 1956.

Howe Sees Cheap Atomic Power

OTTAWA (CP) — Large-scale atomic power plants are expected to be able to produce electricity more cheaply than coal-fueled power plants, Trade Minister Howe said Thursday. But he informed the Commons he does not believe any scientist has claimed that atomic power will be cheaper than a hydro-electric generating plant. He was replying to a question by opposition leader Drew, who said the British delegate to the fifth world power congress at Vienna has stated that atomic power at rates cheaper than power from other fuels now is assured.

Russian Fisheries Minister Will Visit Province

OTTAWA (CP) — Russian Fisheries Minister A. A. Ishkov is scheduled to arrive by fishing trawler at St. John's, Nfld., Aug. 22 to begin a month-long Canadian visit. Officials here say the idea of his using such transportation is apparently to show off a new Russian trawler. They didn't know whether the trawler would come via the Baltic Sea or from Murmansk on the Barents Sea coast. The group will look at salt and frozen fish plants in Newfoundland and Nova Scotia and the lobster and sardine industry in New Brunswick and Prince Edward Island before arriving here about Aug. 31 for a few days. Then they will tour the Pacific coast.

Army Testing Traction Device

CAMP GAGTOWN, B. (CP) The Army Service Corps is testing here a traction device which it hopes will enable heavy cargo trucks to operate efficiently in soft, spongy ground. The army said Thursday that the device being tested is a series of tread-like metal lugs which can be quickly and easily adjusted to the heavy dual drive wheels of supply vehicles. Not unlike a tank track in appearance, the device can be adjusted in a few minutes by a trained two-man team. The trials began last February and will run for a year. Those in the services got recommendations from senior officers and applications were given favorable treatment. But civilian veterans felt their applications were not so well handled and that the benefits were not in proportion to the contributions they made during the war. GOT MESS PROFITS Wing Cmdr. MacLean said the profits of wartime messes and canteens were turned over to the fund at the end of the Second World War. The fund continued to get money from existing canteens and messes. He gave no figures on how much was turned over to the fund at the end of the war. The latest report of the fund he had been able to obtain, for 1955, showed assets of more than $3,500,000. He said the army operates on a better basis, with a benevolent fund for veterans and a welfare fund for those now serving. The RCAF fund should be divided in the same way and the part accumulated during the war disbursed to veterans in such a way that it would be all paid out during their lifetimes.

Adlai Stevenson Stops In Montreal

MONTREAL (CP) — Bearing and chipping, Adlai Stevenson stopped briefly here Thursday en route to New England to campaign for the United States presidency. Stevenson-meeting questions in English and French at an outdoor airport press conference — brightly lit by a group of U.S. supporters ambled onto the scene carrying a banner proclaiming: "We'll vote for Adlai." "I hope you're old enough to vote," Stevenson called to the youths and girls, students at McGill University here. Questions covered a wide range even including the reported vodka tipping of Nikita Khrushchev, Soviet Communist party secretary. "I can't comment on Mr. Khrushchev's habits — it would be only hearsay," Stevenson said with a smile.
