"QUO VADIS" AT THE CAPITOL

—Never in the history of motion pictures has a picture been brought to the screen with the breathtaking spectacle, scope, gigantic cast, color and pageantry as that presented in M-G-M's much-heralded Technicolor production of "Quo Vadis", now showing at the Capitol Theatre, with Robert Taylor, Deborah Kerr, Leo Genn and Peter Ustinov leading a cast of thousands.

Here we have the corrupt and extravagant imperial court of the Emperor Nero brought to life in scenes of staggering immensity, with its spectacle of thousands of triumphant warriors, led by Marcus Vinicius, making a triumphant entry into Rome along the garlanded Appian Way; the scenes of the populace saluting the vestal virgins as they pay homage to the 40-foot-high statues of the pagan gods; the bacchanal in Nero's ornate palace as the Emperor holds a banquet in honor of the victorious Vinicius; the burning of Rome in spectacular scenes never before equaled on the screen as they depict the terrified populace screaming and trampling on each other in their frenzied attempt to flee the city; the racing chariots; the martyrdom of the Christians as they are torn apart by lions and burned on crosses; and the final gripping climax, in which the Christian hostage, Lygia, is saved from being killed by a ferocious bull when her giant bodyguard, Ursus, kills the beast in a blood-curdling show given by Nero in the huge Circus Maximus.

The picture opens with the return of Vinicius (Robert Taylor) to Rome following his victorious campaign in Britain, and his meeting with Lygia (Deborah Kerr), young daughter of the late King of Lygia and now a military prisoner, with whom he falls in love. His cynicism in regard to their strange religion of universal love at first proves a barrier to their romance but he is won over to Lygia's faith after the cruelly capricious Nero (Peter Ustinov) has burned Rome to the ground, inciting the wrath of the populace. Seeking to make the Christians scapegoats for the fire, Nero has them brought into the Circus Maximus to be torn apart by the ferocious lions, and it is at the suggestion of his ruthless wife, Poppaea, that Lygia, now married to Vinicius, is tied to a stake to be gored by an enraged bull. Nero has consented to free her if her giant bodyguard, Ursus, emerges victor in a battle with the bull.

but when he reneges on his promise, Vinicius breaks his bonds and leaps into the arena to release Lygia. Now he appeals to the populace who become a howling mob and turn on Nero. The disolute tyrant, trapped in his palace, strangles Poppaea and then is himself killed by a dagger in the hands of Acte, his former mistress. The reign of Nero is ended and the spread of Christianity is assured.

The regular monthly meeting of Coronation Women's Institute met in the Institute room on Thursday evening, July 10. The meeting opened with the vice-president in the chair by singing "In the Good Old Summertime" and repeating the "Creed" in unison.

Minutes of the last meeting were read and approved, and roll call was answered by 10 members and two visitors.

Proceeds of a sale of candy held at the showing of the Film Board amounted to $4.60. The sick committee reported that three treats had been sent.

Correspondence was read which consisted of a letter from the "Canadian Lumberman Association" telling about a booklet entitled, "How To Improve Your Farm Kitchen", and a letter on highway safety. Plans for an ice cream social were discussed and left in charge of the committee.

The fourth lesson on Home Nursing was given by Mrs. Waldon Duggan R.N.

Program consisted of a nursery rhyme relay, sides being called by Misses Beryl MacLeod and Kathleen Murray, with Beryl's side winning. Collection amounted to 85c.

The meeting closed with the National Anthem, after which lunch was served by the committee.
