Living Costs In Dec. Declined

OTTAWA (CP)—The consumer price index—Canada's barometer of living costs—declined one-fifth of a point at the start of December, registering its second consecutive monthly drop in 1957. The bureau of statistics said Monday prices equalling 100, eased to 123.1 from 123.3 a month earlier as a result of a drop in food prices. Lower food costs also caused the index to decline to 123.3 at the start of November from a record 123.4 the previous month.

The two decreases were the only ones registered in the index from the first of the year until the start of December. At the start of 1957 the index stood at 120.3. The decrease in the index between the start of October and the start of December amounted to 2.4 per cent. The December figure of 123.1 represents a gain of 2.7 points compared with the same period of 1956.

The index for average wages and salaries at Oct. 1—the latest figure available—was 160.3, based on 1949 equalling 100. This compares with 148 at Jan. 1, 1957, and with the following average figures for the preceding years: 1956, 149.4; 1955, 141.7; 1954, 137.1; 1953, 133.4; 1952, 126.0; 1951, 115.5; 1950, 104.4 and 1949, 100.

Lower food prices at the start of December more than offset increases in the prices of a wide range of consumer goods, particularly 1958 automobiles. FOOD PRICES DECLINE The food subindex declined 1.2 per cent to 118.8 from 120.2, reflecting lower prices for eggs, bacon, lettuce and imported fresh fruits. Egg prices declined by an average of seven cents a dozen. Smaller price increases were shown for coffee, tea, sugar and margarine.

Beef prices at the start of December showed their first increase since August. The price of tomatoes and celery also was higher.

The shelter subindex increased to 136.7 from 136.3, with the rise of two-fifths of a point being caused by increases in both the rent and home-ownership components.

The clothing subindex moved to 109.9 from 109.8, due to scattered increases in the price of clothing. Higher prices for a variety of commodities and services boosted the household operations subindex to 120.6 from 120.5.

CARS BOOST INDEX The other commodities and services subindex rose to 128.8 from 127.7. This relatively sharp increase of seven-tenths of a point reflected higher prices for new 1958 cars as compared with the previous month's prices of 1957 models. Gasoline prices eased but the cost of toilet soap rose slightly.

The bureau also reported a slight increase in the price index of 30 industrial materials between Nov. 29 and Dec. 27. This index, based on 1935-39 prices equalling 100, advanced to 233.2 from 231.4. The rise reflected higher prices for tin and rubber which were influenced by political events in the Far East and a weakening of the position of the Canadian dollar.

on the uninhabited island, 11 South Sandwich Islands. Alekssei Solovnik, captain of the Soviet research ship Slava, said the scientists put up the sign with the Soviet star but did not indicate whether their action had any political implications. Perhaps the Russians already consider the island part of the Soviet Union. While English sea captain James Cook first charted the islands in 1775 and duly "took possession" of them, only seven of the 11 have English names. If Britain and Russia can't agree on the ownership of these islands, they can always turn to Argentina. She says they are hers.

Survey Steel Plant Managers' '58 Outlook

CLEVELAND (AP)—Steel magazine reports today that 70 per cent of 7,500 steel plant general managers questioned believe the industry's 1958 gross sales will equal or exceed last year's. This is a more guarded prediction than the Weekly Journal of Metal-Working obtained in a similar survey a year ago. The 95 per cent of the replies pointed to an equal or greater dollar volume than in 1956. And the 1957 gross sales volume for metal-working did rise to a record $140,000,000, Steel said.

The general managers also foresee in their survey answers: Lower profits, higher production costs, increased prices, slowed expansion, high defence spending, steady employment and improved business in the second half.

As the year started steel production was down to 55 per cent of a year ago's capacity for the week ended Jan. 5. Later this week a new 1958 capacity rating, up about 8,000,000 tons from the 133,500,000 tons used in percentage ratings of 1957 output, will be announced.

Fire On Former Rum-Runner

HALIFAX (CP)—Fire Saturday caused a damage estimated at $20,000 to the onetime notorious rum-running ship Josephine K., now a coastal freighter.

Firemen battled two hours to control a blaze that started in the engine room. Repairs are expected to take six weeks. The Josephine K. was docked when the fire started and for a time damage to the neighboring wharf was feared. No one was injured.

A. J. Burke and Company of Halifax operate the 92-foot wooden vessel between Halifax and Cape Breton Island ports. The Josephine K. made headlines in 1931 when the United States coast guard fired on her near the entrance to New York harbor. A bullet killed her skipper, Capt. William Cluett of Lunenburg, N.S. The wheelhouse still has the bullet hole.

At that time she was one of a fleet of ships in the rum-running trade operating between the West Indies and a secret rendezvous off the U.S. coast.

B. C. Pulp And Paper Strike Is Continuing

VANCOUVER (CP)—Settlement of British Columbia's seven-week pulp and paper strike seemed more remote than ever Sunday after an unsuccessful mediation effort by Labor Minister Lyle Wicks.

He reported neither side would relax its firmly-held opinions. D. R. Blair, management spokesman, said in a prepared statement the companies "have no alternative but to reconsider their whole position. We will have to consider whether what we have already offered can be allowed to stand."

H. L. Hansen, chairman of the bargaining board for the two unions involved, said they have "no intention of making any further approaches" and will prepare for what appears likely to be a "long, drawn-out struggle."

MINISTER CRITICAL Mr. Wicks criticized the inflexibility of both sides. "There could and should have been a settlement," he said after talking with the unions and companies separately. "There was no meeting of minds."

Russia Erects Red Star On British Island

LONDON (Reuters)—Russia has erected a red star on one of Britain's Sandwich Islands. The island in the Antarctic has a Russian name—Zavadovsky—but Britain considers it thoroughly British, penguins and all. Moscow radio announced Saturday that Russian scientists and sailors landed at Zavadovsky and erected a 12-foot sign topped by the Russian star.

The scientists collected specimens of plant and animal life.

Britain Warns Malta Over Recent Threat To Sever Ties

By SEAGHAN MAYNES LONDON (Reuters)—Britain warned Malta Friday night that its threat to sever ties "recklessly hazarded" substantial British financial aid for the Mediterranean island colony.

A firmly-worded message from Colonial Secretary Alan Lennox-Boyd announced Britain has proposed "exceptionally generous" help under which Malta would get £2,000,000 in continued capital assistance during a five-year period.

Lennox-Boyd told Maltese Prime Minister Dom Mintoff "you and your colleagues have known for many months" of Britain's desire to aid Malta's economy.

He added: "These are the intentions which you have now so recklessly hazarded." The Maltese Parliament has backed unanimously Mintoff's motion to sever all agreements and obligations with Britain unless the latter guarantees alternate employment for any Maltese workmen fired from British navy dockyard jobs under defence spending cuts. The colonial secretary also asserted the island would have to raise some of the money needed for its economic development because Britain would no longer ask its taxpayers to foot the bill alone.

STRIKERS GO TO WORK Meanwhile, Malta's 12,000 British navy dockyard workers struck in protest against the firing of 30 fellow workers. But they went back to work when a British contracting firm offered the discharged men jobs.

The offer came from the George Wimpey organization, contractors on a naval underground oil storage depot.

Lennox-Boyd's message ignored Mintoff's request Thursday that Prime Minister Macmillan halt the dismissals and that the colonial secretary go to Malta for talks. Mintoff also asked for a "truce" in his quarrel with Britain.

Two Out Of Three Believe In Rocket-To-The Moon

By Canadian Institute Of Public Opinion Who really believes that rockets will reach the moon some day? Canadians are far more adventure-minded in this idea, than are their American cousins. In this country more than two-thirds of the people name a time period when they expect it will happen. In the U.S. only about half the public will do this.

For some reason, Canadians and the British think in much the same proportions on attaining this magic goal. In both countries for more men and women name an early date, than will do so in the U.S. South of the border, where recent world-wide surveys have shown that American prestige has suffered internationally, in view of Russia's triumph, the median choice of time for a rocket-to-the-moon is twenty years. In Canada it is only eleven years.

In this country, moreover, many more pick an early date for this sensation, as will do so in the U.S. But in all three countries recently surveyed by affiliated Gallup Polls, just over one in ten men and women are sceptical about the whole idea. "Fantastic, silly, impossible" say 13 per cent in Canada 14 per cent in the States, and 10 per cent in Great Britain.

A national sample of men and women, twenty-one years of age and over, were asked this question: "How long do you think it will be before men in rockets will reach the moon?"

To show the lineup of opinions on both sides of the border, this table compares Canadian and U.S. estimates.

Icebreaking To Begin Shortly

OTTAWA (CP)—Icebreaking operations on the St. Lawrence River upstream from Trois-Rivieres, Que., will start in the near future, Transport Minister Hees said Saturday.

However, he could not give an exact date because a start would depend on ice conditions, he told Lionel Chevrier (L—Montreal Laurier) in the Commons.

Three icebreakers were available. The N.B. McLean was in Trois-Rivieres and the D'Iberville was due to sail upstream from Quebec City in a few days. Meanwhile, the Ernest LaPointe was in Sorel, Que., upstream from Trois-Rivieres, but no ice of any consequence was reported between Sorel and Trois-Rivieres.

Offers Aid For Wood Roads

OTTAWA (CP)—A new federal offer to pay half the cost of building forest access roads this winter will be available to all provinces equally, Resources Minister Hamilton said Saturday in the Commons.

He said he was wrong Friday, when announcing the plan, in saying the federal aid would be provided under forest fire protection agreements signed with the provinces. Quebec is the only province which has not signed such an agreement.

Saturday Mr. Hamilton said there will be separate agreements covering the winter program of building forest access roads which would be available to all provinces.

Says U.S. Navy Rejected Missiles For Subs Plan

By WILMOT HERCHER WASHINGTON (AP)—Rear-Admiral Hyman Rickover, father of the atomic submarine, told Senate investigators Monday the United States Navy turned down his plan to equip the subs to fire ballistic missiles.

Rickover testified before the Senate preparedness subcommittee, which is reported to have received information from the central intelligence agency that the Russians have missile-firing submarines capable of bombarding the American coasts.

The admiral's testimony was taken behind closed doors but a security-censored summary of it was made public by senators and members of the subcommittee's staff.

SAW FEASIBILITY Rickover was reported to have told the senators that while he did not propose originally that the atomic subs be fitted out to fire missiles, he became convinced about two years ago that this would be feasible.

Senator Lyndon B. Johnson who is subcommittee chairman, said Rickover's recommendation that he be started on the missile-firing project was turned down "by the navy's submarine officers."

The subcommittee's counsel, Edwin L. Weis, added that Rickover was talking about the navy's "high command."

FARTHER BEHIND Commenting on the admiral's testimony, Senator John C. Stennis, vice-chairman of the subcommittee, said he is afraid the U.S. is "father away" than we have been "thinking" in the job of building a submarine capable of launching the navy's Polaris, a 1,500-mile range missile.

"The rosy picture we have had of the progress of Polaris itself is not being sustained," Stennis said. Johnson reported that Rickover complained that too many military projects are being hampered by red tape.

"He said trained people are hampered by conferences and committees and the continued demand for offering justification for what they are doing," the senator said. "Admiral Rickover stressed that there must be less interference by those who have no responsibility. He emphasized the need for a sense of urgency among top officials in charge of the research program."

Johnson quoted Rickover as telling the committee that he is "very much worried that it is almost too late to match the achievements of the Soviet Union" in the missile field. Questioned about this statement, John said he thought Rickover was speaking of the "overall picture" rather than just the submarine program.

Johnson also said his subcommittee was "amazed" to learn from Rickover that the admiral had no opportunity to contribute to development of a missile-launching sub or to work on Polaris. Johnson said his group wants to know why.

Earlier, Senator Henry M. Tamm, said he thought Rickover was making a good record for himself in the House of Representatives, where he is the guest of her uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Oliver Proffitt.

The many friends of Mrs. C. C. Baker will be glad to know that she is making a good record for herself in the House of Representatives, where she is the guest of her uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Oliver Proffitt.

Mrs. Eva B. Pickering spent New Years with her son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Anson Pickering, Charlottetown.

Mrs. Daniel Rickox returned to her home in Burlington on Saturday after visiting her sister, Miss Hilda MacLeod who is a patient in the Prince Edward Island Hospital, Charlottetown, and other relatives in Charlottetown and Brookfield.

Donnie and Kevin Hickox, St. Eleanor's, spent part of the Christmas vacation with their grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Hickox, Burlington.

The home of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Gillis, Shamrock, was the scene of a post-nuptial shower on Saturday evening, December 14, when friends and neighbours assembled to tender their son, Donald, and his bride, the former Eleanor Clark of Kensington, a miscellaneous shower. Pink and white streamers were used effectively in decorating the living room. Nuptial music was played by Mrs. Robert Graham while the newly-weds were ushered to a seat of honor by Mr. and Mrs. Junior Matheson. Assisting in opening and presenting the many lovely gifts were Mrs. Gordon MacKenzie, Misses Alberta Todd, Audrey Cameron and Elaine Nicholson. Games and a sing-song with Miss Audrey Cameron at the piano followed by a delicious lunch completed a pleasant evening.

Mr. Roger Kennedy of the Royal Canadian Navy spent the Christmas season with his wife and family at Kensington.

Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Dunning, Mr. and Mrs. James MacKenzie, Mr. and Mrs. Ernest MacEwen and Miss Anna MacEwen, all of Kensington, were among those attending the celebration of the Golden Wedding of Mr. and Mrs. Charles MacKenzie at Borden.
