Forecasts Conservatives Will Take Up To 40 Quebec Seats

QUEBEC (CP) — Progressive Conservatives opened their federal election campaign in this Liberal stronghold Saturday with a forecast by Mines Minister Paul Comtois that they will take 30 to 40 of Quebec's 75 seats in the March 31 voting.

Mr. Comtois, guest speaker at a banquet Saturday honoring Senator Mark Drouin, said the prediction is based on party observations. Nine Quebec Conservatives were elected to the last Parliament, Sen. Drouin was Speaker of the Upper House.

Some 500 persons filled to near capacity the parish hall of St. Francis d'Assise Church in Quebec East constituency, where Mr. Drouin ran unsuccessfully against former Prime Minister St. Laurent in 1949.

Quebec Game Minister Camille Pouliot, another head table guest, announced he would campaign to elect at least four Conservatives on the Gaspé Peninsula.

The provincial minister said he was not afraid to say he was taking part in the federal campaign.

It is this group which would consider any plan to tighten up the present voluntary program of curbing imports of foreign oil, a move protested by Canada.

The voluntary curbs have been in effect since last July 29. President Eisenhower set up the program on the recommendation of the committee.

The White House said at the time that mandatory controls might have to be imposed if the voluntary restrictions were not effective.

The purpose of limiting oil imports is to ensure domestic oil production will be maintained at a level sufficiently high to meet the nation's needs in the event of

Stock Market In New York Held Its Ground Last Week

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market held its ground last week, keeping its sizable gains of January.

The week brought a patchwork of good and bad corporate reports. There were better earnings and worse earnings; some raised dividends and some omitted or cut.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks rose 10 cents to $162.60.

Even as the general tone slipped quietly lower Thursday it was apparent that a good number of institutional investors were picking-up defensive-type stocks such as foods, tobaccos and drugs.

Meanwhile, the market as a whole was still nicely ahead on the week thanks to the good gains on the first two sessions.

Friday, however, the market slipped rather sharply, and all but washed out the bulge to the upside.

The week began with the news, already two days old, that the United States had launched her first earth satellite. This brought gains to the aircraft-missile group and spotlighted Chrysler, prime contractor for the Jupiter-C rocket, and North American Aviation, maker of the first stage rockets.

By the end of the week, Chrysler had lost 1 1/2% and North American 3/4%.
