It is in January that a small garden room heated just enough to keep the plants from freezing is a real joy to all who must work among plants for the twelve months in the year.

Each gift was duly recorded by a clerk with a notebook, and he also recorded the gifts in cash that came in. Everybody made some kind of contribution so that the newly weds had a good start in life.

There are many other features of Welsh life which were so essential in helping to keep the wolf from the door.

Journeys By Malenkov Seen Encouraging News

(By Tom Whitney, Associated Press Foreign Staff)

The report from diplomats that Soviet Premier Georgi Malenkov has been making quiet journeys about the U. S. S. R. is an encouraging piece of news.

One of the most dangerous features of Joseph Stalin's regime was its extreme isolation from the people and from Russian reality.

Stalin lived part of the time in his apartment in the Kremlin surrounded by thick brick walls and an army of security guards.

He forced his subordinates, including Malenkov, to ape his ways. These men had little opportunity to see or know Russia.

In this situation the Stalin government could launch programs inside and outside the country based on mistaken preconceptions of Russia's capabilities.

This had great dangers for the rest of the world as well as for Russia.

Malenkov is making his trips partly for political reasons. He wants Russians to feel that he is interested in their problems. But at the same time he perhaps feels the need himself to know more at first hand about conditions.

Trenet, appearing at an upper east side cabaret here, said the date of the wedding had not been set, but that it might be this week-end or next in New York.

IN MEMORIAM

MRS. MARGARET MacISAAC

She passed peacefully away at the home of her daughter in North Quincy, Mass., Mrs. Margaret MacIsaac, born at Brae, P. E. I., in 1869, daughter of the late Alexander MacDonald and beloved wife of the late Augustus MacIsaac who predeceased her nine years ago.

The late Mrs. MacIsaac in her valiant way and true Christian spirit, carried on her duties as usual and was one of the most highly respected citizens of Brae, where she lived until four years ago, when due to failing health she decided to come to U. S. A. to be near her family, and where she enjoyed reasonably good health up until several months ago, when she had a severe attack of arthritis, confining her to the chair and bed, at which time she was given the utmost in nursing care and comfort by her daughters who were with her day and night.

She was a woman of sterling qualities, strong character and high ideals and from her childhood she possessed a certain poise and refinement, which she maintained throughout her life, granting her the highest prestige, and endearing her to all who had the pleasure of knowing her. She was keenly interested in home, church and community affairs, always willing to do more than her share thus making her an example of the "perfect mother."

During her illness Mrs. MacIsaac was regularly attended by the devoted Reverend Francis X. Daniels of the Sacred Heart Church, North Quincy, whose encouraging words were of great comfort and consolation to her, to the end when, having received the last rites of the Roman Catholic Church, she resigned herself to the Will of the Creator and on December 20, she was called to her Eternal Reward.

She leaves to mourn five daughters and three sons: Beatrice (Mrs. Hansen); Mary (Mrs. Kilbride); Leo all of Summerville, Mass.; Flora (Mrs. Rowe) of Alberta; Plus of Nova Scotia; Rose (Mrs. McIver) of North Quincy, Mass.; Ruby (Mrs. Russell), Dorchester, Mass. and Alexander at home, also one brother Lemuel MacDonald of Brae, and three sisters, Rose, Katherine and Beatrice all of Dorchester, Mass.

After a solemn High Mass of Requiem at the Sacred Heart Church, with Rev. Daniels officiating, assisted by Father Geo. Wren and Father Joseph Murray and present within the sanctuary, Rev. Gerald Forkin O.M.I. (oblate Missionary Father), the remains were taken to the Holy Cross Cemetery in Malden, Mass., where a large concourse of friends and relatives paid their last respects to the deceased, who in life merited only the highest admiration and devotion of all.

Funeral services were held at 10 o'clock on Monday, January 19th, at the home of Mrs. E. L. O. L. and Victoria R. B. P. The following is a list of floral tributes received.

Strange But True

Weather Bureaus are now using girls' names to tag hurricanes. The use of girl's names makes it easier for radio men and weather bureau personnel to talk about and identify them.

The first letter of each storm's name begins with a different letter of the alphabet, and alphabetical order is being followed in naming the hurricanes as they develop.

Did you know that you can reduce heat once liquid "has boiled"? No matter how hard water boils, it never gets any hotter once it has reached the boiling point.

It was 24 years ago that 62 nations signed the Kellogg pact outlawing war. It proved to be almost as effective as the Scott prohibition amendment.

There is still a great deal of belief in curious prescriptions in Wales; illness, misfortune and witchcraft are closely associated together in the minds of most country people, and these superstitions, like the tales of fairies in this island, have without doubt descended from the very remotest days.

In by-gone days it used to be the custom in Wales for the whole neighborhood to turn out to enjoy a wedding. Sometimes the invitation was sent out in printed form; examples of "biddings" dated from the time of the First World War are preserved, while in other cases, a little time in advance, a man would go round to every farm to give notice of the approaching wedding.

He wore flowers in his hat, and he recited a long invitation in a doggerel verse ending with the request to all to "mark well the date, that the welcome be not blamed."

The day before the wedding took place the ladies of the district all went to the bride's home bringing with them wedding gifts.

The smithy's wife prepared the bride with a pair of fire-irons, the carpenter's wife a stool, the farmer's wives, jam and bread, and thus they helped to furnish and provision the home of the young couple.

Each gift was duly recorded by a clerk with a notebook, and he also recorded the gifts in cash that came in. Everybody made some kind of contribution so that the newly weds had a good start in life.
