French Fear New Flareup In Algeria

ALGIERS (AP)—French authorities fear a new flareup of Algerian rebel activity in a matter of weeks, possibly with the aid of Soviet arms. Rebel emissaries, according to the French, have been announcing there will be a military offensive before Ramadan, "thanks to the effective aid of African-Asian nations and the Soviet Union."

Ramadan, which starts March 22, is a month of religious significance to the Moslems. There is fasting from dawn to sunset daily. Most Algerians are Moslems.

The military offensive in Algeria is supposed to be coupled with stepped-up terrorist actions in continental France. Official French sources aid there are rebel concentrations in Tunisia, Morocco and Libya. The French fear the rebels are planning to strike against new oil-drilling sites in the Sahara.

Already, rebel attacks are mounting after a lull last fall. The French have reported an increased movement of nationalist emissaries across the country with instructions for concentration of rebel groups in areas where the French troops are less numerous.

The French also reported that the rebels are considering creation of an Algerian revolutionary government, which would get its backing from a number of Asian and African powers.

Supports Banks' Application For Citizenships

TORONTO (CP)—Gordon Cushing of Ottawa, vice-president of the Canadian Labor Congress Thursday night spoke out in support of Hal Banks' application for Canadian citizenship.

He told a Toronto and district labor council meeting: "Hal Banks is just as suitable as others who came here and decided to stay."

Mr. Banks was born in the United States and now is adviser to the Seafarers International Union with headquarters in Montreal.

In the House of Commons Wednesday, H. W. Herridge, CCF member for the British Columbia riding of Kootenay West, called for a government investigation into the personal finances and activities of Mr. Banks.

Mr. Herridge said reliable sources told him Mr. Banks owns SIU offices in Saint John, N.B., Toronto, Fort William, Thorold, Ont., and Montreal.

He also told the House that two porters on Canadian National Railways trains were quoted as saying they quit working on CNS ships because "Banks doesn't like niggers."

Mr. Cushing said the discrimination charge was one of the worst directed at Mr. Banks since he began his quest for Canadian citizenship. He said a Negro is one of Mr. Banks' most trusted lieutenants in Montreal and works as a placing officer in an SIU hiring hall.

In Montreal, Mr. Banks told a reporter the SIU hiring halls named in the Herridge charge are owned by the union. His application for Canadian citizenship was heard by a citizenship court in Montreal last August. A decision is expected within a few weeks.

Klansman Gets Suspended Term

LUMBERTON, N.C. (AP)—An Indian judge Wednesday convicted a Ku Klux Klansman of carrying a concealed weapon and of public drunkenness at a KKK rally near here last Saturday night—a rally broken up by shots fired by angry Indians.

Judge Lacy Manor gave Klansman James Garland Martin of Reidsville, N.C., a lecture before giving him a 60-day suspended sentence upon payment of a $60 fine and court costs.

"You came into a community where there is a happy, contented people who from on violence," the 55-year-old judge told Martin who, with about 50 others, had been chased off a field by a band of Lumbee Indians.

The Indians, incensed by reports that the Klan rally was intended as a warning to the town against "race mixing," had fired rifles and shotguns into the air and earth to break up the meeting. There were no serious injuries.

Late Diamond Magnate's Sister To Hear Will

ST. SAUVEUR DES MONTS, Que. (CP)—Mathilda Williamson, sister of the multi-millionaire diamond magnate, plans to leave "shortly" for Tanganyika to learn the terms of her brother's will. She declined to say when or how she will leave her small home in this community in the Laurentians, 35 miles north of Montreal, to go to Dar-Es-Salaam.

But she said she is going "as an heir." "I really couldn't say what the terms of the will are until I get there."

Her brother, Percy Boyd Williamson of Kelowna, B.C., and her sister, Mrs. Mary Miller of London, Eng., are already in Tanganyika. Their brother, Dr. John Williamson, died Jan. 7.

It was reported from Dar-Es-Salaam Friday that Dr. Williamson left 800 shares in his Mwadui diamond mine to his brother Percy and sister Mary. No mention was made of Miss Williamson who lives a quiet, publicity-shy life in this resort village.

I. C. Chopra, legal adviser to the late mine owner, owns 100 shares of the 1,200 shares issued in the diamond mine. Percy Williamson already owned 300 shares.

Courage, Science And Care Are Defeating Cancer

By ALTON L. BLAKESLEE
NEW YORK (AP)—Victories over cancer are coming from a triumvirate of scientists, physicians and courageous human volunteers.

In Philadelphia, a baby girl near death from leukemia wins a few months' reprieve with bone marrow borrowed from her twin sister.

In Chicago, a woman riddled with cancer is given a powerful chemical. Today, some 10 months later, she is doing her household work, has no symptoms of cancer, although she cannot be called cured.

In an Ohio prison, a man has a new, personal interest in medical science. He volunteered to have living cancer cells planted under his skin. He wasn't harmed. But he helped gain help bring vaccination against cancers.

CAUSED BY VIRUS?

In his laboratory, a Spanish born American scientist finds more evidence for the theory that viruses are the fundamental cause of human cancers.

These were but a few gains in 1957 from intensive, worldwide research to conquer cancer.

The search proceeds in a hundred directions. For cancer—this wild, brutal, uncontrolled growth—is nearly as complicated and challenging a mystery as life itself.

In broad outline, the year's main accomplishments and future promise lie in three directions—drug treatments, immunity, and search for causes of cancer.

Chemistry and cancer: Some new drugs now bring temporary or partial recoveries from leukemia (cancer of the blood) and sometimes other cancers.

Last summer, 20-month-old Laura MacDonald of Drexel Hill, Pa., was sinking fast from acute leukemia despite drugs. Physicians gave her a huge dose of radiation to destroy the diseased bone marrow underlying her leukemia.

Then they drew healthy bone marrow from the skin and hip bone of twin sister, Mary, and injected it into Laura's bloodstream. A month later she went home, with trace of leukemia.

WORLD'S LARGEST LOBSTER FARM

Overnight air-freighting of live lobsters across the Atlantic promises to increase considerably the market area for Maritime lobsters.

Pioneered by a St. Andrew's N.B. firm, the first test plane load of 210 cases-12,600 pounds—consigned to Brussels, was followed by orders for more.

Experts in the seaside province claim the new market is likely to develop a demand similar to the biggest metropolitan areas in North America.

PACKED IN SHAVINGS Packing the live crustaceans in dry wood shavings in lieu of the heavy ice and seaweed packing commonly used to keep the lobsters alive during long hauls, renders this venture economically sound, as the former packaging elements weighed more than the shellfish it protected.

The fact that live lobsters will "keep" in excellent condition for six days or more in this new type of packing was discovered by Canadian fisheries research scientists.

The initial shipment of "flying lobsters" came from the world's largest lobster farm shown above. Operated by Conley's Lobster Farm Ltd. of St. Andrew's, N.B., the giant pound has a capacity of 1,000,000 pounds of shellfish. Located on Deer Island near the entrance to the Bay of Fundy, the farm is divided by sluice gates into several sections. These gates allow the pound to be freshened twice a day by the high-rising Fundy tides.

Lobsters caught during the coastal fishing season are shipped to such farms and kept there to fill market demands legally at any time of the year.

In captivity the crustaceans are said to increase rapidly in size.

Unemployment Figures Given

By JOHN LEBLANC
Canadian Press Staff Writer
OTTAWA (CP)—Unemployment reached a new post-war high in early January.

Figures given by the Commons Monday by Labor Minister Michael Starr showed 796,371 persons looking for work with National Employment Service at Jan. 9, the largest number since the service was set up in 1940.

While the total does not indicate absolute unemployment, other government figures estimated a new mid-December high of unemployed at 386,000, a jump of almost one-third in a month.

President Claude Jodoin of the 1,000,000-member Canadian Labor Congress promptly announced the congress is launching an immediate survey of employment prospects for the next two months through union affiliates across the country.

"On the basis of these findings," he said, "we plan making formal representations to the government for further action to relieve unemployment."

"It is obvious that steps taken so far have failed to prevent serious suffering."

SITUATION "SERIOUS" "We are faced with a situation the seriousness of which can hardly be exaggerated," Jodoin said.

His statement came after a day of labor figures by the bureau of statistics and the labor department and by the minister of the Commons.

First, the bureau estimated those without jobs and seeking work at Dec. 14 as 386,000, compared with 292,000 a month earlier.
