MURDERED FOR INSURANCE.

Arrest in Connection with a Crime Committed Upwards of a Year Ago.

NEWARK, N. J. Nov. 30.—James A. Clemmer, of Norristown, Pa., is under arrest on a charge of murder. He admits his guilt. On October 26, 1896, Mrs. Emma P. Kaiser went driving near Norristown with her husband, Chas. O. Kaiser, James A. Clemmer and Elizabeth L. Dekalb. The start was made from the Kaiser homestead early in the morning, and that was the last seen of Mrs. Kaiser alive. Mrs. Kaiser had not lived with her husband for some time previously, but she had placed a $10,000 insurance policy on her life, and this accounted later to the police for the interest her husband took in her. On the same day Kaiser, Clemmer and the Dekalb woman returned with Mrs. Kaiser's dead body. They told a story of having been waylaid by highwaymen, Mrs. Kaiser being shot dead, and Kaiser himself being slightly wounded. The story was not believed, and Kaiser and the Dekalb woman were arrested, Clemmer making his escape. Kaiser was eventually sentenced to death. The Dekalb woman is now being held for trial. A personal has been inserted in a New York paper purporting to be from the Dekalb woman. Clemmer was a victim of the decoy and responded with a letter, which fell into the hands of the district attorney. He was easily located. Clemmer offered to go to Pennsylvania without waiting requisition papers.

One Peculiar Thing

About Johnsons Emulsion is that a dose from the top of the bottle, contains the same proportion of oil, as a dose from the bottom. Physiologists teach that fat is positively necessary for the body. All standard works teach that Cod Liver Oil is the most easily assimilated of all the fat.

JOHNSON'S EMULSION
Contains only the best Norway Cod Liver Oil, thoroughly emulsified, pleasantly flavored and freshly made.

WINTER COSTUMES.

While trimmed skirts are certainly newer than the plain ones, there are many very smart costumes made with skirts that have no trimming whatever, and which are severely plain and of medium width. The tailor-made gowns especially have the plain skirts quite as often as the trimmed ones. A peculiarly attractive model for a cloth gown has the plain skirt and short jacket trimmed with velvet and chinchilla fur. The jacket is belted in, and has a jaunty little basque, which is trimmed all around with a band of the chinchilla. Revers, wide at the top and tapering in at the waist-line, are bordered with the fur. The high collar has a band of the fur, and there is fur around the flaring cuffs. A fitted vest of gray velvet is one of the features of this gown. A smart gown of cashmere is made with the skirt slightly on train, and all fulness well towards the back. Around the foot of the skirt is a pattern braided in velvet ribbon. The waist is cut so as to give breadth, and yet tapers at the belt which is of folded velvet ribbon. Wide but short revers turn back sharply from the vest, and are faced with velvet, and the waist itself fastens across diagonally, with the edge finished with braiding to match the pattern on the skirt. The sleeves have three tucks across the puff. Quite like the old portraits when stocks were worn is the effect of the band around the throat of mousseline de soie with a bow-knot. The vest, also of the mousseline de soie, is shirred across horizontally.—Harper's Bazar.

The Australian colonies have until recently been very anxious to obtain immigrants from Europe, and many of them have paid large sums in aid of immigrants desiring to make Australia their home. This policy has built up these colonies rapidly, but a different spirit now seems to have taken possession of some of them. The legislature of New South Wales has passed a bill for the restriction of immigration, by absolutely forbidding colored persons, who are not British subjects from landing in that colony and by imposing an educational test on white immigrants.

What's the matter with our $10 overcoats? Have you seen it—well made; good trimmings, cut in the latest style and equal to any $18 custom made.—Prowse Bros.

FOR SALE. RARE CHANCE
The property occupied by J. J. Gay and son situate in the village of Pownal, 7 miles from Charlottetown, is offered for sale. The premises have carried on a large market garden nursery, and seed business for thirty years, and the purchaser will no doubt retain a large share of the local trade. The premises comprise a large dwelling house, store, warehouse, barn, shed, orchard, and about 15 acres of the most fertile land on the island. This land has been manured year after year, for so long that as an old man said the other day: "It is all a bed of manure and could be hauled for top-dressing." This would be an ideal spot for a country merchant, or it would be admirable for a summer resort. The situation is one of the most beautiful on the island. Good bathing, fishing, boating, shooting and within easy distance churches, post office school telephone and shops all at the door.
