SHOOT TO KILL

Word that at least one of the wanted men was in Montreal came Friday from Inspector Alex McCathie of the Toronto Detective Department.

McCathie had "information" that the man had headed for a Montreal apartment.

Four detectives found no one in the apartment when they went there Friday night. They waited about 10 P.M. Suchan came in alone. He became suspicious and drew a .45 revolver as the detectives showed themselves.

Before he could fire Det.-Sgt. Albert Dauphin pumped three shots. The first struck Suchan in the chest and spun around. The bandit still tried to use his gun. Dauphin's next shot struck Suchan in the arm and thigh.

When Suchan's gun arm struck the floor Dauphin kicked the revolver from his hand.

Suchan, with a show of bravado, asked the detectives why they didn't finish him off with a bullet in the head.

Mount Allison University. In a debate against St. Thomas University of Chatham for the Maritime title Allan MacDonald and Walter Reid were victorious.

It was the same team of MacDonald and Reid who defeated the University of Montreal in the Ottawa Friday night. Walter Reid is a senior year Arts student, and is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Reid, Stanley Bridge. Allan MacDonald is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Allan MacDonald, Douglas St., Charlottetown and is a sophomore student.

At Ottawa they were accompanied by Mr. Brendan O'Grady, M.A., Professor at English at Saint Dunstan's. The debaters and Mr. O'Grady will return to the Island this morning, arriving at the local airport at 7:35. They will be met by a delegation representing the students and members of the Faculty.

The debate was held under the chairmanship of Hon. Thibaudeau Rinfret, Chief Justice of the Supreme Court of Canada.

OTTAWA, March 9—(CP)—A debating team from St. Dunstan's University, Charlottetown, won the Canadian debating championship here Saturday night beating a team from Ottawa's St. Patrick's College in the finals.

St. Dunstan's team of Walter Reid and Allan MacDonald were champions of the Maritime Debating League and previously defeated a university of Montreal team, champions of the French-speaking League.

In the opinion of the judges that St. Dunstan team was more convincing in defending the negative position of St. Pat's James Tooley and Jack Manion on the subject "Resolved that Canada should have a bill of rights."

Judges were Jean T. Richard, Liberal member of Parliament for Ottawa East, Redmond Quin, a Queen's Counsellor and G. B. Johnson, professor of English at Ottawa's Carleton College. Chief Justice Thibaudeau Rinfret was chairman.

The championship debate was sponsored by the Canadian University Debating Association.

WESTMORELAND W. I. On Tuesday, March 4th, the members of the Westmoreland W.I. held their regular monthly meeting at the home of Mrs. James Moore. The vice-president, Mrs. Verner Moore, presided in the absence of the president, opening the meeting in the usual manner.

Due to bad roads and sickness members were in attendance. Minutes of the last meeting which was held at Mrs. Wrixon Moore's, were adopted as read. Unfinished business of coat hooks to be put in school was brought up, and Red Cross material was received and distributed to members present.

Reports of committees present were heard and all committees re-appointed for next month with the exception of lunch.

New committee for lunch is Mrs. Eddie Trowsdale, Mrs. Roy Crossman, and Mrs. Eldon Leard. One new member joined and paid dues.

Correspondence was read and dealt with and other literature was handed out to members. It was moved and seconded to give $500 to the Red Cross collector in district. A bill of 50c was presented for dust-pan and paid. Mrs. Robert Mayhew then kindly invited members to her home for April meeting with the roll call to be answered with Spring Decorating Hints. Collection for the evening amounted to 70c. Dues 25c and other receipts 25c. On motion the meeting adjourned, after which lunch was served and a social hour spent.

Returns From Ottawa Meeting Co-op Union

One of the biggest developments occurring in the Co-operative movement is in the field of insurance, said Mr. Leo P. McIsaac, who just returned last week from the 43rd Annual Congress of the Co-operative Union of Canada which was held in Ottawa.

Mr. McIsaac pointed out that this was the only insurance in Canada where the insurance part of the movement was not in operation. It concerns mainly life and casualty insurance and over $7 million was put into effect in new insurance last year.

He said that though the total business of the Co-op movement in Canada was down approximately $4 million last year over the previous year, there was a considerable increase in consumer buying.

Overall decrease was attributed to the non-marketing of low quality Western grain.

In reference to the insurance field Mr. McIsaac said that one of the advantages of co-operative insurance was the fact that all premium savings accumulated through payments were invested in the Province from which they were received.

In other words, he stated, the people investing the money have some measure of control over its spending.

One of the features of the Ottawa convention was a panel discussion dealing with the "Colombo Plan". It is described as a system whereby the "have not" countries received aid from C.A.R.E. with special attention paid to the supplying of farm equipment. The idea behind the plan, Mr. McIsaac said, was to get more farmers into the farm production of the countries being helped. The aid is paid for by the United Nations with Canada playing a big part in supplying large numbers of technically trained men needed to carry out the plan.

During the many discussions and speeches heard while the congress was in progress, Mr. McIsaac noted a particular item which may have a tremendous bearing on the future of the world's economy.

It is in talks that the higher the standard of education of a country, and the higher the rate of production, the lower the birth rate was.

Mr. McIsaac was attending the congress representing Mr. Louis O'Connor, New London, who was unable to be present but who was elected a director of the Co-operative Union of Canada for the coming term. Present at Ottawa was J. G. Dennis, secretary of the P. E. I. Co-operative Union, who acted as a delegate, and Rev. William Simpson, director of S.D.U. Extension Department.

During his absence from the Province Mr. McIsaac attended the annual meeting of the Capital Co-operative Union, Fredericton, N.B., where he was the guest speaker.

The Capital is the largest farmer co-operative in the Maritimes and last year its sales volume was approximately $1,800,000. Although it has no consumer stores it deals in all products ranging from pulpwood to machinery.

At the annual dinner of the Union held last week at the Chateau Laurier, the guest speaker was Mr. L. B. Pearson, Secretary of State for External Affairs. He told the group that the first objective of the Canadian foreign policy is the problem of our national security.

In referring to the modern "shrinkage" of the world he said that the phrase "East and West" now marked a cultural and economic difference rather than a geographical separation. Mr. Pearson said that the real hope of saving the millions of Asians from hunger and hardship depends not upon importing food from abroad, but upon increasing the productivity of the lands of their own countries.

Fine Showing Made By Canadian Jerseys

TORONTO, March 8—Canadian Jersey cattle exhibited for the first time at the International Exhibition held last week in Havana, Cuba, made practically a clean sweep of their classes, it was reported today. The entire exhibit of 81 Jerseys was sold in Cuba.

The cattle were shown by Hays Ltd., of Oakville, Ont. Hays won the grand champion male with the young bull, Manor Avon Val's Bas, bred by William Davies & Son, Palermo, Ont.

Judge Dr. W. W. Yapp of Urbana, Ill., internationally known dairy authority, described the young bull as "one of the best I have ever seen at that age."

Reserve grand champion female was Fairmount Havana Queen, winning senior heifer calf. She was bred by George H. Innes, Fairmount Farm, Woodstock, Ont., whose herd also furnished several other winners, including four animals, set of one sire, the highlight of this section of the show. These animals were sired by Mr. Innes' herd sire, Brampton Jett Beacon. Best pair of heifer calves was Fairmount Jester Beacon's Helen and Fairmount Havana Queen. The winning group of five bull and two females also came from the Innes herd as did the first prize senior heifer calf. The first prize senior heifer calf was Fairmount Havana Queen. Second prize in the same class went to Basil's Pilgrim's Spot—the heifer calf sired by Harry Gainer, Ballymore, Ont.—in the Canadian Jersey Cattle Club building fund sale in 1951 and purchased by Hays. Heifers from the Innes herd also won both the senior and junior yearling classes.

James Bremner, executive secretary of the Canadian Jersey Cattle Club, pointed out the fact that the Canadian Jerseys made such an outstanding showing and were all sold in Cuba will do a great deal to stimulate world-wide interest in Canadian livestock.

Marketing Board Makes Appeal

The P. E. I. Potato Marketing Board has appealed to the Supreme Court of Canada the decision of the Supreme Court of this Province declaring invalid its activities. The decision was handed down by the P. E. I. Supreme Court on January 31.

At that time it was decided that the delegation of Federal powers was invalid because the Board being a purely provincial "creature" was not responsible to the Parliament of Canada and thus could not receive any delegated powers.

Mr. H. F. McPhee, Q.C., counsel for the Board, said that the necessary deposit of $500,000 had been made in Ottawa last week to cover the costs of the appeal.

German Capital Jams Animals And People In Landlord Paradise

BONN, March 9—(AP)—Big pens and chicken yards lie within the shadow of West Germany's parliament building.

Sheep regularly invade the parliamentary lawn to nibble the green grass.

Guards recently shot a boar in the grounds of the Presidential Palace. They cooked and ate it.

Bonn is a somewhat rustic capital—and has many oddities. Three years ago it was a quiet little university town, half-destroyed by the war, best known as the birthplace of Beethoven.

Then the new German Government and the three Allied high commissions and diplomats of many countries swooped in, giving it a boomtown atmosphere.

Parliament was plunked into a rhine river. The parliamentarians work in a goldfish bowl. In the summer there is a beer garden just outside the glass-walled chamber where they meet. Plump German women eat their cream cakes there and stare at the parliamentarians in action. Debate is punctuated by the "toot, toot" of barges chugging past on the Rhine.

Bonn is a four-currency town. All the foreigners carry German money and the special occupation scrip issued by Britain, the United States and France.

Landlord's Paradise

There are almost more barracks than buildings in Bonn. It's one of the oldest garrison towns in Europe.

That is one reason Bonn became the capital. The Germans could find no place to put their new government in 1949. So somebody said, "Let's put it in all those barracks in Bonn."

They did—and Bonn became a paradise for landlords. It's now a place where nobody dares admit his wife is dead because he would be swamped with 1,400 applications to rent her room.

Even the parliament building is so tiny that only a handful of its members have private offices. Most of them conduct their business in the lounge. This is being remedied with a new seven-story "skyscraper."

Throughout the city, Jerry-built structures are springing up along the worn, cobblestone streets in a mad rush to provide quarters for government offices and workers.

Transportation, the telephone system and night life aren't keeping abreast of Bonn's booming expansion.

The streetcars are so overcrowded that Chancellor Konrad Adenauer's secretary plugs along to work every morning on a bicycle. The town's telephone switchboard became so jammed the dial system was scrapped for new telephones.

As for the night life, there are only three night clubs and six bars in Bonn. The city health clinic says there are eight professional street walkers.

ANGLO RUSTICO W. I.

The Anglo-Rustico W.I. met at the home of Mrs. Cyril Toombs on Tuesday, March 4, and the meeting opened with the "ode" and "collect" followed by the roll call which was answered by a supper dish. The minutes were read and approved.

The quilt was not sold and it was decided to bring all of the quilt patterns to the next meeting. The remaining remnants were sold and the "Institute News" was subscribed for by the members.

The sick committee reported no calls and the school committee reported nothing needed. The new committees are: School, Mrs. Noel Hooper (re-appointed); sick, Mrs. Reid Stevenson; and Mrs. Edson Rollins; programme, Mrs. Blair Rollins; and Mrs. N. Hooper; refreshment Mrs. R. Stevenson and Mrs. Roland Buntain. The next meeting is to be held at the home of Mrs. G. R. LePage.

The correspondence consisted of a receipt from the Polio Fund letter concerning the meeting to be held in Stella Maria Hall in Education Week. A letter concerning membership fees, a letter concerning Education from Mrs. Edward Laughlin, a letter from Mrs. Lawson who is president of A.T.C. and a letter from the Red Cross. Nanne Coles was appointed to collect for the Red Cross and the collection amounted to 70c.

The roll call for the next meeting is to be answered by an April Fool joke.

The meeting closed with "The Queen" after which games and contests were presented by the committee in charge.

A very delicious lunch was served by the hostess and committee in charge.
