WRECK BLOCKS LINE

WILMINGTON, Del. (AP)—The first 11 cars of a 39-car Pennsylvania Railroad freight train jumped the rails north of Wilmington early Monday, blocking all four tracks of the railroad's main line between Philadelphia, Washington and New York. All trains, including commuters, operated up to an hour late as the railroad re-routed some traffic and used buses to get passengers past the wreck.

The work involved will be to construct a two story extension with basement on the rear of the present building, approximately 30 feet back and the full width of the building. The main floor is to be completely gutted, the present partitions and elevator to be removed.

A complete new modern storefront is to replace existing one. The general layout of the main floor, when completed, will be similar to that of other Dominion Stores.

The work of remodeling is expected to start at an early date.

Steelers Pull Surprise; Select Unknown In Draft

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Pittsburgh Steelers passed over three of the nation's top college football players to select a 25-year-old defensive quarterback as their bonus Monday in the National Football League partial player draft.

Coach Walter Kiesling of the Steelers named Gary Glick, a comparative unknown from Colorado A and M College, after Dan Rooney, club personnel director and son of owner Art Rooney, drew the lucky slip from the hat.

Green Bay and the Chicago Cardinals were the other participants in the annual bonus selection, but their representatives never got a chance to stick their anxious hands in the hat held by NFL commissioner Bert Bell. Rooney was the first to pick and he came up with the winning slip.

Under league rules, each team winning the bonus choice — a gimmick initiated by Bell in 1947—drop out until every club has had a chance to become the lucky selector. Next year, the Cards and Green Bay will vie for the big prize.

The clubs went through only three of the annual 30 rounds in the pro player draft. This early drafting was decided upon in order to meet competition from Canada in signing American's top gridiron talent. The NFL usually drafts in January while the Canadians get busy in late November.

After Pittsburgh dropped its bombshell by picking Glick, the draft quickly grabbed the players everyone thought were sure-fire bonus material. San Francisco and Detroit, tied for last place in the league standing, tossed a coin for first choice and unhesitatingly named Earl Morrall, the brilliant quarterback in Michigan State's multiple offense.

Detroit picked Howard Hopalong Cassidy, rugged running halfback from Ohio State's Big Ten champions, and Philadelphia Eagles grabbed Bob Pellegrini, the standout University of Maryland linebacker.

In all, the pro drafted 37 players from 25 colleges and universities.

Stress Value Of Sea Foods At Rustico Meeting

Mr. E. M. Gorman, Director of Fisheries, addressing members of the P. E. Island Fisheries Association at a well-attended meeting in Stella Maris Hall, North Rustico on Monday night, explained the relative food value of sea products as compared with agricultural products.

With an expanded market for nutritious sea food, Mr. Gorman saw possibilities of what could be done in fisheries plants. His talk dealt almost entirely with in-shore fishing in which his audience is particularly interested. Mr. Bert Blaquiere urged the members of the organization to co-operate more closely with each other so that everyone would bear equally in carrying out the designs of the Association.

Rev. William Simpson also spoke briefly touching on matters of routine dealt with chiefly by the Executive.

The meeting was presided over by Mr. Charles Richards, Secretary of the Association. Mr. E. F. Campbell, Inspector under the Fisheries Loan Board was also in attendance.

Predict Reds Aggressive Short Of Nuclear War

OTTAWA (CP)—Officials here apparently believe that Russia intends to pursue an aggressive policy against the West—short of nuclear war—by an indirect approach.

This belief is emerging more clearly in the statements by Western Affairs Minister Pearson since his return from Russia earlier this month.

Mr. Pearson said last week in a television interview, a transcript of which was made available Tuesday:

"The (Russians) have the hydrogen bomb and they know the effect of the hydrogen bomb and I was told more than once by these (Soviet) leaders that in a war of that kind we would all be exterminated."

Officials said they feel that East and West have reached a nuclear stalemate, that they would be able to destroy each other with hydrogen bombs. So there is less likelihood of a thermonuclear war that leaves the possibility of so-called small wars such as Korea and Indochina.

What would the West do in event say, that the Communists used force against Iran?

There is a feeling here that the free nations would not be prepared to throw the first hydrogen bomb or retaliate massively against Russia unless the Soviets attacked a major NATO nation.

At this point, one arrives at the policy of measured retaliation of which Mr. Pearson is an exponent. This policy would mean that if necessary the West would fight Russia not by massive retaliation but in a local war with tactical atomic weapons. Tactical weapons can be described as those used on near battlefields, a strategic weapon such as the H-bomb, against centres of population and industry.

NUCLEAR STALEMATE

Should be on guard

"They are not going to risk that kind of war but they probably haven't given up the pursuit of their objective by any means short of that kind of war, so we should be on our guard."

Mr. Pearson has also said that the North Atlantic Alliance has blocked Russian designs on Europe and forced the Soviets to thrust toward the Middle East and South Asia.

Officials said there are already several indications of this Russian strategy to outflank the West: Supply of Communist arms to the Arab states, offers of economic aid.

WILMINGTON WITH NORTH
Nordegg, who lived for many years in Ottawa, was a friend of Marconi. However, the inventor never was able to intrust Nordegg in putting money in radio.

Nordegg was at one time an associate of former Prime Minister B. Bennett and once wrote a report on the Canadian fuel situation for Bennett's Conservative government.

His trips in the North were undertaken mainly to gather information about the possibilities of natural resources developments.

OBJECT OF WAR IS PEACE

In a series of lectures at Princeton University last spring, Mr. Pearson said the object of war is victory but it is not the whole truth.

"The slogan can become indeed mental camouflage for mental laziness... It leads in short to the experience which we know too well of winning the war and failing to win the peace. And it is peace, even more than victory, which is the ultimate object of war."

If suicide by hydrogen were to be made less of a possibility, the West should try to develop a doctrine of "reasonable or measured retaliation."

"If force is used against you, that does not necessarily justify using more force. It leads in short to the experience which we know too well of winning the war and failing to win the peace. And it is peace, even more than victory, which is the ultimate object of war."

10TH ANNUAL GOT CANADIAN TOURISTS

George V. Fraser, director of Prince Edward Island travel Bureau, said his province had already done some advertising and 61 per cent of P. E. I. tourists were Canadians. Earl Clark, director of industrial and tourist promotion for Nova Scotia, said 60 per cent of the tourists visiting his province were Canadians.

Mr. Clark, dealing with promotional films, proposed a motion that the National Film Board improve the quantity and quality of films made on the Maritime provinces. He later withdrew the motion when Mr. Dolan, acting as chairman, said a national conference should not adopt a motion calling for special treatment for one area.

Mr. Dolan said he would bring the matter up with film board commissioner A. W. Trueman. He suggested that perhaps the provinces should be consulted by the film board about planned film projects in their areas.

Source Material For Stories On Northwest

OTTAWA (CP)—The memoirs of German-born Martin Nordegg, Canadian financier, explorer and map collector who died in 1948, have been turned over to the Public Archives by his widow.

The documents include about 500 typewritten pages of notes about the places he saw and the people he met in his journeys in northern Ontario, Saskatchewan and Alberta.

Nordegg, who came to Canada in 1906, was one of the pioneers of the northern Ontario mining town of Cobalt. The northern Alberta town of Nordegg was named after him.

Mrs. Nordegg, who now lives in New York, has also undertaken to search for her late husband's collection of maps and voluminous correspondence—some of it with

Province of Prince Edward Island DEPARTMENT OF HIGHWAYS S-D DAY

1 December, 1955 has been proclaimed SAFE DRIVING DAY in Canada and the United States.

People in Prince Edward Island are requested to make special efforts in the cause of safety, particularly on this one day.

In Canada during the last year, 2,586 people were killed and approximately another 60,000 were injured. Let us, in Prince Edward Island, not contribute to this awful National total. The old slogan, "DRIVE SAFELY. THE LIFE YOU SAVE MAY BE YOUR OWN", is more true now than ever.

J. GEORGE MacKAY,
Minister of Highways

SHOWS REASONS FOR S-D DAY

The price of unsafe driving. Before SD or Safe Driving Day, Dec. 1st, Phil Barlow, of the Motor Vehicle Branch points out to Const. J. T. Murrant, R.C.M.P. highway patrol, and George Scoblebury, traffic safety chairman, Charlottetown Junior Board of Trade.

SD Day is being observed in every Province and it is hoped to demonstrate that it is possible to have an accident-free day if everyone makes a point of observing the common sense rules of highway safety. R.C.M.P. Picture

Appeals For Observance Of S-D Day For Safety

The following press release has been issued by Inspector W. H. Nevin, Commanding "L" Division R. C. M.P.

"S-D (Safe Driving) Day is Thursday, December 1st. It is being conducted simultaneously in Canada and the entire United States. This is a very worthwhile effort, which will receive the approval and support of every Police Force in both countries. We join with the Canadian Highway Safety Conference and other authorities responsible for promoting the observance of this Day in requesting all motorists and pedestrians to do their part.

"The test confronting every community will be to remain completely free of traffic accidents during the twenty-four hour period. No traffic programme, regardless of how well organized, will succeed without the co-operation of the public.

"It is a proven fact that 85 per cent of all motor vehicle accidents are due to human behaviour. In other words, all that is necessary to reduce the terrible accident toll is for motorists and pedestrians to observe the letter and spirit of all traffic regulations, be courteous to every driver and pedestrian, practice sportsmanship and give full attention in driving and walking. Walk and drive carefully—the life you save may be your own."
