SUDDEN DEATH.—We regret to have to record another sudden death. John McMillan, a shoemaker living at Mount Stewart, is the victim. It seems that while Mr. McMillan was cutting wood in his yard on Tuesday night he suddenly fell, and remain unconscious until his death, which took place twenty-four hours later. Mr. McMillan was about 60 years of age, and came to Mount Stewart from Cape Breton about four years ago. He leaves a widow.

QUEEN IDEAS OF JUSTICE.—In a city in the vicinity of Boston, a few days ago, a man who had cruelly beaten a four-month-old infant, was dismissed from the court-room with no other penalty than the nominal sentence of being put upon probation. The same day, in another Massachusetts city, a man who had tied a tin kettle to a dog's tail was fined $25. These are the differing ideas of justice in points not far apart. The dog seems to have been a better worthy of protection than the infant. And the dog was not assaulted and bruised; he was only tortured in his sense of fear.

MARRIAGE BELLS.

With very great pleasure we to-day announce the marriage of two well-known and deservedly popular young people—Mr. G. Chester Acorn and Miss Mary Ella Fairclough. The ceremony was performed at the residence of the bride's mother last evening in the parlour of the immediate friends of the contracting parties. Miss Lillie Fairclough was bridesmaid and Mr. John W. S. McLeod groomsmen. Rev. G. C. P. Palmer, pastor of the Second Methodist Church, was the officiating clergyman. The bride looked charming in a suit of electric blue mohair trimmed with white moire silk; and the bridesmaid was becomingly attired in pearl grey cashmere trimmed with dark green velvet. The presents were many and elegant. Messrs. Stanley Bros., in whose store the bride was employed for several years, presented a beautiful silk dress, and the groom a silver cake basket and cruet. Messrs. Provse Bros., in whose establishment the groom is employed as a salesman, presented an elegant dinner set of 111 pieces and the employes' present consisted of a marble clock. The Bethany Band in connection with the Second Methodist Church, of which the bride is an active member, presented a handsome brass band. The bride's best wishes for a happy and prosperous journey through life are extended to Mr. and Mrs. Acorn.

Little York was the scene of a very interesting event last evening, when quite a large number of friends and relatives from the city gathered at the residence of William Large, Esq., to witness the marriage of Miss Sarah Essery, of this city, to Mr. Arthur R. Wheeler. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Silas James, assisted by the Rev. J. W. Kierstead, of Pownal. The bride was handsomely attired in a cream suit, which looked very pretty. The bridesmaids were Miss Fanny J. Wise, daughter of Joseph Wise, Esq., M. L. A., and Miss Sophia J. Essery, sister of the bride, while the groom was supported by Mr. J. S. Wheatley, brother of the groom, and Mr. S. G. Clow, son of the Hon. James Clow. The presents were numerous and costly. The EXAMINER extends its congratulations.

In Jersey City, on Tuesday evening, Miss Ruth Anna Tully was married to Dr. Norman Wright Leard, at the residence of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Walter S. Tully, 63 Atlantic Street. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. D. J. Ellison. A wedding march was played by Mrs. Kortwright as the wedding party entered the parlour, which were decorated with national colors and flowers. The groom and his best man, Mr. G. Frew, led the way. The bridesmaid, Miss Maud Weaver, followed, and the bride came last on the arm of her father. She was attired in white satin, trimmed with chiffon and orange blossoms, and carried a bouquet of white hyacinths. Miss Weaver, who is a cousin of the bride, was gowned in pink silk and carried a bouquet of pinks. A reception was held after the ceremony, and supper was served. Mr. W. Haring was pianist. After a short trip the couple will go to housekeeping in a newly furnished house. A large number of invited guests were present at the ceremony.—Evening Journal, Jersey City, N. J., Jan. 3.

[Dr. Leard is a native of Tryon. After teaching school at Port Hill for some time with marked success, he left that profession to study dentistry, and graduated from the Philadelphia Dental College, leading a class of sixty. He has built up a good practice at Jersey City, where he located some four years ago.]

The Educational Review, to hand this morning, contains an article on "Francis B. St. John, Naturalist." It says: "Not only in his native Province, but in the Dominion at large, his early death will be deeply regretted. Science loses in Mr. Bain one of her most earnest admirers and devoted students."

At the recent examinations at Dalhousie College, Halifax, Murray McNeill, son of Rev. L. G. McNeill, passed all his competitors in the third year. His marks were 86, and the next highest 69. Mr. McNeill also entered for several of the examinations with the fourth year students and was successful in coming out tie for first place.

Mr. Alexander Lawson, of Yarmouth, celebrated his eightieth birthday on Tuesday last. Mr. Lawson has been the editor, publisher and proprietor of the Yarmouth Herald for more than sixty years. Mr. Lawson was a printer by trade before he became an editor at the age of nineteen. The Herald is an excellent opposition journal. We congratulate its editor.

INFORMATION FOR THE MORNING ORGAN.

Sir,—The attention of the editor of the Guardian is respectfully called to the fact that the province of Prince Edward Island is bounded on the north by the Gulf of St. Lawrence and on the south by the Northumberland Strait. The "ocean" referred to in its explanatory article re its proposed straight electric line from Souris to Tignish exists only in the imagination of its editor, whose ignorance of the geography of this province is only equalled by the efforts he makes to "clarify the logic" of his inexplicable editorials.

QUIZ.

SPARE REALISM.—Boston is talking about a startling effect in the new melodrama, "Humanity," produced by Wm. A. Brady in that city. It springs out of the explosion of a bomb which shatters a house in which are the imprisoned good people of the play. Immediately after the concussion, the background becomes a mass of lurid light which throws into relief the crumbling structure, which tumbles with a terrific crash.

THE SAILOR'S LOVE.

Singing on a mild May morning, Plain and woodland-carth adorning, Singing gladdest roundelay, Gayest of the girl-band gay; Singing lone, yet lonely never, Singing by the crystal river,— Shore-bound copes ringing ever, Magic music, sweet and wild; Artless singers, bird and child.

Music in mid-summer glory, Dreamy, dazing, golden story, Melody of maiden's song, Merriest of the maiden throng; Melody beside the river, Where the shade and sunlight quiver 'Neath the willow's breeze-born shiver Sings a maiden—child no more— Weaving chaplets by the shore.

Music thro' the copes trilled, Autumn's stilly twilight filled; Flute-sweet notes, yet strangely sad; Child and maiden, she was glad— Woman now, beside the river, Sad and strange her song forever, Standing 'neath the waving willow Gazing o'er the distant billow.

Hide and seek the moon is playing, Snow clouds o'er her bosom straying, Snow flakes dancing o'er the lake, Hooding white the willow tree, Song at midnight on the river, Song of welcome first to give her— Captain shouting "Hail to shore!" Bronzed boy—sailor now no more.

Hushed the song upon the billow, Someone wailed 'neath the willow; Captain, joyous as of yore, Springs in rapture to the shore. Moonbeams dance upon the river, 'Neath the snow-veiled willow quiver, Linger on the marble stone, Where he reads her name alone.

Hushed the song upon the billow, Through the copes 'neath the willow, 'Neath the snow mound by the river, Hushed the sweet, sad song forever.
