

Says Hospital Plan Good But Financing Is Unfair

SUMMERSIDE — Carl Hamilton, national secretary of the CCF, said here yesterday that the CCF welcomes the federal government's hospital scheme, but said that the method of financing it is not a fair one. Mr. Hamilton, currently on a three-day visit to the Island, said the scheme is an "advance in social legislation," but too large a part of the financing falls on provincial governments. He contended a much larger share of the cost should be borne by the federal government which has a wider source of revenue. He said the federal government is the only government capable of levying taxes on an ability to pay basis. In this way, he said, the wealthier areas of the nation would pay more. The CCF secretary maintained that the plan is by no means a complete one. He said it should only be regarded as the first step in a plan to provide medical care for everyone, regardless of financial means.

Debate Whether Ottawa Girls Are Sad Sacks

By CAROLYN WILLET
Canadian Press Staff Writer
OTTAWA (CP)—Are the capital's girls sartorial sad sacks? A Briton thinks so, some government girls think so and an Ottawa hostess said "no."

A young bachelor company president edged just enough of a noncommittal comment to give the girls a boost. "Per capita, I think the girls in Ottawa are just as well dressed as girls in any other capital city," said J. Barry O'Brien, the eligible company president.

Mr. O'Brien and several other Ottawans questioned in a short sample survey, were commenting on a statement made in London Wednesday by Sir David Eccles, president of Britain's board of trade.

NOT WELL DRESSED
Sir David told reporters the girls of Ottawa are "not at all well dressed."

He said he hopes Britain's clothing manufacturers will be able to do something about it. Ruth Addison, Canada's first woman civil service commissioner, said she has been impressed by the number of well-dressed girls she has seen while visiting government offices.

A couple of government girls—who preferred to remain anonymous—agreed with Sir David. The hostess, Mrs. D. B. Cruikshank, didn't agree with Sir David at all. She said she believes Ottawa women are well dressed. She said Ottawa has been noted for its smart and well-dressed women.

MacKenzie Not Guilty Of Criminal Negligence

SUMMERSIDE BUREAU OF THE GUARDIAN
John Angus MacKenzie of Brice, was found not guilty of criminal negligence in Supreme Court here yesterday by a petit jury who deliberated slightly more than three quarters of an hour.

MacKenzie was charged with criminal negligence (motor manslaughter) in the death of Ernest Brown on the night of June 19th at Bloomfield Corner.

Evidence in the trial was completed early yesterday afternoon and after the jury was addressed by counsel and the charge delivered by Mr. Justice G.J. Tweedy, the jury retired at 4:12 p.m. to consider the evidence.

D.O. Stewart, Q.C., was crown prosecutor while J. Watson MacNaught, Q.C., was counsel for the accused.

POINTS STRESSED
According to law the defence counsel has the privilege of delivering the final address to the jury when there are no defence witnesses called to testify. Mr. Stewart's address was followed by that of Mr. MacNaught who spoke to the jurors for 22 minutes, during which he stressed there was no evidence produced by the crown to show that the MacKenzie car had struck Brown.

Unexplained also he said were the reasons for the body of Brown being found 18 feet in front of the MacKenzie car, which according to evidence came to a halt in a field 197 feet from where the tracks allegedly left the edge of the pavement. Also the evidence that one of Browns shoes was found 150 feet further along the highway from where the MacKenzie car allegedly left the pavement.

CHARGES JURY
In his charge to the jury Judge Tweedy told them their biggest problem was to connect the death of Ernest Brown with the car accident of the accused.

Crown witnesses heard yesterday were Ian Strang, Hazen Silliker and Clifford Seaman, all of O'Leary, who, along with Gerald Yeo had asked MacKenzie to drive them to Alberton.

MacKenzie did take them part of the way, although Strang drove the vehicle most of the distance. Also Albert Saunders, Bloomfield Corner, who was the first man on the scene, Claude MacKenna, Bloomfield Corner who lives near the scene, Joseph Pineau, attendant at the Bloomfield Legion home where Brown has visited earlier in the evening and E. Turner, O'Leary who examined the MacKenzie vehicle.
