Commons Group Debates Brief's Interpretation

OTTAWA (CP)—Members of the Commons veterans affairs committee argued Thursday over interpretation by The Canadian Press of a Canadian Legion brief submitted to the committee Wednesday.

The CP story said: "The Canadian Legion today charged the Canadian Pension Commission with lax administration."

The Legion brief cited seven cases of commission "failure to search records, failure to assess properly evidence on file, administrative error and unjust presumption being drawn against (pension) applicants."

Walter Tucker (L—Rosthern), committee chairman, said at the start of Thursday's sitting: "I think every member of the committee would agree that the press misunderstood the brief of the legion."

He said the legion had brought forward the cases not as an indication of general laxity on the part of the commission but to substantiate its claim that pensions, when granted, should be made retroactive to date of application.

The CP story quoted Dr. C. B. Lumsden, legion president, as saying that the number of cases was small compared to the total number of pension claims handled by the commission.

"SHOULDN'T MINIMIZE" A. J. Brooks (PC—Royal) told Mr. Tucker: "... I would rather think you have misunderstood, too, the brief of the legion."

He said the legion was arguing against deletion of sections in the pension act which would reduce the maximum period for making pensions retroactive to 18 months from three years.

"I do not think we should minimize it (the legion brief) by saying there were only seven cases quoted here. As I understood the evidence Wednesday, the witness giving evidence did not know how many more cases there were."

Frank Enfield (L—York-Scarborough): "He did not say that."

Mr. Brooks: "I remember him saying there were only 11 (other) cases that he had with him and he said there were a great many which did not come to their attention at all. I do not think this committee should try to correct the press."

H. W. Herridge (CCF—Kootenay West) said a headline on the CP story—he did not specify the newspaper—was "out of proportion to the story."

Earlier, Mr. Tucker mentioned two headlines on the story but did not comment on them. The Ottawa Journal headline said: "Legion Plans Pension Board." The Montreal Gazette headline said: "Legion Scores Laxity of Pension Board."

Mr. Herridge said: "It is most unfortunate to have Biggest Gain of Year Expected in Iron Production in U.S.

NEW YORK, (AP)—This week should see the biggest gain in steel production so far this year, the Iron Age, national metal-working weekly, says.

Operations in the United States are scheduled at 73 per cent of rated capacity, up 2½ points from last week, the magazine said. This would bring the production index to 108.3, highest since the third week in February.

The Iron Age attributes the pick-up to six factors: 1. Business is better. 2. Inventories of additional consumers have been whittled to desired levels. 3. Some consumers are placing orders as a hedge against a possible strike. 4. Some are placing orders as a hedge against steel price increases resulting from a wage settlement. 5. Some are ordering steel because they are worried about the international situation. 6. Some either have received or expect to receive additional defence orders.

There will be a moderate softening of the market during the summer if the wage question is settled peaceably, the Iron Age predicts.
