FAT AND LEAN

That is, babies: fat, they are happy and safe; lean, they are neither happy nor safe.

Apart from being entirely healthy or not quite well, a fat one has much reserve of vital strength to resist any sudden attack, while the lean one has little or no reserve.

The way to be fat and well is Scott's emulsion of cod-liver oil. A little: only a little. Not any, if healthy and plump already; "let well enough alone."

We'll send you a little to try if you like. SCOTT & BOWNE, Chemists, Toronto.

PERFUME.

The history of a fashionable scent is as interesting as a love story, and truly the romance that attaches to His Majesty's favorite one is a thrilling and tender one. Long years ago, upon an occasion when King George IV. gave a State ball, he was attracted by the exquisite aroma of a certain perfume used by Princess Esteshazy. His Majesty enquired the name of the scent and was told that it was Ess Bouquet. Immediately he sent a large order to the inventor and maker of the perfume, Mr. Barley, a far-famed purveyor, who was the maker of scents and powders for royalty and society since the days of Queen Ann, and from that time onward until his death Ess Bouquet became the monarch's favorite perfume. Still, from their treasure house in St. Martin's lane, the same firm send out the same scent. It has a peculiarly delicate and refined aroma, and for that reason the Queen finds it always acceptable and pleasant.

A perfume that has a triumphant vogue among the Russians in high life is called Esprit Unis. The Czarina herself uses it, and sends to London for it. The Russians are very good and lucrative customers to the makers of perfumery, for it flows like water as a spray in their apartments, and in the little ornamental fountains that decorate their drawing-rooms and state apartments, among the utmost luxury that prevails in rare flowers and plants especially in St. Petersburg during the long winter season.

The recipe of a favorite and popular scent, such as the Ess Bouquet just mentioned is as precious as a big fortune to its owner. Only the heads of the firm know to this day what they knew in the days of Queen Ann—namely, the precise treatment that is needed to compose it—and from generation to generation the secret has been handed down. A neat little business is done by fraudulent persons, who profess to sell recipes of famous perfumes which, when carried out, will cost, per bottle, about half as much as the ordinary scent; but those who are foolish enough to be taken in always find that, even though the ingredients may have been correctly purloined, the process of distillation is completely stated, and so the result is not what it ought to be.

Tons of roses and other deliciously scented flowers are specially grown and expressed every year for the perfume market. Chemistry is so wonderfully developed a science now that scents closely imitative of those produced by the flowers themselves are procured from coal tar, but old-fashioned methods are best, and perfumes expressed from real flowers cannot be equalled by "made up" scents for beauty and refinement. Bulgaria is a great country for the distillation of attar roses, which is used in so many ways by perfumers and soapmakers. It is a precious product that costs about £5 per ounce.

The way in which the true aroma of a perfume can be thoroughly enjoyed is not by putting some on a handkerchief and smelling it that way through cambric, but by employing a spray, which seems to divide the perfume into its exponent parts. The person who wishes to enjoy the aroma to the full should stand some two feet or so from the operator. Dabbed on the temples behind the ears, beneath the nostrils, and on the wrists, scent is most potent, and refreshing waters like eau de cologne and lavender can be used in such a way upon sick people with a very pleasant and vitalizing effect.

Old-fashioned scents such as the above, as well as lily of the valley, wallflower, and violet, continue to have a steady sale. There is a new Japanese odor called Fusyama which is building up its claims to fame while anyone who pines for the Scotch moors in vain can almost fancy he is there in person as well as in thought by sniffing a bottle of perfume appropriately called "Braemar."

Many ladies use scent in the form of sachets to perfume their clothes. The newest sachet is of enormous size. Made to fit the bottom of a drawer, lying quite flat, it is composed of layers of scented flannel. Wealthy women often have their wardrobes lined with sachets.

Baby's Birth.

How many a woman dates a life of chronic invalidism from baby's birth. She tries "different doctors and different medicines" with little benefit. Then, fortunately her attention is called to the remarkable cures resulting from the use of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription, and she gives the medicine a trial. Her experience is that of ninety-eight women out of every hundred who use "Favorite Prescription" for womanly ills—she is cured.

Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription is peculiarly a mother's medicine. Its use before maternity makes the baby's advent practically painless. It gives the mother strength to nurse her child. It cures diseases peculiar to women and cures them permanently.

There is no alcohol, opium, cocaine or any other narcotic in "Favorite Prescription." It is purely a vegetable preparation and cannot disagree with the weakest constitution.

Mrs. Emerson Allen, of Dorset, Ontario, Can., writes: "I can truly say that I think Dr. Pierce's medicines the best I have ever used. I was in very poor health for a long time, dating from the birth of my little girl. I tried different doctors and different medicines. I derived very much more benefit from your medicines than from any other I have ever used. I took four bottles of 'Favorite Prescription' and three bottles of 'Golden Medical Discovery,' and I always keep the 'Pellets' in the house."

Dr. Pierce's Common Sense Medical Adviser, paper bound, is sent free on receipt of 31 one-cent stamps to pay expense of customs and mailing only. Address Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.

ANOTHER RAILWAY

IN CHINA.

The Russian government in China is contemplating the construction of another railway in China. The course of the new line, as at present projected, will run from Samarkand to Hankow, via Chodsched, Margitan, and through one of the Pamirs. Should this route be ultimately followed, it will involve the boring of a tunnel through the Koshgor Mountains. Koshgor is the center of the transit trade between Russian Central Asia and East Turkestan, and the new overland route will either run to Chatan thence to Tschortschen, and Tschortjok at the Lobnor Lake, or it will traverse the Tannu Valley from the Lobnor Lake the line will stretch through one of the passes in the Altai Mountains to the Tsouian Plateau, thence along the Semenov Mountains through the Hoango Valley, to Lautschow. This town is the capital of the province of Kansu which possesses a population of 11,000,000 persons, so that the railroad will serve a very thickly populated country. After leaving Lautschow the railway will extend to the province of Shensi and thence through the Hankiang River valley to Hankow. The railway, if constructed on these projections, will prove of immense service to Russia, since it will enable the products of Russian Central Asia to be carried and marketed at the great center of Chinese trade. Then again Hankow is in steamer connection with the rich province of Szechuan, which boasts a population of 46,000,000.
