Disasters to our Shipping.—The Halifax Evening Express of the 13th instant furnishes the following unpleasant intelligence:—

The schr. Aurora, from Tryon, P. E. I., with a cargo of produce for this port, got on shore yesterday at Trump Cap, on the East side of the harbour. Immediately on receipt of the intelligence, the Admiral, Sir Alexander Milne, promptly ordered H. M. S. Nimble to proceed to the vessel and ascertain if she required any assistance. The steamer immediately went down to the Aurora, and Capt. D'Arcy reported to the Admiral that he had proceeded to the schooner and found her high and dry on the Trump Cap shoal, close to McNab's Island, that she was a vessel of 46 tons from P. E. I., and that previous to the arrival of the steamer, the master and crew had left for Halifax, leaving her in charge of the pilot. Capt. D'Arcy, finding that he could render no assistance, returned in the Nimble. Later in the day the schr. Ariel from the same place got on shore on Devil's Island.

French War Steamer Blown up.—By telegraph to Halifax on the 12th inst., says the Express, a French steamer was blown up recently off Charleston. It is reported to-day in the city that this vessel is the French war steamer Prony, lately in harbour here. The French war steamer Pomone sailed this morning at half-past ten, destination not known, but supposed that she is going to look after the survivors of the Prony.

The schr. Dashaway, of Halifax, Capt. Densdale, at New York from Jacmel, was chased by a brig, 20th October, in Crooked Island Passage. The brig pursued the schr. for two days, and then stood off N. E.—she carried four staysails and royal, was very rakish, all black, and sailed very fast. On the 25th, lat. 35, lon. 94, saw a pilot-boat rigged schooner, painted black, carrying a large flying topsail—supposed her to be a privateer. On the 25th of Oct., lat. 20, lon. 94, the Dashaway carried away her mainmast in a squall from S. S. W.; since then had very heavy gales.

From Newfoundland.—The steamer Merlin arrived at Halifax on the 12th inst. from St. John's, N. F., which port she left on Saturday, 9th. His Excellency the Governor in Council has appointed Hon. Laurence O'Brien, Hon Captain Carter, Hon. Nicholas Stabb, Ambrose Shea, Edmund Hanraham, and Wm. Vallance Whiteway, Esquires, Commissioners to adopt the necessary measures in order that this Colony may be represented at the "International Exhibition of Works of Industry and Arts to be held in London in 1862," and also appointed Frederick Newton Gisborne, Esq., the Representative Commissioner in London, for the same purpose.

The Supreme Court had been engaged in the trial of Messrs. Hogsett, Daley and Power, for aiding and abetting the mob that caused destruction to property in the town of St. John's, on the night of the day the Legislature was convened. The trial occupied several days, but the sudden and unanticipated illness of one of the jurors after they had gone out to deliberate, led to the discharge of the jury before they had agreed upon their verdict. The presumption is that a new jury will have to be called, and the whole case re-submitted.

We take the following from the Commercial Journal:—We have to report a continuance of the bad weather to which we referred in our last. Since then we have not had a day fit to handle dry fish, and the many Labrador vessels now here are detained in consequence. Whilst such weather continues there is no chance of doing business

An inclination to speculate in Oil is perceptible, but the very small quantity to be procured this season makes any such operation of little moment. Salmon abundant at our quotations.

Breadstuffs are in demand.

Salted Provisions are rather dull.

THE GOLD FIELD AT LUNENBURG, N. S.

Gold.—Lots of Gold are at the Ovens' Gold Diggings. Thousands of pounds worth has been taken out of the Cunard sand claims, and they still continue as rich as ever. Many other shore claims have proved rich, others scarcely worth the having. Numbers of persons have been at work about the Ovens' Diggings this season from all parts of the Province. Next year it will be a perfect bee hive, as no doubt there will be thousands of persons digging there for the hidden treasure. It is now an established fact that the Ovens is a rich Gold field.

Town of Lunenburg.—The pretty little Town of Lunenburg is only 4 miles from the Diggings. Every house in it is now taken up. Applications to purchase are made every day, and next summer lands and houses will be at a high figure; even now properties are changing hands. The trustees of the Common are now at work laying off building lots on both sides of the public roads, running through an extensive common, for the purpose of leasing for 99 years to persons anxiously seeking for building lots. The Town of Lunenburg is rapidly improving, and bids fair to become at an early day one of the most active and busy ports in the Province of Nova Scotia. Report says we are to have a Steamer running almost hourly next season between the Town and the Ovens. Then give us an establishment capable of supplying all the wants of our unequalled class of fishing vessels, and we shall go ahead with rapid strides. All strangers coming among us are delighted with our little Town. We have 5 Churches in the Town all well cared for; a Court House, and other neat public buildings; a beautiful Harbour most convenient for carrying on Trade and the Fishing; and the splendid surrounding scenery will speak for itself. To parties possessing any capital the inducements for settling in the Town or neighborhood of Lunenburg are becoming greater and greater every day, and I undertake to assert that there is not a more healthy place to reside in, in the Province of Nova Scotia.

Among the present visitors at the Gold Diggings is Colonel Butler and Son, A. Gesner, Mr. Pool, &c. The several Ferry Boats are still running every day, and occasionally both of our famous packets conveying passengers to the Gold field. We have two very convenient packets constantly running between Lunenburg and Halifax, and they are well cared for by the respective owners.

The Pacific Telegraph.—The N. Y. World of the 26th ult., says: "We chronicle to-day the completion of a telegraphic line stretching from the Atlantic to the Pacific coast, across the whole North American continent. At Cape Race the little wire begins, almost where the toiling surges are scourged landward to the stormy coasts of Labrador, and continues in an unbroken length down through the British Provinces and our own New England States to the commercial emporium of the continent, across the Empire State, through and over the great valleys of the Ohio and Mississippi, and the verdurous prairies of the West, over the sterile deserts as well, and through the passes of the great mountain range which is the backbone of the continent, along the Great Salt Lake basin, and down the shining valleys of that Eldorado until it touches the very portals of the Golden Gate.

We have received a copy of the Charleston Courier of the 26th ult., brought to Bermuda by the Confederate War vessel Nashville. She arrived off H. M. S. Dockyard, Bermuda, on the 30th ult, and coaled the following day. The Bermuda Mirror says:—

"The Nashville came out of the harbor of Charleston in a strong gale of wind during the night, and ran directly for the first ship of the blockading squadron, and as she ran stem on in the dark, she was hailed from the Federal war vessel to lough and keep clear, which she gladly did, making in the same way for another and another of the Federal vessels, from each of which she was hailed with the request to keep clear, and so she passed through. We believe she will sail to-day for Europe. More we will know of her by Wednesday. Her movements are kept strictly private.

The population of Newfoundland according to the latest census, is 122,638. Of these, 56,895 are Roman Catholics, and 65,743 are Protestants. Among the Protestant population the leading denominations are the church of England and the Wesleyans,—the former numbering 44,385; the latter 20,229. Protestants have thus a majority of 8,848 in the whole colony. In St. John's, the Capital, the Roman Catholics are concentrated in considerable strength, their numbers being 21,900; while Protestants ammount to but 6,694.

Ben Christmas.—The Rev. S. T. Rand, under date of the 26th ult., thus writes to the Editor of the Christian Messenger:

"It has become my painful duty to state, that during my late tour in New Brunswick, I learned from various sources that my former brother and coadjutor, Ben Christmas, has relapsed into his old sins of intemperance and fraud. As he is reported to be in the habit of presenting certificates of good moral character, from Dr. Forrester and myself, it is but an act of simple justice to himself, as well as to the public and ourselves, to give due notice that those certificates have, by his improper conduct since they were given been forfeited."
—Acadian Recorder.

The statement published by Capt. Orlebar concerning the rock off Lyle's wharf is not credited by our sea-faring men.

MOB LAW SUPREME.

One of the Roman emperors gave a philosopher a little state wherein to reduce to practice the Platonic theory of a perfect republic. We are told that after a sufficient probation the philosopher reappeared in the imperial presence ragged and beaten, and implored an opportunity of continuing the experiment under the protection of a small army. Under a larger scale, but with a less perfect theoretical purity, we have seen the same experiment tried in our time. We can see now how it fulfils the promises made on its behalf. We are not talking now about material advantages; we are speaking only of the supremacy of mind over matter, of the freedom of thought, of the undisturbed action of temperate reason, of the liberty of moderate persuasion, of the toleration of discussion. We are, indeed, speaking only of a small portion even of this; for we desire only to point attention how, in the purest Democracy which the world has ever known, fares the liberty of political discussion by the newspaper press.

At Haverhill, in Massachusetts, there was a political discussion between the Democrat and some opposing newspaper as to the political bearings of the American civil war. We assume that the men of Massachusetts were in doubt upon the point in dispute; for, if their minds had been settled, of course they would have been satisfied to let both papers say what they pleased. The mode they took to resolve their doubts was this; first, they lay in wait for Mr. Ambrose Kimball, the editor of the Haverhill Democrat. Having caught him, they stripped him of his clothes, and brought him near to a cauldron of hot tar. By a liberal application of this unctuous substance they at once accorded him a substitute for the clothes they had taken from him, and quickened his apprehension of political principles. But as even pure reason is not always fully appreciated when unadorned by some graces of style, they then ripped up the ticking of a feather bed, and gave lightness and ornament by shaking out the feathers over the sticky political disputant. These, however, were only the major and the minor premises of the Democratic syllogism, and there was something so glutinous in the form that the conclusion would not come out.

To overcome this difficulty they took a long rail from a hedge, and split down a portion of its middle part. Several pure worshippers of liberty and freedom and unfettered discussion upheld one end of this rail, and others equally energetic upheld the other. Whether this material logical process was a synthesis or an analysis, an induction or a deduction, is a question we refer to Aristotle or Thomas Aquinas, or Aldrich, or Archbishop Whately, or Mr. Buckle, but upon it that feathered and adhesive biped, to wit, Ambrose Kimball, was placed astride. He was seated just in the middle of the rail, where it had been split, and where by the natural law the slit, with its sharp edges, would widen with the imposition of his weight. Having got him thus, not exactly upon the horns of a dilemma, but upon the edges of this incisive sorites, they bore him along, and, after many vibrations, so strongly was the argument borne in upon him, that we are told "he recanted, promising to publish no more articles in favour of secession." We implore the survivors of the great authorities on dialectics whom we have cited to give a name to this new form of ratiocination as practised in this pure Democracy, for it has an advantage never claimed by any logician for the old "ars instrumentalis dirigens mentem in cognitione rerum." It produced instant conviction, and Haverhill is not now only purely Democratical, but absolutely unanimous as to all matters political.

Pure Democracy is not so poor in invention that the tar and the feathers and the rail are the only three steps to conviction. Wherever there is a minority there is a necessity for democratic logic, and whenever that necessity occurs it is met by a great fertility of expedients. We recently published a long list of argumentative processes by which newspapers, which must have represented the sentiments of great multitudes—or otherwise in a country like America they could not have existed—have been convinced of the fallacy of their own argument. These processes are now called by the vulgar names of "mobbings," "warnings," "governmental seizures," "stoppages at the post office," and such like.—Times.

Debating Club.—On Friday the 8th inst., the discussion on Protective Duties was resumed, and ably kept up till 10 o'clock. The questione "Ought Island Manufactures to be encouraged by protective duties," was then put and carried in the affirmative, 14 to 10.

The following question was discussed on Friday evening last, viz: "Should the advocate defend the prisoner whom he believes to be guilty?"—Mon.

A New Band.—We have it on good authority that a new Band is about to be formed in Charlottetown; and that the necessary funds for the object were subscribed in a short time, though quietly, and His Excellency the Lieut. Governor headed the list with the very handsome sum of Seventy pounds. The order for the instruments went out in the last steamer for England. This step will supply a want long felt by the community.—Ross's W.

The Barks Garland and Flying Cloud, of Port Hill, sailed from New York for England, the first on the 29th ultimo, and the latter on Sunday last, both laden with grain.
