Morley's Pride Destroyed; 2 Drivers Suffer Injuries

A collision which sent two drivers to hospital and forced one horse to be destroyed, marred last night's nine-dash race card at the Charlottetown Driving Park.

Morley's Pride, owned by Jack Annear of Montague and reined by son Ralph, collided with Janet M, owned by Dr. Preston MacIntyre of Montague, and reined by Walter Downe of Charlottetown in the sixth dash on the first turn the second time around and as a result both horses and drivers were thrown.

Morley's Pride suffered a broken leg and had to be destroyed while both drivers were hospitalized with injuries. Ralph Annear suffered a broken leg while Walter Downe suffered minor back injuries.

A $425.60 exactor highlighted the pari-mutuel pays. The lone ticket-holder had the right combination of Audrey's Pride and Paula Clegg. There were no win tickets on Audrey's Pride so Paula Clegg paid off in the win column.

TWO DOUBLE WINNERS

There were two double dash winners on the card. Col. Dan's Blue Sky Lark, reined by Emmett Bernard, swept both dashes of a Junior free-for-all, and Helen's Dream, owned by Mrs. James Poulton of Charlottetown and driven by Harry Poulton, took both ends of an A and B pace.

Other winners were Victory Gallon, Paula Clegg, Torrid Waters and Arturo Hanover.

Blue Sky Lark stepped the fastest mile at the night in his second appearance, 2:10 2/5. His first outing was 1/5 of a second slower. Audrey's Pride took a new mark of 2:14/1 in notching his lone victory.

Other feature pays were as follows: first double — $18.90; second double — $5.70; quinella — $41.

THE BIG HERO

Tom Tresh, New York Yankee left fielder, slides into second base after doubling in the fourth inning of yesterday's ball game. Tresh scored later in the inning and then blasted a three-run homer in the eighth to lead the Bombers to a 5-3 decesion and a 3-2 lead in the world series.

Yanks Trip Giants 5-3; Tresh Poles 3-Run Homer

By JACK HAND

NEW YORK (AP) —Rookie Tom Tresh ruined a stout pitching effort by Jack Sanford with a three-run homer in the eighth inning Wednesday for a 5-3 New York Yankees victory over San Francisco Giants in the fifth World Series game.

The triumph gave the American League champs a 3-2 edge in the best-of-seven series.

Until young Tresh hammered Sanford's pitch into the lower deck in right field, about 360 feet away, following singles by Tony Kubek and Bobby Richardson, the Yanks vaunted power had consisted of runs scored on a wild pitch and a passed ball.

Sanford, a three-hit shutout winner in the second game, had just struck out his 10th man, his pitching opponent, Ralph Terry, when the Yanks struck without warning.

Kubek singled sharply to right field and Richardson lined a single to left. Al Dark, manager of the Giants, bounced out of the dugout to confer with Sanford but decided to let him continue.

The broad - shouldered right hander threw one ball to Tresh. The next sailed into the lower deck. It was Tresh's first series homer.

BREAKS STRING

Terry, the man who threw the decisive home run ball to Pittsburgh's Bill Mazeroski in 1960 and the loser of the second game of this series, finally broke his string of four series defeats with an eight-hit effort.

Today is an open date for travel with the sixth game scheduled for Candlestick Park in San Francisco on Friday. The seventh game, if necessary, will be played on the same site on Saturday.

Billy Pierce (16-6), loser of Sunday's third game is the pitching choice for the Giants in Friday's encounter with either Whitey Ford (17-8) or Bill Stafford (14-9) going for the Yankees.

Many among the crowd of 63,- 651 at Yankee Stadium second-guessed Ralph Houk, Yankee manager, when he let Terry bat leading off the last of the eighth with the score tied at 2-2. But it paid off although Terry soon became Sanford's 10th strikeout victim.

RALLY IN NINTH . .

Terry wasn't home safely yet, despite Tresh's three-run blast. Willie McCovey opened the ninth with a single. After Felipe Alou struck out, Tom Haller doubled to left centre, beyond the reach of Mickey Mantle, and McCovey scored. Jose Pagan, leading hitter of the series and the man who hit a home run in the fifth inning, came up in a spot where a homer would level the score. Terry made him ground to Kubek at short.

Still it wasn't over. Out of the Giant dugout came Ed Bailey a dangerous long ball hitter who swings from the left side. Bailey lofted a long fly to right but Roger Maris was there to make the catch for the game-ending out.

The Giants had scored first in this game, played under sunny skies after Tuesday's rainout. A single by Pagan, Sanford's sacrifice and a curling double to left by Chuck Hiller scored the run. Hiller is the stocky little fellow who hit the grand slam homer in the fourth game. Tresh made a long run for the ball and then dashed past it on the slippery turf.

PAGAN HOMERS IN FIFTH

Pagan's homer about 10 rows deep into the lower seats in left field leading off the fifth provided the other Giant run, once again giving the National League champs a one-run edge. This time it was 2-1.

But the way the Yanks scored their first two runs bordered on the scandalous for a team that is known in the Bronx Bombers. In the fourth a bloop hit by Tresh dropped off Pagan's glove in short centre for a double. After Mantle walked, Maris forced him at second and Tresh took third on the play. After Elston Howard struck out, up came Bill Skowron. Sanford's first pitch was a ball that got through catcher Haller. It was charged as a wild pitch against Sanford.

In the sixth inning, Richardson topped a ball down toward third base and barely beat Sanford's hurried off-balance throw to first by sliding in. Tresh sacrificed, moving Richardson to second but the slumping Mickey Mantle grounded out. Richardson moved to third on the play.

CATCHER MISSES BALL

With Maris at the plate and the count two balls and one strike, Sanford threw an outside pitch that Maris missed. Unfortunately for Sanford, his catcher also missed it. It rolled off to the left of the plate half way to the stands. Although Haller recovered and Sanford covered the plate, umpire Al Barlick ruled that Richardson was safe as he slid under Sanford's tag at the plate.

Elated at the victory, Houk paid tribute to Terry for a fine pitching job. "They sure don't come easy," he said.

Dark said Tresh hit a fast ball for the homer.

The Giant manager said he had not considered yanking Sanford when he went out to talk with him before Tresh hit the homer. "I just wanted to slow him down," he said.

Sanford almost had a triple play in the first inning when with men on first and second and nobody out Tresh lied back to the box. Sanford hesitated momentarily and finally threw to fihyifm.o double up Richardson. The return throw to Pagan, covering second, was too late to get Kubek.

Sanford really dominated the bottom half of the Yankee batting order. He struck out Terry and Skowron three times each and Howard twice. Kubek and Boyer were his other victims.

Midgets Are Great

THE world series and football and hockey all but crowded Charlottetown Abbies midget baseball team out of the sports picture.

However, the pleasant fact remains that Charlie Ryan's lads have annexed the New Brunswick-Prince Edward Island crown by drubbing St. Stephen Firemen by identical scores of 11-1 in two straight games. Now we understand they take on Halifax Orphans for the three-province baseball championship.

This feat of the local lads may have surprised a lot of folks around these parts but it certainly didn't surprise those patrons who watched these midgets perform all season. Although we saw them sprinkled among the intermediates in City Baseball League competition, we were able to appraise their worth. It was fast becoming an accepted fact that the midgets were among the outstanding baseball players of whom Charlottetown could boast.

WHEN Charlie picked them from the various teams and moulded them into a midget club, it was plain to see that Ryan had himself quite a young ball club. Their greatest opposition came from the Summerside lads who almost pulled an upset on them in the opening game of the provincial finals at Memorial Field.

But once the westerners were sidelined, the Abbies steamrolled over the St. Stephen outfit. These hometown youngsters had a big reputation before they fell victims to the Abbies. Their record was an impressive one against New Brunswick clubs but they were widely outplayed by the Abbies in the N.B.-P.E.I. playdowns.

We hope when the Abbies play at home against the Nova Scotia club that warm weather will be theirs. These boys deserve a big crowd of fans to watch them play and it isn't their fault that these playdowns run into the hockey season.

We're not sure at this time of writing when the Abbies host these Nova Scotians but we're asking right now for the wholehearted support of every sport fan in this region.

These youngsters are great little ballplayers and they deserve a packed Memorial Field when they perform.

On The Football Scene

St. Dunstan's and Prince of Wales teams were not able to garner a football win over the past weekend in Atlantic Football Conference action.

Saints are performing in the 'A' section and the Welshmen are strutting their stuff in the 'B' division.

The Welshmen played only an exhibition game at Frederic ton against UNB Jayvees and were taken rather handily by the Fredericton scholars. Monday they were scheduled to play against Saint John Wanderers in a league game but the heavy rains forced a postponement. The PWC boys had one other start this season, on September 29, when they bowed at St. Dunstan's field to St. Thomas College of Chatham, New Brunswick.

The same day Welshmen were losing at home, Saints managed to battle. UNB Varsity to a 7-7 tie at Fredericton. Last Saturday, badly riddled by injuries, they fell 14-20 victims of Shearwater Flyers. However Saints played good ball at times against their more experienced opponents. The lapse in the oening minutic of play and the one that followed the Saints' second major made the fourteen point difference.

Everything considered, it was a most creditable showing and folks in attendance were voicing those sentiments after the final whistle blew.

MONDAY at Mount Allison field in Sackville, Saints lost a heartbreaker, 2-0 to the Garnet and Gold.

We didn't see the action but those who were there tell us that Saints fought like trojans all afternoon on a rain-soaked field. Their quarterback, Fred Hamm was injured in the last play of the day and was forced to remain on the mainland for hospital treatment. When we wrote this, we weren't sure whether Fred would see action against the powerful St. Mary's Huskies this coming Saturday afternoon. Ripley came out of hospital last week to score two touchdowns for the Red and White against Shearwater.

Despite the failure to gain a point in the two games, we think the Red and White did a most respectable job.

Races Staged At St. John

SAINT JOHN, N.B. (CP) —A Fredericton-owned horse, Lord Willin C. picked up a pair of seconds in Wednesday night's first leg of the five-event autumn Gold Cup series at nearby Exhibition Park Raceway to open up a two-point lead over his nearest rival—Time To Go.

King O'Day finished first in the first half to give him five points on the night, with Time To Go winning the second half in 2:09.3, the fastest time of the night.

Lord Willin C. is owned by M. C. Tait of Fredericton.

At the completion of Wednesday night's two races, Lord Willin C. had compiled eight points to Time To Go's six. Marta Hal and King O'Day tied for third with five points apiece followed by a two-way tie for fifth between Mr. Dugan and Bad News with three points apiece.

Other dash winners on the eight-dash program included Sir John B., The Gladiator, Tinas Joe, Anconda, Rickyman and Flaming High.

Crystal Maid Is Winner

SALEM, N.H. (CP) — Crystal Maid, owned by H. Eric Whebby Dartmouth, N.S., won an nonbetting race Wednesday night at Rockingham Park over a slow track in 2:13.2.

Driver Dave Pinkeny, scoring from the four spot tucked in sixth to the half, was second at the three-quarters and crossed to win ahead of Happy Guy. Abe Scot was third.

Look Like Ordinary Players

It seems strange to see five games of a World Series go by without Willie Mays, Micky Mantle or Roger Maris hitting the ball out of the park. Mays started out with three hits in the first game, but since then you'd have to call his work at the plate "ineffective". Maris had two key hits in the series, driving in two runs on each occasion, and that puts him in the "better than average" class, but he hasn't shone too brightly. . . . . .

Mantle's effectiveness has been largely defensive, in centre field where his alert play has prevented extra bases on some of the Giant hits. He's just another "run-of-the-mill" batter at the plate. The series must go at least one more game, and if the Giant fans wish hard enough, it may go two. Will Mays or Mantle or Maris start showing us some of the feats that have made them super-stars of baseball?

Home runs have certainly played leading roles in victories although the leading men haven't been polling them out. Chuck Hiller and Tom Tresh virtually won the last two ball games with those drives into the bleachers, and Cletis Boyer's circuit smash turned out to be the winning run. Haller, the big Giant catcher, pretty nearly made a decisive contribution to the Giant cause when his drive into the crowd was foiled by a very narrow margin with one man on base. Ed Bailey almost tied the score in the ninth inning with a drive right which Maris caught pretty close to the bleacher wall.

Life Full Of Such Consequences

Life is full of such hair-splitting consequences. How many times have you thrown that bowling ball just perfect for a strike, and found you had crowded the head pin instead? Chuck Hiller has established himself pretty well as a hero at the plate and a goat at the keystone sack. He had another fumble yesterday that made things hard for Sanford, but his run-scoring double made up for it.

Tuesday, due to an occupational roadblock, we had to listen to the radio instead of looking at TV during the hour when the baseball commissioner was deciding whether the ball game would start or not, and we heard some good stories from those radio announcers. Joe Garagiola tells of catching a rookie pitcher when Stan Musial was up. The rookie shook off all his signs so he went up to him and said: "You don't want to pitch anything I signalled for, and I signalled for everything you can pitch, so what do you want to do?" The rookie looked once more at Musial standing at the plate, and said: "I'd like to hold on to the ball as long as possible."

Drawing Near Hockey Season

The fact that hockey meetings are being called is a sign we are drawing near to the threshhold of another hockey season. Nothing is certain yet, as to the set-up of this year's senior league, but rumors are floating around, such as: the RCAF will ice their own hockey team in the Island Senior League this year, and the Aces will be minus such good talents as Doug Tucker, Bill Smith and Irv Walsh. Another rumor has it that the Evinrudes and Aces may join forces this year. As week or so should tell the true story.

Tresh Was Seeking 'Any Kind Of A Hit'

NEW YORK (AP) — Tom Tresh said he was trying only for a single when he blasted a three-run homer in the eighth inning Wednesday to give New York Yankees a 5-3 fifth-game victory over San Francisco Giants in the World Series.

"I choked up on the bat and was trying to get a hit—any kind of a hit," the 26-year-old left fielder explained over the din of the winning dressing room

"I hadn't seen any good pitches all day from Jack Sanford (the Giant pitcher) and wasn't expecting any. But when he fast ball came over the middle of the plate I took a fuller swing than I intended— and that was it."

The ball sailed into the right field stands about 10 rows above the 344-foot marker and Tresh trotted home behind Tony Kubek and Bobby Richardson, who had singled.

The blow broke a 2-2 tie and the victory gave the Yankees a 3-2 lead in the series.

BIGGEST THRILL

"Certainly it was the biggest hit I've ever made in my life, and my biggest thrill," the handsome young six-footer from Taylor, Mich., told questioners, who crowded around him.

"I was especially happy because my dad and mom were in the stands, along with my wife.

Tresh's father, Mike Tresh, a former catcher for Cleveland Indians and Chicago White Sox, started Tom in baseball and discouraged him from undertaking a career behind the bat "like the old man."

"He saw I had speed and he told me catchers didn't last as long as infielders and outfielders because of the strain on their legs," Tom explained.

Old Mike Tresh, looking fit enough to don the pads of a catcher still, came down to the dressing room later and posed for pictures with his illustrious offspring, one of the individual stars of the current series.

"Where were you sitting?" somebody asked Mike Tresh.

"I wasn't sitting—I was jumping up and down," the father said

'We Played Badly', Says 'Frisco Mentor

NEW YORK (AP)—"That's the worst game we've played in a long time right there," San Francisco manager Alvin Dark said tiredly and sad after New York Yankees in Wednesday's fifth game of the World Series.

"We played badly today . . . we played bad."

But the Giants' manager said he had no intention of taking pitcher Jack Sanford out of the game when he went to talk with him moments before Tom Tresh crashed his game-winning home run in the eighth.

"I was just out there to slow him down," Dark said. "I had no thought of taking him out. He's pitched too well against the Yankees to take him out even though Don Larsen and Stu Miller were warming up."

LIFTED HIM QUICKLY

In the second National League playoff game against Los Angeles, Dark took Sanford out quickly when he walked the first man in the sixth. The Giants were ahead 5-0 but were eventually defeated in that game.

"This was an entirely different situation," said Dark. "That day Sanford tired and had a cold. This time he had four days rest."

Sanford didn't think he was tiring either, saying, "I thought I still had it. Alvin had just told me to try to keep the ball lower."

Catcher Tom Haller said they wanted a low pitch to Tresh but "Sanford got it up and he hit it."

The dejected hurler who beat the Yankees 2-0 in the second game, still maintained he had tagged Richardson at the plate in the sixth when the Yankees tied the count 2-2 Wednesday.

Dark was asked specifically where the Giants played poorly and replied, "didn't you see that first inning."

His club committed two errors yet escaped without giving up a run in that inning.

Leafs Edge Hawks 3-1

CHICAGO (AP) — Toronto Maple Leafs, the National Hockey League's Stanley Cup champions, picked up where they left off last spring, defeating Chicago Black Hawks 3-1 Wednesday night. The Hawks were the team the Leafs defeated in last season's cup final.

Neither team was brilliant on Chicago Stadium ice made sloppy by temperatures which during the day had ranged in the 80s, but Leafs were considerably better than the Hawks who, after the first 10 minutes, could do nothing right.

Toronto captain George Armstrong scored two of the Toronto goals and defenceman Bobby Baun got the other.

Right winger Kenny Wharram scored the Chicago goal, which tied the score 1-1 in the third period after Armstrong had scored.

Taylor Increases Lead In Rushing

NEW YORK (AP)—Jim Taylor of Green Bay Packers has increased his lead over Jim Brown for rushing honors in the National Football League but little Eddie LeBaron of Dallas Cowboys has taken over the top role among the passers from Detroit Lions' Milt Plum. Taylor, rushing more times than the Cleveland workhorse, has piled up 418 yards on 77 carries in four games for an average of 5.4 yards. Brown in 67 runs, has gained 331 yards for a 4.9 average.

LeBaron, a time Calgary Stampeder star has completed 44 of 70 attempts for 659 yards, a top percentage of 62.9, five touchdowns and 10.9 yards average—9.41 yards per pass.

Plum has made good on 64 of 108 passes for 890 yards, a percentage of 59.3, nine touchdowns and a 8.24 average per throw.

The passing standings are based on touchdown passes, per cent of completion, average yards gained and per cent of interceptions.

LeBaron has had only two passes intercepted to Plum's five.

Other leaders include perennial scoring champion Paul Hornung of Green Bay in scoring with 55 points; Tommy McDonald of Philadelphia Eagles in pass receiving with 24 grabs and 412 yards; Herb Adderley and Willie Wood of Green Bay on pass interceptions with four each; Yale Lary of Detroit in punting with a 48.2 average; Perrvis Atkins of Los Angeles Rams in punt returns with an average of 17.8, and Bobby Mitchell of Washington in kickoff returns with a 30.4 average.

5 Teams Enter ISHL For 1962-63

The Island Senior Hockey League will operate again this season but it still is not certain who will operate the Charlottetown Sports Arena for the 1962-63 season.

An arena spokesman said last night at a general meeting of the ISHL at the Armouries that an announcement is expected in the next couple of days but that one thing was certain "the Arena will operate."

Again the league will comprise five teams. They will be Sandy's Royals, Summerside Crystals, Cape Traverse Evinrudes, Old Spain Penguins and RCAF Summerside, whose bid to enter a team in the league was accepted at last evening's meet.

SDU spokesman A. J. MacAdam said it was quite likely the college would not have a team in the ISHL this season.

Team representatives were elected to the executive and they are as follows: Penguins— Dr. J. C. Theriault; Royals— George Gregory; Evinrudes— Claude Delaney; Crystals—Joe Clark; RCAF—Flt.-Sgt. Glen Mathews.

Team representatives were told by league president Danny McCormack that the CAHA magazine Hockey Canada is compulsory to all players competing in the ISHL at the rate of $1 per year along with the registration fee.

An executive meet to elect a new president, secretary, and treasurer, has been called for next Tuesday, Oct. 16th, at the Legion Home in Summerside.
